Clothing Is To Be Under Ration Plan

Henderson Says More Items Will Fall Under Rationing in Nation in 1943

Fuller Speaks

Sacrifice in Itself Is Not Enough, He Says, to Manufacturers

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—The American people today had it straight from Leon Henderson, price administration boss, that they could expect in 1943 rationing of more items — including clothing and food—and punishment of flagrant rationing violators.

Henderson made the forecast to 4,000 industrialists of the National Association of Manufacturers, who tonight wind up their three-day convention marked by pleas for less regimentation and—at the same time—promises of more.

Henderson told the industrialists last night that the American public had not yet reached the "bottom of the barrel" and that 1943 would bring "more czars, more red tape and rationing."

Nevertheless, he said, despite all the talk of the people's impatience "I know that the American public still has a barrel of patience overflowing."

Henderson said one of the biggest mistakes the government had made was in underestimating industry's productive capacity and he congratulated the manufacturers for their record, "the greatest of all time."

He said 1943 additionally would bring more decentralization of the Office of Price Administration away from Washington, raising of sub-standard wages, and maintenance of present corporate practices.

But Walter D. Fuller, chairman of the N.A.M. board of directors and president of the Curtis Publishing Co., told a radio audience in an address in connection with the convention that curtailment was being carried to extremes, industries were being concentrated and plants shut down to an extent unnecessary for prosecution of the war.

He said:

"There seems to be a conviction among some of our administrators that sacrifice is an end in itself, that mortification of the flesh will win the war."

He said concentration of industry was an idea imported from England, and was "born in the great production drive that followed Dunkirk" when men and women worked at their jobs 70 hours and more a week, and it still was not enough.

Fuller said "fortunately, industry concentration is still largely in the talk stage," and expressed the opinion many steps could be taken for more efficient use of workers, including millions of government employes, which would help the situation before civilian plants would have to be shut down.

"The very lives of many small industries are at stake," he continued, "with all that this means to their employes and to the communities where these businesses are located. . . ."

He said that materials were already under control, so shutting down plants would not help.

Fuller asserted "we must do everything possible to avoid wrecking our business structure and distribution channels," to be ready to regain our standard of living when war ends.

F.D.R Orders W.P.A. Be Closed Completely

Program in Many States to Conclude by February 1; No Funds Needed Next Year, President Says

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP).—President Roosevelt today ordered complete liquidation of the work projects relief program.

The President, in a letter to Major General Philip B. Fleming, federal works administrator, said the W. P. A. rolls had greatly decreased through the "tremendouus increase in private employment, assisted by the training and re-employment efforts of its own organization, to a point where a national work relief program is no longer necessary.

Mr. Roosevelt ordered the closing out of all project operations in many states by February 1, 1943, and in other states as soon thereafter as feasible.

"By taking this action," the President said in his letter which he read to his press conference, "there will be no need to provide project funds for the Work Projects Administration in the budget for the next fiscal year."

Mr. Roosevelt said certain groups of workers still on the relief rolls may have to be given assistance by the state and localities; others would be able to find work on farms or in industry at prevailing rates of pay as private employment continues to increase.

"Some of the present certified war projects," he added, "may have to be taken over by other units of the Federal Works Agency or by other departments of the federal government. State or local projects should be closed out by completing useful units of such projects or by arranging for the sponsors to carry on the work.

"With these considerations in mind, I agree that you should direct the prompt liquidation of the affairs of the Works Projects Administration, thereby conserving a large amount of the funds appropriated to this organization."

Eyewitness Tells Battle Aftermath Of Japs' Defeat

Rescues at Sea Achieve Grand Finale When Grumman Smites Grinning Jap

(The drama has been told of the Japanese air and naval defeat in the Solomons from November 12-15 during which 28 of their ships were sunk. But here is new drama in the tragic scene after battle's end.)

By WILLIAM HIPPLE

Somewhere in the Solomon Islands, Nov. 15 (Delayed) (AP)—The Japs have fled.

They made another desperate attempt last night and early this morning to land troops and equipment on American-held Guadalcanal Island. Again our naval forces threw them back.

As I write this, four large Japanese transports lie beached and burning on the northwest coast of Guadalcanal. We understand our naval forces, including battleships and aircraft, have been pursuing the remainder of the Japanese transports and supporting warships, which are retiring to the northwest, and that many of the enemy ships have been sunk.

During last night I again saw the tremendous flames and flashes of guns in the channel in the Guadalcanal, Savo and Tulagi islands area as the United States forces blasted at Japanese trying to bring in transports.

As dawn came this third day of almost continuous naval and air battle over a wide area of the Solomons, I saw two Japanese transports burning and two others immobilized near the beach. Then our ships were dispatched with orders to polish them off. They did their work well and all soon were burning fiercely.

Today I hopped into the second seat of a seaplane piloted by Lieut. (J.G.) Hubert (Patches) Perry, of Phoenix, Ariz., who flies as expertly as he used to break broncos in Arizona ranches. We had orders to pick up survivors. Over the battle area, the water was a mass of oil littered with boxes, cans, shell cases, life rafts, life jackets, pieces of lumber and other debris.

The first live man we saw was a Jap clinging to a raft. We went low and waved we would pick him up. The Jap sailor hid behind the raft, probably thinking we were going to shoot him. We circled again and once more he hid.

Pilot Perry then gave up trying to save the Jap and continued looking for our own men. An unwilling Jap is dangerous in a situation like that. On another trip Lieutenant Perry had stopped to pick up a Jap. The Jap tried unsuccessfully to smash a wing with a club. So now Perry is wary.

U. S. Sailors Are Spotted

We soon saw our first American sailor in the water. He was waving weakly. We waved back, then circled, landed and taxied to him. I crawled from the rear seat, got on the pontoon under the fuselage, and held my leg out as far as possible. He caught hold and swung onto the pontoon. He was covered with oil. Black oil in his eyes made it impossible for him to

Buchalter and Aides Seek Stay in Sentence

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—Racketeer Louis (Lepke) Buchalter and two aides convicted of murder sought through attorneys today stay of their death sentence, pending appeal to the United States Supreme Court, as New York's governor considered pleas they be saved from the electric chair.

Conusel went to Washington to ask the Supreme Court for a stay of execution, scheduled for Thursday night in Sing Sing Prison, pending filing of a petition for review of the case.

Yesterday, at a hearing before Governor Charles Poletti, the attorneys renounced any claim to mercy and pleaded the men be saved from death "only for the sake of justice." One attorney termed the trial in which the men were convicted a year ago "a pure, unadulterated farce."

Poletti said he would "study the case minutely." He can commute the sentences of any one or all three to life imprisonment, give them a reprieve and postpone the date of execution, or refuse to intervene in any way.

Manufacture Curtailed

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—The War Production Board today curtailed the commercial manufacture of ice cream, frozen custard, milk sherbet and other frozen desserts of ice cream mix during December and January to conserve butterfat for butter. But, government officials were quick to point out that it was not planned to ban ice cream manufacture, though some new and fruity flavors might replace old standbys.

Asks Level Be Learned

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Adoption by the House of a bill to include all farm wages in figuring parity prices brought the comment from President Roosevelt today that the first thing to do was to find out the effect this would have on the cost of living. The President had taken a vigorous stand against this revised parity formula at the time anti-inflation legislation was before congress. Opponents of the bill contend it would raise the cost of living several billion dollars.

Kent Cooper Describes 20-Year War To End European Hold on World News

By W. J. EADS

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—A twenty-year crusade which broke up the first and most powerful world monopoly of the nineteenth century and opened news sources of the world to all news agencies was revealed today in the publication of "Barriers Down," the first book written by Kent Cooper, General Manager of the Associated Press.

When, in 1914, Cooper became acquainted with the ramifications and strength of the world news monopoly held by certain European news agencies, a struggle to correct the situation began which continued for two decades. The Associated Press, in order to get the news of the foreign monopoly, was itself under contract to furnish the news of the United States to the foreign pool.

Cooper interested the directors of the Associated Press in endeavoring to break the control of international news held by the three great European news agencies—Reuters of London, Havas of Paris and Wolff of Berlin. At a critical time in the effort, Cooper proposed to the United Press Association of New York that the Associated Press and the United Press sign an agreement that neither would make nor maintain any exclusive contracts with any European news agency. Such a contract was signed.

At an earlier date, "Barriers Down" discloses, Cooper advanced the idea of the Versailles treaty providing for a free press and freedom of international news exchange. His efforts, backed only by his own voice, were unsuccessful. The news barriers placed around Germany by Havas and Reuters after the first World War, the book points out, contributed to Hitler's rise to power and the eventual outbreak of the present war.

The crusade actually had its birth in a little cable message

Enforced Fuel Change Might Come

Davies, Deputy Oil Chief, Says National Conversion Has Been Disappointment

W.P.B. Has Power

Nelson Has Authority to Enforce Conversion, Davies Says

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum administrator, said today the time is near when domestic consumers of fuel who can convert their furnaces to burn coal may be forced to do so.

Appearing before a New England congressional delegation discussing the fuel oil shortage in that area, Davies said voluntary conversion has been "thoroughly disappointing."

"People who can convert at little expense are not doing so," he said. "They want to use oil as long as possible.

"I despair of getting results voluntarily. The time is near when we will have to force conversion."

Davies disclosed he was meeting later in the day with Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the W. P. B. to discuss a program to enforce conversion. He said the W. P. B. had the authority to issue the necessary order.

Davies said Petroleum Administrator Harold Ickes had recommended conversion by force some time ago, but so far no action had been taken.

"Now we hope to prevail upon the W. P. B. to issue the necessary order," he said.

Senator Walsh (D.-Mass.) asked Davies if it wasn't true that many users of fuel oil hadn't converted because they could not get the necessary equipment, the deputy administrator replied there were people who could change to coal with little trouble who are consuming "millions of barrels of oil."

"It is not unfair," he said, "to require in this critical situation the individual who has the equipment to burn coal to convert so his neighbor who cannot convert won't be cold."

Davies said the expression "freeze to death" was more than a figure of speech.

"Unless this oil situation is handled properly that could happen" he said. "We are dealing in human lives, military and domestic."

Ickes said, barring unforeseen obstacles, that it was hoped at least 75 per cent of last year's fuel oil consumption figure could be maintained this year for domestic users.

He said, however, this was contingent upon lower gasoline consumption as well as greater conversion of fuel oil heating plants.

Davies said "entirely too much" gasoline was being used non-essentially.

"The automobile is not restricted entirely to essential purposes today," he said. "Much more than essential gas is being used."

Optimistic Note

Boston, Dec. 4 (AP)—An optimistic note—approval of coal stoker applications that would indicate savings of 25,000,000 gallons of fuel oil by large users—was sounded today even as federal authorities surveying the New England oil shortage found it so serious that they laid plans for "probable doubling up of families."

In less than a month, the War Production Board has approved stoker applications for conversion to coal by large users of oil which indicate a seasonal saving of 25,000,000 gallons, William P. Homans, acting regional War Production board deputy director materials, said.

Homans added that beginning probably within three weeks, 1,000 class A automatic stokers would begin moving weekly into New England for large users. The stokers have a capacity up to 1,200 pounds of fuel per hour. No stokers will be approved, however, for places in which owners can convert to hand-firing of boilers, Homans declared.

Despite the trend to conversion, officials regarded the situation as so serious that preparations would have to be made for doubling up of families and closing down of all non-essential establishments.

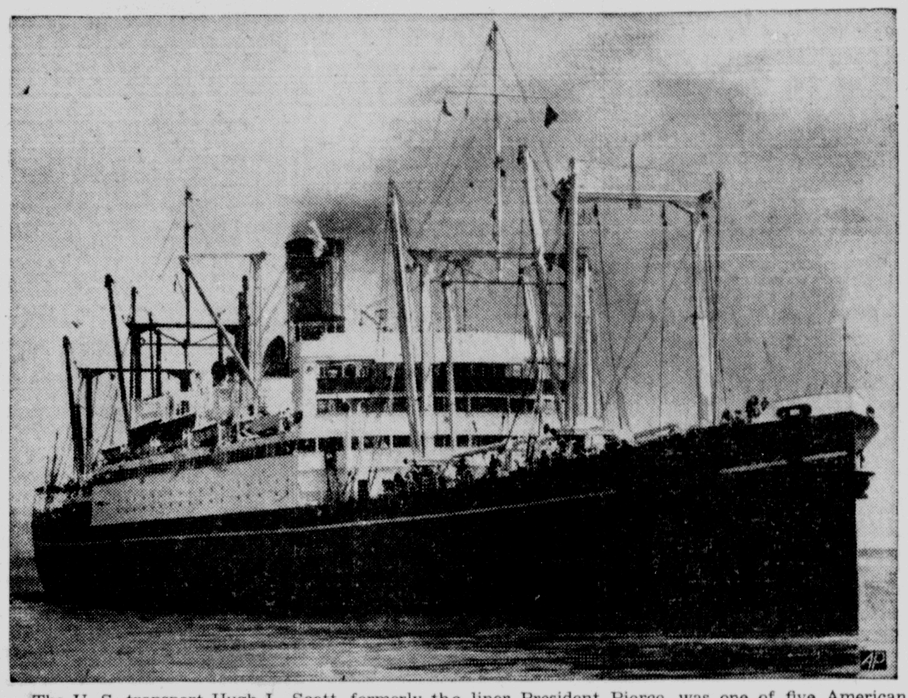

City's Air Raid Sirens To Be Given Daily Tests

Starting Saturday at 12 o'clock noon the city's air raid alarm sirens will be tested daily at this hour, with the exception of Sundays, it was announced today by Mayor William F. Edelmuth.

The decision to hold daily tests of the alarm sirens is due to the fact that at the surprise blackout on Wednesday night the siren on top of the Central Fire Station did not sound an alarm. It has since been repaired and is now in working order.

Allies Face Costly War in Tunisia

Hitler's Intention Seems to Be to Give Every Possible Resistance

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWit Mackenzie, is written today by Glenn Babb. Mr. Mackenzie, now touring the Middle East war zone, is expected to resume shortly).

Hitler obviously has managed to transport a formidable force to dispute Tunisia with the United Nations and the campaign to clear the North African springboard for the invasion of Hitler's Europe promises to be one of the war's bitterest, perhaps long and costly for both sides. That is the import of the latest announcements from General Eisenhower's headquarters. Three days ago advance units of General Anderson's first army were fighting east of Djedeida, which is 12 miles west of Tunis. Yesterday the allies were fighting in the western outskirts of Djedeida. This can only mean that the first allied thrust from the west has encountered such resistance that at some points it has had to recoil while the command regroups and increases its forces.

The initial impetus of the allied drive, however, was sufficient to give control of the dominating points in the egg-shaped Djedeida-Tebourba-Mateur area, which a spokesman at headquarters describes as the key to the military situation in Tunisia. The Germans have been placed under the necessity of making costly counterattacks in the effort to break this control. Apparently it stands firm and the battle has entered a temporary standoff phase in which both sides must bend every effort to bring new striking power to bear.

Each side faces tremendous difficulties in its problem of reinforcement and supply. The British and Americans, provisioned from ports from 150 to 400 miles to the west, must contend with some of the world's worst roads, a rainy season and the constant attentions of the Nazi air force. General Nehring, the Nazi commander, must be supplied by air or sea, and the sea route across the Sicilian narrows, although short enough to permit moderately fast ships to make the passage between nightfall and dawn, is patrolled by the British navy and the allied air forces. Tuesday night four Axis transports were sent to the bottom by British warships; Wednesday night fliers got at least two more off the coast of Tunisia. Those are crippling blows. Even air transport has proved hazardous; large numbers of the big cargo and troop planes have been shot into the sea.

The fact that despite the high costs the Axis has moved such a force into Tunisia—some 14,000 front line combat troops and perhaps a like number in supply and other auxiliary units—proves not only the capacity of the Nazi high command but the intensity of its

Five Extra Nurses To Be Added to Health Department

City Will Be Divided Into Five Zones; Duties Include Care of Sick in Homes

Commencing the first of the year the staff on the city's health department will be augmented by five public health nurses in addition to the present nurse who has been employed by the department for a number of years.

Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, said today that the state health department would assign three of its public health nurses to the city, and that the city department would employ the other two additional nurses.

The entire staff of nurses will be under the direct supervision of Dr. Sanford.

In explaining the plan that will go into effect on January 1, Dr. Sanford said that the city will be divided into five zones and a public health nurse assigned to each zone.

The duties of these nurses will be to carry on a general public health program, including educational work; render assistance to physicians in the care of patients in the homes, including confinements, illnesses, bedside nursing, etc.

The nurses will also respond to calls where nursing care and instruction is needed; make home visits, to follow up work on cases of tuberculosis; social diseases, communicable diseases, etc.

The nurses will also increase public interest in the prevention of diphtheria and smallpox; promote and develop the clinics of the city, including prenatal, child welfare, baby clinics, etc. They will also promote the formation of nursing committees in the zones of the city, and will work in close cooperation with other agencies of the

Two-Day Storm Abates Upstate, But Temperatures Are Reported Low

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—Strong winds still buffeted western New York today and low temperatures held most of the state in an icy grasp after abatement of a two-day snow storm.

Many schools, forced to cancel classes because of snow-barricaded roads, remained closed. Most main highways were open and snowplow crews fought to clear secondary roads.

While the snow had ceased in Chautauqua county, the thermometer tumbled to about 10 above early today. Elsewhere, temperatures hovered around the 20-above mark and snow squalls lashed some areas.

Highways across the state were sheeted with ice or hard-packed snow that made travel perilous. Deep drifts blocked roads in the Malone area and also north of Utica, where state police earlier reported the villages of Remsen and Camden "snowed in."

At Buffalo, where the gale had diminished but still blew with damaging force, no lake freighters entered or left the harbor for the second straight day yesterday. Numerous small craft there and at Niagara Falls were torn from anchorages in the Niagara river and smashed ashore or swept away.

Eating and sleeping accommodations in Massena, near the state's northern border, were overtaxed as more than 3,000 persons were stranded in the war-booming village by two feet of snow. More than 1,000 were fed and sheltered in the town hall, while many school children and teachers remained in class rooms Wednesday night, the Red Cross helped feed the marooned throng and stores supplied blankets.

All roads into Rome were closed during the afternoon when plow crews quit because of the wind. Twenty-five telephone lines were down in that area, too.

Several streets in Oswego were blocked by fallen trees.

Japanese Fail

Reinforcements Unable to Land at Solomons Island

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Heavy blows to the Axis resounded on three fronts in the world's far-flung battle zones today.

Solomon Islands — American warships scored a big new victory over the Japanese off Guadalcanal, destroying nine more vessels in a night battle in which upwards of 8,000 to 10,000 enemy troops lost their lives.

Tunisia—American and British troops crushed a series of desperate German attempts to recapture key points on the approaches to Bizerte and Tunis, but heavy losses have been suffered on both sides and a decisive battle remains to be fought.

A German version asserted that American forces in Tunisia were on the defensive, pressed closely together, in a continuing battle around Tebourba, key rail junction 35 miles south of Bizerte and 20 wiles west of Tunis.

"A group of 60 enemy parachutists which landed south of Tunis had been surrounded and is facing annihilation," Nazi dispatches said.

By contrast, Allied headquarters last night declared the Germans had been hurled back in a second counterattack near Tebourba, which remained in Allied hands.

Russia — Soviet dispatches reported that the Red Armies had driven the last Germans from the north section of the Don river elbow, above Stalingrad, and punched another hole in the Nazi lines west of Rzhev on the blizzard-swept Moscow front, where Adolf Hitler was reported frantically rushing ill-trained reserves into action.

Inside Stalingrad, the Red Army command announced, Russian troops routed the Germans from a number of buildings in the ruined northside factory district, while on the southern outskirts of the city the Soviets captured a strongpoint covering the Nazi flank.

In the Solomons, the Navy announced that two Japanese troop transports, a cargo ship and six escorting warships were sent to the bottom when the enemy blundered into an American naval trap under cover of darkness Monday night.

The Navy said the Japanese attempt to land reinforcements for their dwindling forces on Guadalcanal—already short on "beans and bullets"—was completely frustrated.

"No landing was effected," the Navy said, and only a few Japanese sailors, rescued from life rafts, reached Guadalcanal as prisoners.

One U. S. cruiser was sunk and "other vessels damaged," the Navy said, but the Japanese lost four destroyers and two other warships, either cruisers or heavy destroyers.

Thus the Navy countered a boast by imperial Tokyo headquarters yesterday that a Japanese torpedo-attack flotilla had sunk an American battleship, a cruiser and two destroyers in "a fierce attack" off Guadalcanal on the same night.

Japan's loss, according to the Tokyo version, was a single destroyer.

On the Tunisian front, an Allied headquarters spokesman said the heavily reinforced Germans were apparently "ready to die for the Fuehrer" in defense of the Bizerte-Tunis sector along the northeast coast of the African buffer state, rather than attempt to escape by sea in "another Dunkerque."

After a bitter 48-hour battle, in which repeated German tank assaults were beaten off, American and British troops were reported re-grouping for a showdown.

An Allied spokesman said wrecked tanks littered the field when the smoke of battle cleared, but the Allies remained in control of two of the three key towns attacked by the Germans—Tebourba and Mateur—inside the original Axis defense perimeter.

Heavy fighting apparently still raged in Djedeida, 12 miles northwest of Tunis, with the Allies holding the western part of the town.

The spokesman said Djedeida changed hands several times in the fierce surge of battle, and declared that the second and final Nazi counterattack near Tebourba, 20 miles west of Tunis, was "repulsed with considerable destruction of enemy equipment."

The Berlin radio, but not the high command, claimed the recapture of Tebourba yesterday.

Then our ships were dispatched with orders to polish them off. They did their work well and all soon were burning fiercely.

Today I hopped into the second seat of a seaplane piloted by Lieut. (J.G.) Hubert (Patches) Perry, of Phoenix, Ariz., who flies as expertly as he used to break broncos in Arizona ranches. We had orders to pick up survivors. Over the battle area, the water was a mass of oil littered with boxes, cans, shell cases, life rafts, life jackets, pieces of lumber and other debris.

The first live man we saw was a Jap clinging to a raft. We went low and waved we would pick him up. The Jap sailor hid behind the raft, probably thinking we were going to shoot him. We circled again and once more he hid.

Pilot Perry then gave up trying to save the Jap and continued looking for our own men. An unwilling Jap is dangerous in a situation like that. On another trip Lieutenant Perry had stopped to pick up a Jap. The Jap tried unsuccessfully to smash a wing with a club. So now Perry is wary.

U. S. Sailors Are Spotted

We soon saw our first American sailor in the water. He was waving weakly. We waved back, then circled, landed and taxied to him. I crawled from the rear seat, got on the pontoon under the fuselage, and held my leg out as far as possible. He caught hold and swung onto the pontoon. He was covered with oil. Black oil in his eyes made it impossible for him to

Buchalter and Aides Seek Stay in Sentence

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—Racketeer Louis (Lepke) Buchalter and two aides convicted of murder sought through attorneys today stay of their death sentence, pending appeal to the United States Supreme Court, as New York's governor considered pleas they be saved from the electric chair.

Counsel went to Washington to ask the Supreme Court for a stay of execution, scheduled for Thursday night in Sing Sing Prison, pending filing of a petition for review of the case.

Yesterday, at a hearing before Governor Charles Poletti, the attorneys renounced any claim to mercy and pleaded the men be saved from death "only for the sake of justice." One attorney termed the trial in which the men were convicted a year ago "a pure, unadulterated farce."

Poletti said he would "study the case minutely." He can commute the sentences of any one or all three to life imprisonment, give them a reprieve and postpone the date of execution, or refuse to intervene in any way.

Manufacture Curtailed

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—The War Production Board today curtailed the commercial manufacture of ice cream, frozen custard, milk sherbet and other frozen desserts of ice cream mix during December and January to conserve butterfat for butter. But, government officials were quick to point out that it was not planned to ban ice cream manufacture, though some new and fruity flavors might replace old standbys.

Asks Level Be Learned

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Adoption by the House of a bill to include all farm wages in figuring parity prices brought the comment from President Roosevelt today that the first thing to do was to find out the effect this would have on the cost of living. The President had taken a vigorous stand against this revised parity formula at the time anti-inflation legislation was before congress. Opponents of the bill contend it would raise the cost of living several billion dollars.

By W. J. EAPS

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—A twenty-year crusade which broke up the first and most powerful world monopoly of the nineteenth century and opened news sources of the world to all news agencies was revealed today in the publication of "Barriers Down," the first book written by Kent Cooper, General Manager of the Associated Press.

When, in 1914, Cooper became acquainted with the ramifications and strength of the world news monopoly held by certain European news agencies, a struggle to correct the situation began which continued for two decades. The Associated Press, in order to get the news of the foreign monopoly, was itself under contract to furnish the news of the United States to the foreign pool.

Cooper interested the directors of the Associated Press in endeavoring to break the control of international news held by the three great European news agencies—Reuters of London, Havas of Paris and Wolff of Berlin. At a critical time in the effort, Cooper proposed to the United Press Association of New York that the Associated Press and the United Press sign an agreement that neither would make nor maintain any exclusive contracts with any European news agency. Such a contract was signed.

At an earlier date, "Barriers Down" discloses, Cooper advanced the idea of the Versailles treaty providing for a free press and freedom of international news exchange. His efforts, backed only by his own voice, were unsuccessful. The news barriers placed around Germany by Havas and Reuters after the first World War, the book points out, contributed to Hitler's rise to power and the eventual outbreak of the present war.

The crusade actually had its birth in a little cable message

Enforced Fuel Change Might Come

W.P.B. Has Power

Nelson Has Authority to Enforce Conversion, Davies Says

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum administrator, said today the time is near when domestic consumers of fuel who can convert their furnaces to burn coal may be forced to do so.

Appearing before a New England congressional delegation discussing the fuel oil shortage in that area, Davies said voluntary conversion has been "thoroughly disappointing."

"People who can convert at little expense are not doing so," he said. "They want to use oil as long as possible.

"I despair of getting results voluntarily. The time is near when we will have to force conversion."

Davies disclosed he was meeting later in the day with Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the W. P. B. to discuss a program to enforce conversion. He said the W. P. B. had the authority to issue the necessary order.

Davies said Petroleum Administrator Harold Ickes had recommended conversion by force some time ago, but so far no action had been taken.

"Now we hope to prevail upon the W. P. B. to issue the necessary order," he said.

Senator Walsh (D.-Mass.) asked Davies if it wasn't true that many users of fuel oil hadn't converted because they could not get the necessary equipment, the deputy administrator replied there were people who could change to coal with little trouble who are consuming "millions of barrels of oil."

"It is not unfair," he said, "to require in this critical situation the individual who has the equipment to burn coal to convert so his neighbor who cannot convert won't be cold."

Davies said the expression "freeze to death" was more than a figure of speech.

"Unless this oil situation is handled properly that could happen" he said. "We are dealing in human lives, military and domestic."

Ickes said, barring unforeseen obstacles, that it was hoped at least 75 per cent of last year's fuel oil consumption figure could be maintained this year for domestic users.

He said, however, this was contingent upon lower gasoline consumption as well as greater conversion of fuel oil heating plants.

Davies said "entirely too much" gasoline was being used non-essentially.

"The automobile is not restricted entirely to essential purposes today," he said. "Much more than essential gas is being used."

Optimistic Note

Boston, Dec. 4 (AP)—An optimistic note—approval of coal stoker applications that would indicate savings of 25,000,000 gallons of fuel oil by large users—was sounded today even as federal authorities surveying the New England oil shortage found it so serious that they laid plans for "probable doubling up of families."

In less than a month, the War Production Board has approved stoker applications for conversion to coal by large users of oil which indicate a seasonal saving of 25,000,000 gallons, William P. Homans, acting regional War Production board deputy director materials, said.

Homans added that beginning probably within three weeks, 1,000 class A automatic stokers would begin moving weekly into New England for large users. The stokers have a capacity up to 1,200 pounds of fuel per hour. No stokers will be approved, however, for places in which owners can convert to hand-firing of boilers, Homans declared.

Despite the trend to conversion, officials regarded the situation as so serious that preparations would have to be made for doubling up of families and closing down of all non-essential establishments.

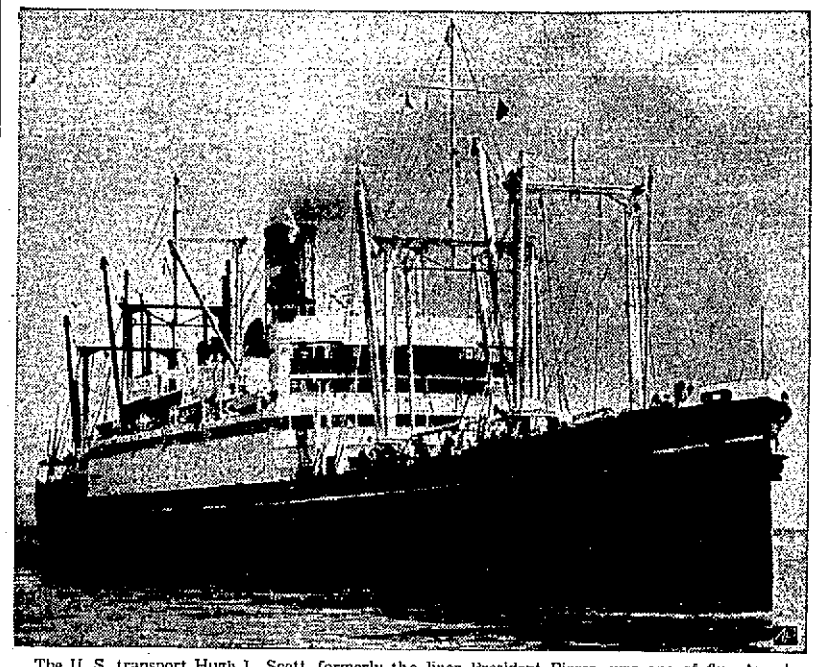

City's Air Raid Sirens To Be Given Daily Tests

Starting Saturday at 12 o'clock noon the city's air raid alarm sirens will be tested daily at this hour, with the exception of Sundays, it was announced today by Mayor William F. Edelmuth.

The decision to hold daily tests of the alarm sirens is due to the fact that at the surprise blackout on Wednesday night the siren on top of the Central Fire Station did not sound an alarm. It has since been repaired and is now in working order.

Allies Face Costly War in Tunisia

Hitler's Intention Seems to Be to Give Every Possible Resistance

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt Mackenzie, is written today by Glenn Babb. Mr. Mackenzie, now touring the Middle East war zone, is expected to resume shortly).

Hitler obviously has managed to transport a formidable force to dispute Tunisia with the United Nations and the campaign to clear the North African springboard for the invasion of Hitler's Europe promises to be one of the war's bitterest, perhaps long and costly for both sides. That is the import of the latest announcements from General Eisenhower's headquarters. Three days ago advance units of General Anderson's first army were fighting east of Djedeida, which is 12 miles west of Tunis. Yesterday the allies were fighting in the western outskirts of Djedeida. This can only mean that the first allied thrust from the west has encountered such resistance that at some points it has had to recoil while the command regroups and increases its forces.

The initial impetus of the allied drive, however, was sufficient to give control of the dominating points in the egg-shaped Djedeida-Tebourba-Mateur area, which a spokesman at headquarters describes as the key to the military situation in Tunisia. The Germans have been placed under the necessity of making costly counterattacks in the effort to break this control. Apparently it stands firm and the battle has entered a temporary standoff phase in which both sides must bend every effort to bring new striking power to bear.

Each side faces tremendous difficulties in its problem of reinforcement and supply. The British and Americans, provisioned from ports from 150 to 400 miles to the west, must contend with some of the world's worst roads, a rainy season and the constant attentions of the Nazi air force. General Nehring, the Nazi commander, must be supplied by air or sea, and the sea route across the Sicilian narrows, although short enough to permit moderately fast ships to make the passage between nightfall and dawn, is patrolled by the British navy and the allied air forces. Tuesday night four Axis transports were sent to the bottom by British warships; Wednesday night fliers got at least two more off the coast of Tunisia. Those are crippling blows. Even air transport has proved hazardous; large numbers of the big cargo and troop planes have been shot into the sea.

The fact that despite the high costs the Axis has moved such a force into Tunisia—some 10,000 front line combat troops and perhaps a like number in supply and other auxiliary units—proves not only the capacity of the Nazi high command but the intensity of its

Five Extra Nurses To Be Added to Health Department

City Will Be Divided Into Five Zones; Duties Include Care of Sick in Homes

Commencing the first of the year the staff on the city's health department will be augmented by five public health nurses in addition to the present nurse who has been employed by the department for a number of years.

Dr. L. E. Sanford, health officer, said today that the state health department would assign three of its public health nurses to the city, and that the city department would employ the other two additional nurses.

The entire staff of nurses will be under the direct supervision of Dr. Sanford.

In explaining the plan that will go into effect on January 1, Dr. Sanford said that the city will be divided into five zones and a public health nurse assigned to each zone.

The duties of these nurses will be to carry on a general public health program, including educational work; render assistance to physicians in the care of patients in the homes, including confinements, illnesses, bedside nursing, etc.

The nurses will also respond to calls where nursing care and instruction is needed; make home visits, to follow up work on cases of tuberculosis; social diseases, communicable diseases, etc.

The nurses will also increase public interest in the prevention of diphtheria and smallpox; promote and develop the clinics of the city, including prenatal, child welfare, baby clinics, etc. They will also promote the formation of nursing committees in the zones of the city, and will work in close cooperation with other agencies of the

Two-Day Storm Abates Upstate, But Temperatures Are Reported Low

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—Strong winds still buffeted western New York today and low temperatures held most of the state in an icy grasp after abatement of a two-day snow storm.

Many schools, forced to cancel classes because of snow-barricaded roads, remained closed. Most main highways were open and snowplow crews fought to clear secondary roads.

While the snow had ceased in Chautauqua county, the thermometer tumbled to about 10 above early today. Elsewhere, temperatures hovered around the 20-above mark and snow squalls lashed some areas.

Highways across the state were sheeted with ice or hard-packed snow that made travel perilous. Deep drifts blocked roads in the Malone area and also north of Utica, where state police earlier reported the villages of Remsen and Camden "snowed in."

At Buffalo, where the gale had diminished but still blew with damaging force, no lake freighters entered or left the harbor for the second straight day yesterday. Numerous small craft there and at Niagara Falls were torn from anchorages in the Niagara river and smashed ashore or swept away.

Eating and sleeping accommodations in Massena, near the state's northern border, were overtaxed as more than 3,000 persons were stranded in the war-booming village by two feet of snow. More than 1,000 were fed and sheltered in the town hall, while many school children and teachers remained in class rooms Wednesday night, the Red Cross helped feed the marooned throng and stores supplied blankets.

All roads into Rome were closed during the afternoon when plow crews quit because of the wind. Twenty-five telephone lines were down in that area, too.

Several streets in Oswego were blocked by fallen trees.

Japanese Fail

Reinforcements Unable to Land at Solomons Island

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Heavy blows to the Axis resounded on three fronts in the world's far-flung battle zones today.

Solomon Islands — American warships scored a big new victory over the Japanese off Guadalcanal, destroying nine more vessels in a night battle in which upwards of 8,000 to 10,000 enemy troops lost their lives.

Tunisia—American and British troops crushed a series of desperate German attempts to recapture key points on the approaches to Bizerte and Tunis, but heavy losses have been suffered on both sides and a decisive battle remains to be fought.

A German version asserted that American forces in Tunisia were on the defensive, pressed closely together, in a continuing battle around Tebourba, key rail junction 35 miles south of Bizerte and 20 miles west of Tunis.

"A group of 60 enemy parachutists which landed south of Tunis had been surrounded and is facing annihilation," Nazi dispatches said.

By contrast, Allied headquarters last night declared the Germans had been hurled back in a second counterattack near Tebourba, which remained in Allied hands.

Russia — Soviet dispatches reported that the Red Armies had driven the last Germans from the north section of the Don river elbow, above Stalingrad, and punched another hole in the Nazi lines west of Rzhev on the blizzard-swept Moscow front, where Adolf Hitler was reported frantically rushing ill-trained reserves into action.

Inside Stalingrad, the Red Army command announced, Russian troops routed the Germans from a number of buildings in the ruined northside factory district, while on the southern outskirts of the city the Soviets captured a strong point covering the Nazi flank.

In the Solomons, the Navy announced that two Japanese troop transports, a cargo ship and six escorting warships were sent to the bottom when the enemy blundered into an American naval trap under cover of darkness Monday night.

The Navy said the Japanese attempt to land reinforcements for their dwindling forces on Guadalcanal—already short on "beans and bullets"—was completely frustrated.

"No landing was effected," the Navy said, and only a few Japanese sailors, rescued from life rafts, reached Guadalcanal as prisoners.

One U. S. cruiser was sunk and "other vessels damaged," the Navy said, but the Japanese lost four destroyers and two other warships, either cruisers or heavy destroyers.

Thus the Navy countered a boast by Imperial Tokyo headquarters yesterday that a Japanese torpedo-attack flotilla had sunk an American battleship, a cruiser and two destroyers in "a fierce attack" off Guadalcanal on the same night.

Japan's loss, according to the Tokyo version, was a single destroyer.

On the Tunisian front, an Allied headquarters spokesman said the heavily reinforced Germans were apparently "ready to die for the Fuehrer" in defense of the Bizerte-Tunis sector along the northeast coast of the African buffer state, rather than attempt to escape by sea in "another Dunkerque."

After a bitter 48-hour battle, in which repeated German tank assaults were beaten off, American and British troops were reported re-grouping for a showdown.

An Allied spokesman said wrecked tanks littered the field when the smoke of battle cleared, but the Allies remained in control of two of the three key towns attacked by the Germans—Tebourba and Mateur—inside the original Axis defense perimeter.

Heavy fighting apparently still raged in Djedeida, 12 miles northwest of Tunis, with the Allies holding the western part of the town.

The spokesman said Djedeida changed hands several times in the fierce surge of battle, and declared that the second and final Nazi counterattack near Tebourba, 20 miles west of Tunis, was "repulsed with considerable destruction of enemy equipment."

The Berlin radio, but not the high command, claimed the recapture of Tebourba yesterday.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By The Associated Press

Short Story

Hillsboro, O.—Heartache, suspense and great joy came to Harry Woods within ten minutes.

He heard a news broadcast that five United States transports were sunk in the fight for North Africa. The crew of one, the Joseph Hewes, had included his son Hugh.

Woods went walking . . . encountered a young man in navy uniform.

Desolated

San Antonio, Tex.—L. S. McDaniels complained to police that he couldn't see to eat and couldn't eat even if he could see, and asked their help.

Phenomenon

Seattle—Found: a man who didn't want the gasoline he was allotted.

Fred G. Lee called at the office of defense transportation to report he didn't want the 196 gallons allowed him for operation of his truck. He had been handling wholesale foods. Now he's working in a shipyard.

Drafted

Tacoma, Wash. — Instead of walking out with some stories, two Tacoma newspapermen walked into a job.

Assigned to cover news at the court house, they poked their heads into the federal court room. Federal Judge Charles H. Levy promptly grabbed them for jury duty. (There's a shortage of jurors because of vital defense work, etc.).

Lacking news from the two reporters, City Editor Frank Lockerby started searching, found them deliberating the fate of a condemnation act—making news instead of gathering it.

Desperate

Oregon City, Ore.—Farmer R. W. Oldenstadt, determined to keep up his war production, ran this classified ad in a local paper:

"Notice to my neighbors:

"Will you please return tools borrowed from me in the last ten years?"

Then he listed as many as he could remember.

Helpmate

Denver— Francis Warner, 27, told his ailing wife to stay in bed —he'd do the family washing.

He got things going in the basement, with young daughter, Lila Mae as a spectator. Forgetting clothespins, Warner went upstairs. His daughter's screams sent him bolting back downstairs. En route he pushed a hand thru a glass pane in the basement door.

Warner needed hospital attention for a severed artery. Lila Mae had her fingers pinched in the wringer, but the machine had turned off automatically and she wasn't hurt badly.

Mrs. Warner finished the washing.

Modest Request Refused

Falls City, Neb.—The Richardson County Gasoline Rationing Board didn't take long to turn down this application: one quart of gasoline to operate a cigar lighter for a year.

Will Urge Farmers To Buy War Bonds

Thousands of farmers throughout New York state will be urged to "Make Every Market Day Bond Day" in a four page leaflet being mailed to them from Washington along with their Agricultural Adjustment Agency Checks, it was announced today by Carlos C. Camenga, of Syracuse, newly-appointed deputy state administrator for agriculture.

The leaflet, entitled "Lay 'Em on the Fighting Line," urges farmers to invest all or part of their checks in War Bonds, and includes an order form on its back to facilitate the purchase.

Farmers are urged to get solidly behind the war effort, and a three-fold financial plan recommends that they produce all they can, pay off debts, and invest in War Bonds to the limit of their ability.

"By lending your money to the government," the leaflet points out, "you will be helping to buy our boys the tools and equipment needed for victory; you will be making the safest investment in the world; you will be getting a profitable return on your money, and you will be doing your part to stave off inflation."

In addition to farmers, the leaflet is being mailed to state and county A.A.A. workers.

Mrs. Bertha Stibbs, Miss Laura Stibbs of Poughkeepsie, Miss Barbara Lent and two classmates at Vassar College, the Misses Margaret Miller of Yonkers and Phebe Crosby from Long Island, were guests for Thanksgiving dinner at Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Lent's.

The Ganse Church School Society meets Tuesday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. John F. Wadlin. The program is in charge of Mrs. Edison Dimsey, Jr.

Donald Williamson of Clintondale and John Tervo of Rifton received the M.M. degree at the meeting of Adonai Lodge, F. & A. M., last Monday. The same evening D.D. Wallace D. Budd of the Greene-Ulster district, paid his official vist. A large number of past masters and past district deputies were present.

A service flag was suspended across the street last week from the front of the post office. On the white center there is a large V with a gold star in the center and below the number 262 representing the number of men entering the service at the time the flag was hung. Onofio Timperio had obtained permission from Sergt. Hulse to collect the money to defray the expense of the flag. Mr. Timperio has three brothers in the service.

In observance of Bible Sunday there was a collection of 20 Bibles displayed Sunday morning in the lecture room of the Presbyterian Church. These had been assembled by Miss Emily Lent and included many representative Testaments in the Hebrew, Greek and Latin, also German and Dutch Bibles. There were family Bibles, some more than 100 years old, as well as the modern translations of Moffat, Goodspeed and Weymouth, a Children's Bible, Women of the Bible and a library edition of the Bible. Pocket editions of the book were included. The worship service in the Sunday school that morning was led by the young men of Webster Langdon's class. Robert Brucklacher acted as leader and was assisted by Robert Jennings, Cornelius Warren, Van Orden Purdy and Mr. Langdon.

In observance of Go-to-Church Sunday, as directed by State Councilor Myrtle Golden at the Thanksgiving season, there were 21 members of Ida McKinley Council present at the morning worship service in the Presbyterian Church.

Closing Heating Plant at End of Season — How To Protect From Rust

I BELIEVE you'll welcome a suggestion as to the best way of shutting down your furnace at the end of the heating season.

To begin with, be sure to leave a layer of ashes on the grates. Then close all the furnace doors and dampers. These simple precautions will prevent the damp air of the cellar from circulating through the heating plant and causing rust to form on the heating surfaces and smoke pipe.

For plants of the steam or hot water type, it is advisable to drain off the water in the boiler. This will rid the boiler of sediment that may have accumulated during the winter. This done, don't forget to refill the boiler to the top, this will protect the insides of the sections from rusting.

As I say, these precautions are easy to follow and take but little time. If you follow these suggestions at the close of the heating season when you shut down the heating plant you'll prolong the life of your furnace and guard against repair bills.

RELIEF DIRECTORS OF TWO WORLD WARS

Du Pont Chemist Tells of Efforts on U. S. Home Front

The ladies of Kiwanis were guests at the noonday luncheon meeting of Kingston Kiwanis Thursday at the Governor Clinton and apparently enjoyed as thoroughly as did the men the talk and demonstration by Dr. Larry Livingston of the research department of the duPont Co.

Referring to the part the chemist has done in finding substitutes for strategic war materials, he said that in 1921 General Harbord listed 42 articles as vital strategic materials. This list was revised in 1940, when it was found that it had been reduced to 14, science having replaced the other 28.

Outside of that, the speaker declared that scientific research had, more than any other thing, been responsible for the great improvement in living conditions. He added that in the next few years the marvelous record of the past quarter of a century would be duplicated, with new products, new processes and new industries revolutionizing living conditions.

It would take a string of freight trains 56 miles long to haul the 350,000,000 pounds of agricultural products that are used yearly in industry today, he said.

Dr. Livingston told of the accidental discovery of smokeless powder, when a chemist spilled some fluid and wiped it up with a cotton apron, which when dried caught fire and went up in a blaze, but without making smoke.

He told of some of the many products that have cellulose as a base, saying that there were some 30,000 such articles. In one item, that of tips for shoestrings, Dr. Livingston said that 500,000 pounds of metal was being saved by use of cellulose tips, which have an added advantage that they don't come off.

A substitute has been found for kapok, which came from the Bataan peninsula and which was used in life preservers. The new material has greater buoyancy than kapok and can stand immersion in water for six weeks.

The Japs had a monoply on camphor and gradually shoved the price up to $3.65 a pound. Eight years ago a synthetic substance was developed that sells at from 30 to 60 cents a pound.

Dr. Livingston showed what looked like a pane of glass. Held vertically it showed his face plainly; tipped, nothing could be seen.

The speaker discussed rayon, of which over four hundred million pounds were made last year; of lucite, a plastic which looks like glass and which is used for a great many purposes and which has the quality of bending a ray of light.

There was a material shown which coats pictures so as to make them practically indestructible and which can be used to protect and keep flowers indefinitely in their natural colors.

One of the great war time discoveries has to do with the riveting on airplanes. There are from forty to sixty thousand rivets used, depending upon the type of plane. Thousands of these rivets are in places where it is very difficult to back them up and it took around five minutes to set each rivet. Now a newly developed "explosive" rivet can be set in about four seconds. Dr. Livingston gave his audience an illustration of how these rivets were set.

Nylon, another comparatively recent discovery, used to replace silk, today is being used by the government for making of parachutes.

Paint brush bristles, false teeth, beads, brush handles and many other articles are today being made from the new plastics.

K. of C. Will Meet Monday at Headquarters

The first December meeting of Kingston Council No. 275, Knights of Columbus, will be held Monday and promises to be one of exceptional interest.

Besides many important business matters to be taken care of, Lecturer Robert A. Donnarumma has secured an unusual program of entertainment, the feature of which will be moving pictures of actual scenes of the battles of Midway, Guam and Bataan. This film shows General MacArthur in action in actual battle and has only recently been released for public showing.

Grand Knight Vincent G. Connelly is looking for a large turnout Monday night at 8 o'clock and urges all members to be present.

Brier to Conduct Synagogue Forum At Agudas Achim

On December 8 at 8 p. m. at Agudas Achim Congregation on West Union street, Louis S. Brier will be the guest speaker at an "Open Forum." His topic will be "The War Behind the War." Mr. Brier was guest speaker in Kingston about two months ago and his talk was of such interest and so well received that efforts were made to secure him for the Open Forum to be held Tuesday, next.

Some of the phases he will discuss will be "the actual operation of Germany's War Economy," the organization of the National Socialist Party and all its branches, the work of the "economic mobile units," the partially installed "new order" in Europe and the garnering of the spoils of Hitler's conquests.

Mr. Brier is a man who has unusual knowledge and facts concerning his subject. He is well known as a foreign affairs analyst, lecturer and writer and his grasp of social, economic and political problems is derived from many public and semi-public activities. In 1934 he was appointed by Gifford Pinchot, then governor of Pennsylvania, to membership in the Emergency Relief Board of Lehigh county which handled problems of unemployment. He also acted as public relations counsel and handled publicity for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union of America. In 1939 he joined the editorial staff of the Amalgamated Union's official publication. Later he joined as one of the founders of the New York City Coordinating Committee for Democratic Action and later was its executive secretary. He also participated in the organization of the Federated Council for Americanism and acted as its executive secretary.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By The Associated Press

Short Story

Hillsboro, O.—Heartache, suspense and great joy came to Hurry Woods within ten minutes.

He heard a news broadcast that five United States transports were sunk in the fight for North Africa. The crew of one, the Joseph Hewes, had included his son Hugh.

Woods went walking . . . encountered a young man in navy uniform.

Desolated

San Antonio, Tex.—L. S. McDaniels complained to police that he couldn't see to eat and couldn't eat even if he could see, and asked their help.

Phenomenon

Seattle—Found: a man who didn't want the gasoline he was allotted.

Fred G. Lee called at the office of defense transportation to report he didn't want the 196 gallons allowed him for operation of his truck. He had been handling wholesale foods. Now he's working in a shipyard.

Drafted

Tacoma, Wash. — Instead of walking out with some stories, two Tacoma newspapermen walked into a job.

Assigned to cover news at the court house, they poked their heads into the federal court room. Federal Judge Charles H. Levy promptly grabbed them for jury duty. (There's a shortage of jurors because of vital defense work, etc.).

Lacking news from the two reporters, City Editor Frank Lockerby started searching, found them deliberating the fate of a condemnation act—making news instead of gathering it.

Desperate

Oregon City, Ore.—Farmer R. W. Oldenstadt, determined to keep up his war production, ran this classified ad in a local paper:

"Notice to my neighbors:

"Will you please return tools borrowed from me in the last ten years?"

Then he listed as many as he could remember.

Helpmate

Denver— Francis Warner, 27, told his ailing wife to stay in bed —he'd do the family washing.

He got things going in the basement, with young daughter, Lila Mae as a spectator. Forgetting clothespins, Warner went upstairs. His daughter's screams sent him bolting back downstairs. En route he pushed a hand thru a glass pane in the basement door.

Warner needed hospital attention for a severed artery. Lila Mae had her fingers pinched in the wringer, but the machine had turned off automatically and she wasn't hurt badly.

Mrs. Warner finished the washing.

Modest Request Refused

Falls City, Neb.—The Richardson County Gasoline Rationing Board didn't take long to turn down this application: one quart of gasoline to operate a cigar lighter for a year.

Will Urge Farmers To Buy War Bonds

Thousands of farmers throughout New York state will be urged to "Make Every Market Day Bond Day" in a four page leaflet being mailed to them from Washington along with their Agricultural Adjustment Agency Checks, it was announced today by Carlos C. Camenga, of Syracuse, newly-appointed deputy state administrator for agriculture.

The leaflet, entitled "Lay 'Em on the Fighting Line," urges farmers to invest all or part of their checks in War Bonds, and includes an order form on its back to facilitate the purchase.

Farmers are urged to get solidly behind the war effort, and a three-fold financial plan recommends that they produce all they can, pay off debts, and invest in War Bonds to the limit of their ability.

"By lending your money to the government," the leaflet points out, "you will be helping to buy our boys the tools and equipment needed for victory; you will be making the safest investment in the world; you will be getting a profitable return on your money, and you will be doing your part to stave off inflation."

In addition to farmers, the leaflet is being mailed to state and county A.A.A. workers.

HIGHLAND

Mrs. Fred Lewis Vail was hostess Monday afternoon to the bridge club, with Mrs. S. D. Farnham and Mrs. Willard Burke substituting for Mrs. Franklin Welker and Mrs. Philip Schantz.

Mrs. Elsie R. Randall, a former resident, is leaving Philadelphia to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Breed, in Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Bertha Stibbs, Miss Laura Stibbs of Poughkeepsie, Miss Barbara Lent and two classmates at Vassar College, the Misses Margaret Miller of Yonkers and Phebe Crosby from Long Island, were guests for Thanksgiving dinner at Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Lent's.

The Ganse Church School Society meets Tuesday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. John F. Wadlin. The program is in charge of Mrs. Edison Dimsey, Jr.

Donald Williamson of Clintondale and John Tervo of Rifton received the M.M. degree at the meeting of Adonai Lodge, F. & A. M., last Monday. The same evening D.D. Wallace D. Budd of the Greene-Ulster district, paid his official vist. A large number of past masters and past district deputies were present.

A service flag was suspended across the street last week from the front of the post office. On the white center there is a large V with a gold star in the center and below the number 262 representing the number of men entering the service at the time the flag was hung. Onofio Timperio had obtained permission from Sergt. Hulse to collect the money to defray the expense of the flag. Mr. Timperio has three brothers in the service.

In observance of Bible Sunday there was a collection of 20 Bibles displayed Sunday morning in the lecture room of the Presbyterian Church. These had been assembled by Miss Emily Lent and included many representative Testaments in the Hebrew, Greek and Latin, also German and Dutch Bibles. There were family Bibles, some more than 100 years old, as well as the modern translations of Moffat, Goodspeed and Weymouth, a Children's Bible, Women of the Bible and a library edition of the Bible. Pocket editions of the book were included. The worship service in the Sunday school that morning was led by the young men of Webster Langdon's class. Robert Brucklacher acted as leader and was assisted by Robert Jennings, Cornelius Warren, Van Orden Purdy and Mr. Langdon.

In observance of Go-to-Church Sunday, as directed by State Councilor Myrtle Golden at the Thanksgiving season, there were 21 members of Ida McKinley Council present at the morning worship service in the Presbyterian Church.

Closing Heating Plant at End of Season — How To Protect From Rust

I imagine you'll welcome a suggestion as to the best way of shutting down your furnace at the end of the heating season.

To begin with, be sure to leave a layer of ashes on the grates. Then close all the furnace doors and dampers. These simple precautions will prevent the damp air of the cellar from circulating through the heating plant and causing rust to form on the heating surfaces and sprite pipe.

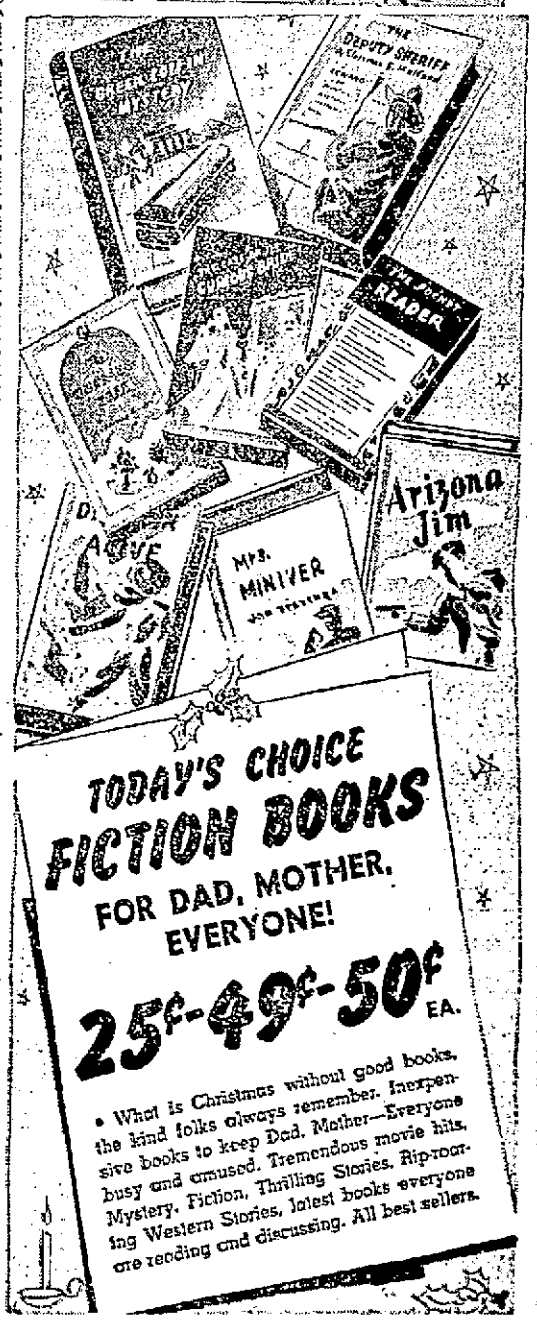

For plants of the steam or hot water type, it is advisable to drain off the water in the boiler. This will rid the boiler of sediment that may have accumulated during the winter. This done, don't forget to refill the boiler to the top; this will protect the insides of the sections from rusting.

As I say, these precautions are easy to follow and take but little time. If you follow these suggestions at the close of the heating season when you shut down the heating plant you'll prolong the life of your furnace and guard against repair bills.

SALVATION FOR ITALY

Obviously Italy, for her own salvation, should pull out of the war and help herself instead of helping Hitler. Every consideration of common sense and historical policy demands it.

The Italian nation has been traditionally a friend and associate of Britain, and in recent times has been rather closely linked with America—until the advent of Mussolini. That fiery upstart, who at first seemed to be a savior for Italy in a period of distress, has proved to be her worst handicap.

It was Mussolini who created modern Fascism, and Hitler merely copied his system, with weird variations. For a time Italy seemed to thrive under it. Industry recovered and the helpless nation gained power. But the pupil surpassed the teacher in the art of government by personal force. Hitler gradually elbowed the Duce aside, took over Italy and made it virtually an accessory to his criminal war against civilization. Now Mussolini, broken in health and spirit, is merely a "yes man" for the Teutonic intruder. The Italian people are in great distress and poverty, unwilling tools of Hitler in his efforts to save his own crazy system.

The United States government, by its proved friendship to the Italian people, has opened the way for an Italian revolt against slavery. Britain, through Churchill's recent speech, has given the Italians a more direct invitation to swing over to the Allied Nations. They will yet break their chains and join the free powers.

UNKNOWN ISLAND

For an island as near main-traveled roads as Sardinia, it has had about as few visitors as any place in Europe. Lying off the Italian coast, it should attract many tourists. Actually few go there, fewer even than to its neighbor Corsica, which is seven miles north.

Lately it has been getting more visitors than for many a year, but of an unwelcome kind. Nazi troops, distrusting the efficiency of their supposed ally, Italy, have occupied this Italian community, and will use it as a base for their Mediterranean campaigning.

Sardinia has had many rulers in its day: first a mysterious people who built round towers of unknown origin and purpose, later Phoenicians, Carthaginians, Romans, Saracens, Spanish, Austrians, and finally the dukes of Savoy, the ancestors of the present Italian royal house. But never have they had more unwelcome or more barbarous rulers than the Nazis who have come in with the war tides of 1942.

MARTYR'S SON

Pierre Dreyfus is in this country. His name is not familiar to most Americans, but his father's was one of the four or five best known names in the world. He was Alfred Dreyfus, a French officer of Jewish birth who was unjustly convicted, in the '90's, of selling military secrets to Germany. Sent to the horrible prison camp on Devil's Island, he was championed by a group of courageous Frenchmen, among them Emile Zola, the novelist, and Georges Clemenceau, France's heroic premier in the first world war. Eventually he was released and vindicated.

It was an early example of the anti-Semitism on which Hitler has built his empire. The Vichy government, under Hitler's orders, has revived this intolerance which stained the French name in the days of Dreyfus. It was the new persecution which forced Pierre Dreyfus to come to this country. Some day he and his can once more contribute to French civilization, but only when Laval and his kind have gone.

FULFILMENT

"I have never given any assurance of a speedy or easy or cheap victory. On the contrary, I have never promised anything but the hardest conditions, great disappointments and many mistakes. But I am sure that at the end all will be well for us, all will be better in the world, and there will be that crown of honor to those who have endured and never failed which history will accord to them for having set an example to the whole human race."

This noble prophecy from Winston Churchill is now beginning to be fulfilled.

GREASE AND GLYCERIN

Turkey is a traditional Thanksgiving dish whose merits need no praise. It has other points, too. Turkey grease and drippings contain glycerin, an important material for explosives. John D. Orr, executive secretary of WPB's Massachusetts branch, says that if every New England housewife had saved the drippings from her Thanksgiving turkey, enough glycerin would be produced to make half a million pounds of gunpowder.

"One pound of waste cooking fats," says Mr. Orr, "will produce enough glycerin to fire four 37-millimeter anti-aircraft shells."

Thanksgiving has gone, but Christmas and other turkey days are coming. Turkey grease will grease the skids for the Axis.

FAT POLICEMAN

Will the fat policeman come back? For a long time he represented the popular idea of our protectors. Then better selection and training introduced a slim athletic type, which could catch a criminal without getting winded. Now these are mostly going to war. Will the old-timers have to return?

It is to be hoped not. Those old fellows meant well, but did not exactly increase popular respect for their profession. Their return would be another war loss.

There have been too many Americans yammering about their gas and coffee rations instead of thanking God for their blessings.

And now weather sharps are telling us, "It isn't the cold, but the humidity." Well, it's a poor rule that doesn't work both ways.

The common cold is presumably called so because it is so common. Then why do people speak of common sense?

"The Japanese theory of war is offensive," says Major G. F. Eliot. And their practice is still more so.

It begins to look as if the Nazis will yet be penned up in Germany to stew in their own juice.

Miracles continue, and world reconstruction has already begun.

"Nothing succeeds like success" and nothing fails like failure.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M. D.

HOW MUCH SHOULD YOU WEIGH?

Physicians are often asked by patients as to what they should weigh. The physician may ask the height, look up the height and weight table which may be hanging on the wall, and give them the weight considered right for that height. He may suggest 5 pounds less for the slender type and five pounds more for the stocky type. It can thus be seen that individuals of the same height may vary as much as 10 to 20 pounds and yet be the ideal weight for their build.

When considering ideal weight, we usually think of the age of the individual at age of 30, for both men and women. In Great Britain they quite logically estimate the age at which men and women reach maturity from the standpoint of physique or body build. Thus in his book Obesity, Dr. W. F. Christie, London, states:

A man's ideal weight is probably that which he held at the age of 25 years, a woman's at the age of 20; that is on attainment of full physical development. Patient's recollection of their weight at that age will serve as a guide as to what they ought to weigh.

If you are without the height and weight tables and would like to know what you should weigh, there are various methods by which you can get a fairly close estimate of your ideal weight. Thus Dr. Christie suggests:

7. Multiply the number of inches above five feet in height by 5½, add 110 to this figure. For instance, suppose the height is 5 feet 4 inches, without shoes or stockings. 4 x 5½—22. Add 110 to 22 is 132 pounds.

2. A height of five feet 6 inches should weigh 140 pounds, and five pounds should be added for every inch above it.

The above figures more truly represent the weight of women and include the weight of the clothing, about 5 to 6 pounds. For men the above weights would be more nearly correct without clothing, the usual weight of which is 9 to 10 pounds.

With the above method of multiplying the inches over five feet by 4½ and adding 110, together with adding 110, together with adding or subtracting for type of build—stock or slender—you can estimate your ideal weight.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

Business Should Be Realistic

Babson Appeals For Better Business Training

Annapolis, Maryland, December 4. I have attended recently a Sunday Morning chapel service at what I consider the best college in America,—the U. S. Naval Academy. Incidentally, it sets a good example to other colleges by having it compulsory that every student attend Divine Worship at some church every Sunday morning. Out of over 3,000 men nearly 2,500 were at the service which I attended.

Some Good Advice

The sermon was entitled, "A Challenge to Be Real"; it was both practical and inspirational. It was primarily an appeal for honest thinking, but the preacher had the courage to beg the midshipmen to let liquor alone and to beware of "smokes." He also gave them some sound advice about women, saying, "check the man who does not look you in the eye; but beware of the woman who does look you in the eye"! Regarding business, he said that only as more is produced is there more to divide.

The new Naval Academy chapel is most dignified and impressive. Its beautiful stained glass windows are significant of Peace. There is nothing to remind one of war or to arouse any feelings of hate against any group or nation. The closing words of their closing hymn well express the creed of this great college. These words are: "In peace which only Thou canst give, Oh Master let me with Thee live." In my talks with the students, I found a seriousness and religious fervor that exists on few college campuses. Unlike average college men, upset by long-haired radical economic professors, these Annapolis boys know where they are going and that they must struggle to get there.

Only Prosperity Brings Peace

But why should I begin this financial column by writing of this U. S. Naval Academy? The reason is that two diametrically opposite philosophies about Peace are being taught by the colleges of the United States. The State Universities are teaching that Peace is a means to an end,—that is, only Peace will bring prosperity. This Naval Academy is teaching that Peace is not the means to prosperity, but rather that Peace can be found only at the end of a long, long road. They believe that only prosperity brings Peace.

Every businessman and investor should decide whether the State Universities or the Naval Academy is teaching the truth. The length of the War, the ultimate victory and conditions after the War depend upon whether our leaders in politics, industry, and education are thinking soundly, or sleeping soundly. We see the evils of the Germans and Japanese worshipping War; and we know what befell France and her northern neighbors for worshipping Peace. We cannot safely ride two horses when they are going in opposite directions.

What After The War?

Most State University professors are talking about "winning the Peace"; but the Annapolis professors are talking about "winning the War." The State University professors expect a World Federation after World War II which will enable the U. S. to disarm and live in Peace for evermore. The Annapolis professors teach that this is a goal to work for, but we will be at least 100 years more in reaching it. They believe, in accordance with the above-mentioned hymn, that Peace can come not through treaties, leagues, or even the military, but only through the peoples of the world following Jesus' teachings.

Our armed forces have definite ideas as to "keeping-the-Peace" after World War II. They claim that either the English-speaking peoples must police the world or else that Germany must be turned over to the Russians and Japan turned over to the Chinese. This lines up with the subject of that Sunday morning sermon that church people should be realistic as well as idealistic; that businessmen should, after the War, depend for protection on armed forces rather than on forced tariffs.

All Colleges Should Follow Annapolis

I wonder if the United States would not be better off if all educational institutions would follow the lead of the U. S. Naval Academy. Nothing bombastic is taught there; no glorification of war is apparent; yea, not even nationalism per se is talked about. Certainly, one hears much more of jingo doctrines at a National Chamber of Commerce Convention.

An earnest effort is made to teach the fundamentals of living. Most of all, the men are trained. Knowledge can be purchased; but habits come only through training, discipline, and self-control. These midshipmen are taught that life always has been a struggle and always will be. To let any young people get the false idea that "security"—either national or personal—can be bought or legislated is a wicked crime, condemned by both God and history.

When Will War II End?

Naturally, I tried to ascertain from officers and others when I met their ideas as to the length of the War. The consensus of opinion is that we will know nothing definite until Christmas. If Germany, during 1942, breaks through to contact Japan, the War well may last for five years more. If, on the other hand, Germany is held back at the Caucasus and winter without more oil, rubber, compelled to go through another and other supplies, the war well may end in 1943. But whenever it ends, we will be living in a different world and wise are those businessmen, wage workers, and investors who now change their plans accordingly.

To End Extraterritoriality

Chungking (AP)—The Belgian Government through its Ambassador in Chungking has informed the Chinese Government that it has decided to relinquish immediately extraterritoriality and its related rights in China, according to diplomatic circles in Chungking. As early as 1928 the Belgian Government in its treaty with China expressed its readiness to relinquish extraterritorial rights and an agreement will shortly be concluded on this subject between the two countries.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The carefree days of the Gay Nineties and the Galluping Nineteen Hundreds were recalled to my mind today as I read a clipping that stated that the Oriental Hotel had been leased on May 25, 1918, by Arthur F. Stieler. Older readers will recall this hotel that stood on the promontory, just outside the fence and overlooking Kingston Point Park.

The hotel, standing on a hill, was plainly visible for many miles up and down the Hudson river, and during the many years it was operated it was visited by thousand of Kingston residents and visitors to Kingston's favorite playground during the summer months.

In the early days of the 1900's before the advent of the auto age, Kingston Point Park was one of the most popular summer playgrounds in the Hudson river valley. In those early days the pavilion on the river front drew thousands on hot summer nights, who enjoyed the silent movies that were shown and the cooling river breezes.

The old pavilion and the Oriental Hotel, that stood outside the park, are now only a memory as both were destroyed by fire. Offhand I forget the dates when the buildings were burned.

Leafing the pages of the city's history ahead to May 26, 1928, that day marked the formal opening of the new banking house of the Rondout Savings Bank on Broadway, at Mill street.

This old bank for years had been located on Ferry street, at the foot of Broadway. It now stands on the site of one of the best known dry goods stores in the years at the turn of the century. Older readers will have no difficulty in recalling the old dry goods store of the late Sherman E. Eighmey, who for years was one of the outstanding merchants of Kingston.

Shortly after his death the store closed its doors and later the building was bought by the Rondout Savings Bank, and razed to make room for the present fine banking house.

I read an old clipping of May 27, 1918, the other day which related that Ed. M. Heermans had resigned his position that day as paid secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Heermans will be recalled by the business men of Kingston. As I recall it he served several years as secretary of the C. of C.

It was on May 29, 1918, that the Hudson River Day Line announced that it would operate its steamers on Sundays as well as on week days during the season. This was a radical step taken by the Day Line for ever since it had been established it had never ran its steamers on a Sunday.

Record Reveals Stand Made by Liberal-Conservative Supreme Court on Congressional Powers

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 4 — Once upon a time there was a Supreme Court of the United States composed of liberal as well as conservative justices, and yet they agreed unanimously that Congress could not delegate legislative power to the executive agencies of the government unless suitable standards were prescribed marking the extent of the delegated power.

Justices Stone and Roberts concurred in that decision in the N. R. A. case in 1935. The great liberals — Justices Cardozo and Brandeis—also concurred.

But today it is being said openly that there is no use questioning the validity of the recently passed anti-inflation law, because the courts will not question any act of the executive. The assumption that the courts will be guided by the Hitler rule—judgments according to "prevailing sentiment"—is a reflection on the judiciary but such impressions do exist because the present executive has appointed all but two of the present members of the Supreme Court and more than half of all the Circuit Court of Appeals and district judges—possibly a number closer to two-thirds than a half.

Experience has proved, however, that judges do not always follow the wishes of the party to which they have belonged or the administration which gave them the appointment. The idea that the courts will not deal justly with a usurpation of power by the executive agencies is not borne out by recent trends among the lower court justices, some of whom have courageously reversed the fantastic petitions of some of the New Deal agencies and rebuked them as well.

The anti-inflation law contains the seeds of a major issue. It is an issue bigger than inflation itself, because it goes to the roots of constitutional government. Shall an executive agency—in this case, the Office of Economic Stabilization, created by executive order—be permitted to nullify bona fide contracts entered into by employers and employes governing their compensation for the year 1942 and thereafter? Shall the vaguely expressed statement in the anti-inflation law to the effect that the President shall have the power to correct "inequalities" be interpreted to apply to salaries or wages contracted for even before World War II began and before the conditions referred to as "inflation" were present? Shall the mere decree of the Chief Executive that he thinks reduction of a man's salary below pre-war levels is needed to correct an "inequality" be sufficient justification for the taking of a man's earnings from him? Shall there be said to be a fair standard when persons of similar income go untouched within the same bracket?

If the answer is in the affirmative, then the famous decision of the Supreme Court requiring that Congress prescribe the standards within which executive agencies must operate will have been nullified and the power of the executive over the legislative body becomes absolute.

The issue, too, of whether the executive agencies may issue ex post facto rulings governing contracts in existence in 1941 and prior years by merely declaring them invalid is also a pertinent one for consideration. Certainly the state courts will be interested to know that they no longer may pass on the validity of contracts for wages and compensation and that a decree from the White House invalidates all such contracts.

It is interesting to observe that the high-handed manner in which the first executive order undertook to deprive the citizen of his right of court review has been to a large extent modified. The language of the latest regulation issued this week says concerning the new wage and salary decrees:

"Any such determination of the commissioner is final and not subject to review by the tax court of the United States or by any court in any civil proceedings. Nothing herein is intended, however, to deny the right of an employer or employe to contest in the tax court of the United States or in any court of competent jurisdiction the validity of (1) any provision of these regulations on the ground such provision is not authorized by law, or (2) any action taken or determination made under these regulations, on the ground that such action or determination is not authorized, or has not been taken or made in a manner required, by law."

What is meant by "not authorized"? This is probably a half-hearted way of conceding that the commissioner might be wrong in going beyond the regulations but it doesn't clear up the question of whether the commissioner's judgment on the "finding of facts" is to be final. In tax matters, a "finding of facts" is final, but this is so by virtue of a congressional enactment supported by a Supreme Court decision. Nowhere in the anti-inflation law did Congress provide for an appeal or denial of appeal.

Doubtless Congress will remedy this in the coming session, for if executive agencies can limit court reviews or say what shall be reviewed, the American system of government has undergone a considerable change even as American soldiers and sailors are being urged to give their lives for the blessings of democracy.

New Furniture Is Reward for Teen-Age Work

America's new song is "Work, work, work." Today not only lads and lassies of high school age but even pre-teen youngsters are doing their share to win the war by gathering scrap, by relieving parents of chores so they can attend first-aid or other training classes for war work, or by taking over errands and tasks formerly handled by older folks.

And the jingle of money is newly in millions of youngsters' pockets in payment for these services. Of course, responsive to patriotic appeals and schooled in a new savings economy, these young Americans promptly cache most of their money in war savings bonds and stamps. But a certain amount of their earnings should be permitted to go for the purchase of things they particularly want, in order to sustain their enthusiasm for the month-after-month work ahead.

Christmas is a fine time to make their rewards take concrete form. High on the list of their longed-for possessions is a "room of my own fixed up as I want it." And by letting them choose their own furniture with their own money, and a special gift from "Mom and Dad" of items a bit big for their budget, they will be mightily pleased.

Why not set up a new color scheme—like soft green and peach, or a more sophisticated cerise and pale blue—for the girl going into her senior year at high? It will vastly impress her numerous friends, and be the mecca for midnight confidences after important dates. Blond furniture will probably be her choice, for it is young and modern looking and smart as a background for any of the colorful settings girls love.

Junior will prefer a more rugged type of furniture—oak or maple made on provincial patterns—for his very own room. And his pieces will probably include a chest of "he-man" sturdiness, essential for holding hobby collections, tools or sports items.

The first use of the direct primary in the United States, it is believed, was in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, in 1868.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

(First of two articles on U. S. feeding of foreign nations.)

Washington—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman has been handed one of the war's toughest jobs.

As Director of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation, he will be the Herbert Hoover of World War II, but without depreciating the splendid job done by Mr. Hoover 25 years ago, the task facing Governor Lehman is ten times that.

Hoover had to deal principally with Belgium, parts of France, Russia and Italy and a few scattered small nations. Governor Lehman will have to consider a big chunk of the whole world.

There already have been stories that when our supply lines in the Solomons forced our troops to cut to two meager meals a day, consisting principally of canned meat, we still were distributing food to hungry natives half starved during Japanese occupation.

When the full story of North Africa is told, it's likely that the prospect of more and better food will have had more to do with capitulation of the French colonials and natives than all the Darlans and Girauds in the book. It is considered here that Spain and Portugal are staying neutral strictly from hunger. And it's a common saying that Italy will trade unconditional surrender for a ham sandwich.

From Greece to Norway, from Brittany to Finland, the occupied and Nazi-allied countries already are starving.

Food, medicine, clothing and even small arms have to be gotten to our allies inside the lines, as well as to those now neutral, who might be brought into the ranks of United Nations.

That sets up Governor Lehman in his new post as a sort of superczar of economic warfare.

It means also that he will have to fight one of the battles of the century with the agencies and men in charge of production and distribution of food, clothing, etc., in this country.

Think of it in the single terms of one single commodity; meat. If our armed forces, civilians, and the few allies already being taken care of have already forced the nation to meat rationing, whom is the new Director of FRR going to "rob" to get the supplies he must have, to do any kind of job at all? How is he going to do it without upsetting price control? Where is he going to get the transportation to get these supplies to the starving nations?

These are a few of the primary problems that will beset the good governor of New York.

The slugging matches he will have to indulge in with the Board of Economic Warfare, Agriculture, Price Control, the WPB, the Maritime Commission, the armed forces, and half a dozen other agencies, before he can even call his task well begun are ones that will call for greater courage than any toiler in the Washington vineyard has yet had to display.

(Tomorrow: Why Governor Lehman?)

BOMB BURSTS ABOARD U. S. AIRCRAFT CARRIER IN PACIFIC

determination to keep a hold on the North African coast as long as possible. The Germans know that once the allies have closed that gap of some 600 miles between Tunis and El Agheila, where Rommel apparently is making ready for a stand, the job of keeping the coasts of Hitler's Europe free of invasion will be twice as onerous as it has been since Dunkerque.

The northern Mediterranean coastline, excluding Spain and not counting minor indentations, is some 4,000 miles long, roughly equal to the western coasts from the Bay of Biscay to the Arctic which Hitler has been manning against invasion since his great opportunity to leap the English Channel slipped away two years ago. Hitherto this southern coast has been the soft underside of the Hitler realm, comparatively feebly because there was no real menace from across the Mediterranean. Now the Fuehrer and his general staff must rearrange the entire plan for holding their plunder and this involves tremendous movements of men and weapons, not to mention the problems which may be involved in holding Italy in line.

All this will take time, perhaps months. The assignment of Rommel and Nehring apparently is to gain those months regardless of the cost.

Steel Workers Go All-Out To Avenge Pearl Harbor

Pittsburgh, Pa. — With the slogan, "Steel Answers Pearl Harbor", steel workers of the country are in action today to roll up better than 10 per cent of their pay every payday for War Bonds.

Eight hundred companies, 1,700 local unions and hundreds of schools have joined forces to achieve the goal by New Year's Day.

Under the sponsorship of the United Steel Workers of America and managements of various companies, the drive will reach into every home of steel workers through the medium of newspapers and the radio.

Operations will center in Pittsburgh, Bethlehem, Cleveland, Youngstown, Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco, Wheeling and Birmingham.

Philip Murray, president of the C.I.O. and of the United Steel Workers, declared:

"Every steelworkers is fully aware of the danger to his country and more than willing to do his part in averting that danger. Tens of thousands of steelworkers are serving in the armed forces. The rest of us at home are working on the production schedules which mean ultimate victory."

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., praised steel drive as representing an all-out effort by the nation's largest industry to aid in the financing of the war.

He said: "It is extremely gratifying that the nation's largest industry should conduct this drive to wind up on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor. Our experience in the payroll savings plan has taught us that the most productive means of attaining the 10 per cent goal is through the cooperation of labor and management.

"Both the heads of the United Steel Workers of America and the company presidents are to be congratulated on this campaign and I am sure it will be an outstanding success."

RELIEF DIRECTORS OF TWO WORLD WARS

Du Pont Chemist Tells of Efforts on U. S. Home Front

The ladies of Kiwanis were guests at the noonday luncheon meeting of Kingston Kiwanis Thursday at the Governor Clinton and apparently enjoyed as thoroughly as did the men the talk and demonstration by Dr. Larry Livingston of the research department of the duPont Co.

Referring to the part the chemist has done in finding substitutes for strategic war materials, he said that in 1921 General Harbord listed 42 articles as vital strategic materials. This list was revised in 1940, when it was found that it had been reduced to 14, science having replaced the other 28.

Outside of that, the speaker declared that scientific research had, more than any other thing, been responsible for the great improvement in living conditions. He added that in the next few years the marvelous record of the past quarter of a century would be duplicated, with new products, new processes and new industries revolutionizing living conditions.

It would take a string of freight trains 56 miles long to haul the 350,000,000 pounds of agricultural products that are used yearly in industry today, he said.

Dr. Livingston told of the accidental discovery of smokeless powder, when a chemist spilled some fluid and wiped it up with a cotton apron, which when dried caught fire and went up in a blaze, but without making smoke.

He told of some of the many products that have cellulose as a base, saying that there were some 30,000 such articles. In one item, that of tips for shoestrings, Dr. Livingston said that 500,000 pounds of metal was being saved by use of cellulose tips, which have an added advantage that they don't come off.

A substitute has been found for kapok, which came from the Bataan peninsula and which was used in life preservers. The new material has greater buoyancy than kapok and can stand immersion in water for six weeks.

The Japs had a monopoly on camphor and gradually shoved the price up to $3.65 a pound. Eight years ago a synthetic substance was developed that sells at from 30 to 60 cents a pound.

Dr. Livingston showed what looked like a pane of glass. Held vertically it showed his face plainly; tipped, nothing could be seen.

The speaker discussed rayon, of which over four hundred million pounds were made last year; of lucite, a plastic which looks like glass and which is used for a great many purposes and which has the quality of bending a ray of light.

There was a material shown which coats pictures so as to make them practically indestructible and which can be used to protect and keep flowers indefinitely in their natural colors.

One of the great war time discoveries has to do with the riveting on airplanes. There are from forty to sixty thousand rivets used, depending upon the type of plane. Thousands of these rivets are in places where it is very difficult to back them up and it took around five minutes to set each rivet. Now a newly developed "explosive" rivet can be set in about four seconds. Dr. Livingston gave his audience an illustration of how these rivets were set.

Nylon, another comparatively recent discovery, used to replace silk, today is being used by the government for making of parachutes.

Paint brush bristles, false teeth, beads, brush handles and many other articles are today being made from the new plastics.

K. of C. Will Meet Monday at Headquarters

The first December meeting of Kingston Council No. 275, Knights of Columbus, will be held Monday and promises to be one of exceptional interest.

Besides many important business matters to be taken care of, Lecturer Robert A. Donnarumma has secured an unusual program of entertainment, the feature of which will be moving pictures of actual scenes of the battles of Midway, Guam and Bataan. This film shows General MacArthur in action in actual battle and has only recently been released for public showing.

Grand Knight Vincent G. Connelly is looking for a large turnout Monday night at 8 o'clock and urges all members to be present.

Brier to Conduct Synagogue Forum At Agudas Achim

On December 8 at 8 p. m. at Agudas Achim Congregation on West Union street, Louis S. Brier will be the guest speaker at an "Open Forum." His topic will be "The War Behind the War." Mr. Brier was guest speaker in Kingston about two months ago and his talk was of such interest and so well received that efforts were made to secure him for the Open Forum to be held Tuesday, next.

Some of the phases he will discuss will be "the actual operation of Germany's War Economy," the organization of the National Socialist Party and all its branches, the work of the "economic mobile units," the partially installed "new order" in Europe and the garnering of the spoils of Hitler's conquests.

Mr. Brier is a man who has unusual knowledge and facts concerning his subject. He is well known as a foreign affairs analyst, lecturer and writer and his grasp of social, economic and political problems is derived from many public and semi-public activities. In 1934 he was appointed by Gifford Pinchot, then governor of Pennsylvania, to membership in the Emergency Relief Board of Lehigh county which handled problems of unemployment. He also acted as public relations counsel and handled publicity for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union of America. In 1939 he joined the editorial staff of the Amalgamated Union's official publication. Later he joined as one of the founders of the New York City Coordinating Committee for Democratic Action and later was its executive secretary. He also participated in the organization of the Federated Council for Americanism and acted as its executive secretary.

Controversy Impends

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—A vigorous controversy over the transfer of United States properties to Panama under agreements for joint defense of the canal impended in the Senate today. Two Republicans, Senators Johnson of California and Nye of North Dakota, opposed authorization of the agreements by a simple resolution and demanded that they be renegotiated in treaty form. The resolution would authorize: Surrender to Panama of the American-owned water and sewage systems in Panama City and Colon, which otherwise would not revert to Panama until 1957. Transfer to Panama of building lots of the American-owned Panama Railway Company in the two cities. Cancellation of a $2,700,000 debt to the Export-Import Bank to cover Panama's share in construction of the strategic Rio Hato highway.

KILLS TO DODGE ARMY

Lucio Paz, a farm laborer, arrested near Vera Cruz, Mexico, and accused of killing his employer, Jose Velazquez, told the police that he became enraged when Velazquez announced a plan to organize the ranch hands for compulsory military training.

Ain't It So?

There are girls who can smile in the evening,
There are girls who can smile in gray dawn,
But the girl worth while
Is the girl who can smile
When two of her front teeth are gone.

Friend—Didn't your father remember you when he made his will?

Man—I suppose so, that's why he left me out.

Yes, It Happened Here!

"I'm working hard to get ahead," To her dad he murmured sadly. "I'm glad to see it," he replied, "You surely need one badly."

In an agonized whisper the Colonel was addressing his son, whose fiancee was sitting in the other room:

Colonel (as quietly as he could) —Dash it all, Son, I don't admire your choice of a wife. She's nearly blind, she stutters, her complexion is awful, her figure's sloppy, she—

Social Security Cards Required For Holiday Work

Part time and temporary workers during the Christmas season are required to have social security cards whose numbers they must report to their employers, Mr. Dublirer, manager of the Kingston office of the Social Security Board, warned today.

Mr. Dublirer pointed out that this requirement applies regardless of the duration of employment or the number of employers worked for.

"Even if the work performed only lasts for one or two days, or for several hours each day until the Christmas shopping season is over, the worker should have an account card," Mr. Dublirer stated.

He pointed out that this requirement is for the protection of the worker himself, so that he may get full credit for all wages paid him toward the eventual computation and payment of old-age and survivors insurance.

There are no age limitations on this provision and it applies equally to high school students, housewives working part time and older workers.

At the same time Mr. Dublirer cautioned workers who have already been issued one social security account card not to get another one.

"There is still a misapprehension on the part of some workers that they obtain a new social security card when they change employment. The card originally issued to a worker is for his entire working span and all wages received by the worker during his lifetime are credited to the number on the original account card.

"Therefore it is highly important for a worker who has lost his original card to come to the local Social Security Board Field Office and ask for a duplicate of his original card, not for a new one."

Duplicate cards are issued by the local office of the Social Security Board at the Central Post Office Building, Kingston.

Literary Guide

By JOHN SELBY

"THE CHICAGO," by Harry Hansen.

Some day when you are hurrying to catch a train at Chicago's Union Station, you will see a bridge up-ended in front of your taxi, and if you do not know that trains are held five minutes to compensate for this disadvantage, you will sit unquietly and fulminate. This will be the substance of your contact with the Chicago River, which is the subject of Harry Hansen's contribution to the Rivers of America series, "The Chicago."

Mr. Hansen produces a daily book column for the New York World-Telegram and its affiliates, but long before that, he was a Chicagoan, with a share in the city's lusty newspaper life, and intimate contact with her literary circles. He liked Chicago—it shows in his book. It also helps the book.

The Chicago is the shortest river so far included in this highly successful series, and Mr. Hansen thinks it is one of the most important. It is now a semi-stagnant ditch into which a certain amount of water from Lake Michigan is admitted at intervals. It bears a good many ships, however, and disrupts traffic at frequent intervals. And it is the reason why Fort Dearborn was established where it was; the reason for the northern boundary of Illinois being established so far north; the connecting link between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi River; the highway of Marquette, Joliet, et al., and a landmark through hundreds of years for millions of people.

Mr. Hansen's story of Chicago has a great many advantages. One of these is that he has omitted most geological data—the chief fault of the series has been that many of its contributors have felt impelled to start their books several million years in the past and inch toward the present much too slowly. Chicago's early years are colorful, not to say lurid, and Mr. Hansen's prose is an excellent vehicle for their presentation. The city has always been turbulent, and very often pestered with civic officials whose code could be questioned. These factors give the author some of his best opportunities.

You get the sense of a still-young, still yeasty city out of the book, and a series of striking thumbnail portraits. I could use still more of these, particularly of those gorgeous Chicago hosts and hostesses of the bigger, better and to hell with the expense era.

SALVATION FOR ITALY

Obviously Italy, for her own salvation, should pull out of the war and help herself instead of helping Hitler. Every consideration of common sense and historical policy demands it.

The Italian nation has been traditionally a friend and associate of Britain, and in recent times has been rather closely linked with America—until the advent of Mussolini. That fiery upstart, who at first seemed to be a savior for Italy in a period of distress, has proved to be her worst handicap.

It was Mussolini who created modern Fascism, and Hitler merely copied his system, with weird variations. For a time Italy seemed to thrive under it. Industry recovered and the helpless nation gained power. But the pupil surpassed the teacher in the art of government by personal force. Hitler gradually elbowed the Duce aside, took over Italy and made it virtually an accessory to his criminal war against civilization. Now Mussolini, broken in health and spirit, is merely a "yes man" for the Teutonic intruder. The Italian people are in great distress and poverty, unwilling tools of Hitler in his efforts to save his own crazy system.

The United States government, by its proved friendship to the Italian people, has opened the way for an Italian revolt against slavery. Britain, through Churchill's recent speech, has given the Italians a more direct invitation to swing over to the Allied Nations. They will yet break their chains and join the free powers.

UNKNOWN ISLAND

For an island as near main-traveled roads as Sardinia, it has had about as few visitors as any place in Europe. Lying off the Italian coast, it should attract many tourists. Actually few go there, fewer even than to its neighbor Corsica, which is seven miles north.

Lately it has been getting more visitors than for many a year, but of an unwelcome kind. Nazi troops, distrusting the efficiency of their supposed ally, Italy, have occupied this Italian community, and will use it as a base for their Mediterranean campaigning.

Sardinia has had many rulers in its day: first a mysterious people who built round towers of unknown origin and purpose, later Phoenicians, Carthaginians, Romans, Saracens, Spanish, Austrians, and finally the dukes of Savoy, the ancestors of the present Italian royal house. But never have they had more unwelcome or more barbarous rulers than the Nazis who have come in with the war tides of 1942.

MARTYR'S SON

Pierre Dreyfus is in this country. His name is not familiar to most Americans, but his father's was one of the four or five best known names in the world. He was Alfred Dreyfus, a French officer of Jewish birth who was unjustly convicted, in the '90's, of selling military secrets to Germany. Sent to the horrible prison camp on Devil's Island, he was championed by a group of courageous Frenchmen, among them Emile Zola, the novelist, and Georges Clemenceau, France's heroic premier in the first world war. Eventually he was released and vindicated.

It was an early example of the anti-Semitism on which Hitler has built his empire. The Vichy government, under Hitler's orders, has revived this intolerance which stained the French name in the days of Dreyfus. It was the new persecution which forced Pierre Dreyfus to come to this country. Some day he and his can once more contribute to French civilization, but only when Laval and his kind have gone.

FULFILMENT

"I have never given any assurance of a speedy or easy or cheap victory. On the contrary, I have never promised anything but the hardest conditions, great disappointments and many mistakes. But I am sure that at the end all will be well for us, all will be better in the world, and there will be that crown of honor to those who have endured and never failed which history will accord to them for having set an example to the whole human race."

This noble prophecy from Winston Churchill is now beginning to be fulfilled.

GREASE AND GLYCERIN

Turkey is a traditional Thanksgiving dish whose merits need no praise. It has other points, too. Turkey grease and drippings contain glycerin, an important material for explosives. John D. Orr, executive secretary of WPB's Massachusetts branch, says that if every New England housewife had saved the drippings from her Thanksgiving turkey, enough glycerin would be produced to make half a million pounds of gunpowder.

"One pound of waste cooking fats," says Mr. Orr, "will produce enough glycerin to fire four 37-millimeter anti-aircraft shells."

Thanksgiving has gone, but Christmas and other turkey days are coming. Turkey grease will grease the skids for the Axis.

FAT POLICEMAN

Will the fat policeman come back? For a long time he represented the popular idea of our protectors. Then better selection and training introduced a slim athletic type, which could catch a criminal without getting winded. Now these are mostly going to war. Will the old-timers have to return?

It is to be hoped not. Those old fellows meant well, but did not exactly increase popular respect for their profession. Their return would be another war loss.

There have been too many Americans yammering about their gas and coffee rations instead of thanking God for their blessings.

And now weather sharps are telling us, "It isn't the cold, but the humidity." Well, it's a poor rule that doesn't work both ways.

The common cold is presumably called so because it is so common. Then why do people speak of common sense?

"The Japanese theory of war is offensive," says Major G. F. Eliot. And their practice is still more so.

It begins to look as if the Nazis will yet be penned up in Germany to stew in their own juice.

Miracles continue, and world reconstruction has already begun.

"Nothing succeeds like success" and nothing fails like failure.

HOW MUCH SHOULD YOU WEIGH?

Physicians are often asked by patients as to what they should weigh. The physician may ask the height, look up the height and weight table which may be hanging on the wall, and give them the weight considered right for that height. He may suggest 5 pounds less for the slender type and five pounds more for the stocky type. It can thus be seen that individuals of the same height may vary as much as 10 to 20 pounds and yet be the ideal weight for their build.

When considering ideal weight, we usually think of the age of the individual at age of 30, for both men and women. In Great Britain they quite logically estimate the age at which men and women reach maturity from the standpoint of physique or body build. Thus in his book Obesity, Dr. W. F. Christie, London, states:

A man's ideal weight is probably that which he held at the age of 25 years, a woman's at the age of 20; that is on attainment of full physical development. Patient's recollection of their weight at that age will serve as a guide as to what they ought to weigh.

If you are without the height and weight tables and would like to know what you should weigh, there are various methods by which you can get a fairly close estimate of your ideal weight. Thus Dr. Christie suggests:

7. Multiply the number of inches above five feet in height by 5½, add 110 to this figure. For instance, suppose the height is 5 feet 4 inches, without shoes or stockings. 4 x 5½—22. Add 110 to 22 is 132 pounds.

2. A height of five feet 6 inches should weigh 140 pounds, and five pounds should be added for every inch above it.

The above figures more truly represent the weight of women and include the weight of the clothing, about 5 to 6 pounds. For men the above weights would be more nearly correct without clothing, the usual weight of which is 9 to 10 pounds.

With the above method of multiplying the inches over five feet by 4½ and adding 110, together with adding 110, together with adding or subtracting for type of build—stock or slender—you can estimate your ideal weight.

BABSON ON BUSINESS

Business Should Be Realistic

Babson Appeals For Better Business Training

Annapolis, Maryland, December 4. I have attended recently a Sunday Morning chapel service at what I consider the best college in America,—the U. S. Naval Academy. Incidentally, it sets a good example to other colleges by having it compulsory that every student attend Divine Worship at some church every Sunday morning. Out of over 3,000 men nearly 2,500 were at the service which I attended.

Some Good Advice

The sermon was entitled, "A Challenge to Be Real"; it was both practical and inspirational. It was primarily an appeal for honest thinking, but the preacher had the courage to beg the midshipmen to let liquor alone and to beware of "smokes." He also gave them some sound advice about women, saying, "check the man who does not look you in the eye; but beware of the woman who does look you in the eye"! Regarding business, he said that only as more is produced is there more to divide.

The new Naval Academy chapel is most dignified and impressive. Its beautiful stained glass windows are significant of Peace. There is nothing to remind one of war or to arouse any feelings of hate against any group or nation. The closing words of their closing hymn well express the creed of this great college. These words are: "In peace which only Thou canst give, Oh Master let me with Thee live." In my talks with the students, I found a seriousness and religious fervor that exists on few college campuses. Unlike average college men, upset by long-haired radical economic professors, these Annapolis boys know where they are going and that they must struggle to get there.

Only Prosperity Brings Peace

But why should I begin this financial column by writing of this U. S. Naval Academy? The reason is that two diametrically opposite philosophies about Peace are being taught by the colleges of the United States. The State Universities are teaching that Peace is a means to an end,—that is, only Peace will bring prosperity. This Naval Academy is teaching that Peace is not the means to prosperity, but rather that Peace can be found only at the end of a long, long road. They believe that only prosperity brings Peace.

Every businessman and investor should decide whether the State Universities or the Naval Academy is teaching the truth. The length of the War, the ultimate victory and conditions after the War depend upon whether our leaders in politics, industry, and education are thinking soundly, or sleeping soundly. We see the evils of the Germans and Japanese worshipping War; and we know what befell France and her northern neighbors for worshipping Peace. We cannot safely ride two horses when they are going in opposite directions.

What After The War?

Most State University professors are talking about "winning the Peace"; but the Annapolis professors are talking about "winning the War." The State University professors expect a World Federation after World War II which will enable the U. S. to disarm and live in Peace for evermore. The Annapolis professors teach that this is a goal to work for, but we will be at least 100 years more in reaching it. They believe, in accordance with the above-mentioned hymn, that Peace can come not through treaties, leagues, or even the military, but only through the peoples of the world following Jesus' teachings.

Our armed forces have definite ideas as to "keeping-the-Peace" after World War II. They claim that either the English-speaking peoples must police the world or else that Germany must be turned over to the Russians and Japan turned over to the Chinese. This lines up with the subject of that Sunday morning sermon that church people should be realistic as well as idealistic; that businessmen should, after the War, depend for protection on armed forces rather than on forced tariffs.

All Colleges Should Follow Annapolis

I wonder if the United States would not be better off if all educational institutions would follow the lead of the U. S. Naval Academy. Nothing bombastic is taught there; no glorification of war is apparent; yea, not even nationalism per se is talked about. Certainly, one hears much more of jingo doctrines at a National Chamber of Commerce Convention.

An earnest effort is made to teach the fundamentals of living. Most of all, the men are trained. Knowledge can be purchased; but habits come only through training, discipline, and self-control. These midshipmen are taught that life always has been a struggle and always will be. To let any young people get the false idea that "security"—either national or personal—can be bought or legislated is a wicked crime, condemned by both God and history.

When Will War II End?

Naturally, I tried to ascertain from officers and others when I met their ideas as to the length of the War. The consensus of opinion is that we will know nothing definite until Christmas. If Germany, during 1942, breaks through to contact Japan, the War well may last for five years more. If, on the other hand, Germany is held back at the Caucasus and winter without more oil, rubber, compelled to go through another and other supplies, the war well may end in 1943. But whenever it ends, we will be living in a different world and wise are those businessmen, wage workers, and investors who now change their plans accordingly.

To End Extraterritoriality

Chungking (AP)—The Belgian Government through its Ambassador in Chungking has informed the Chinese Government that it has decided to relinquish immediately extraterritoriality and its related rights in China, according to diplomatic circles in Chungking. As early as 1928 the Belgian Government in its treaty with China expressed its readiness to relinquish extraterritorial rights and an agreement will shortly be concluded on this subject between the two countries.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The carefree days of the Gay Nineties and the Galluping Nineteen Hundreds were recalled to my mind today as I read a clipping that stated that the Oriental Hotel had been leased on May 25, 1918, by Arthur F. Stieler. Older readers will recall this hotel that stood on the promontory, just outside the fence and overlooking Kingston Point Park.

The hotel, standing on a hill, was plainly visible for many miles up and down the Hudson river, and during the many years it was operated it was visited by thousand of Kingston residents and visitors to Kingston's favorite playground during the summer months.

In the early days of the 1900's before the advent of the auto age, Kingston Point Park was one of the most popular summer playgrounds in the Hudson river valley. In those early days the pavilion on the river front drew thousands on hot summer nights, who enjoyed the silent movies that were shown and the cooling river breezes.

The old pavilion and the Oriental Hotel, that stood outside the park, are now only a memory as both were destroyed by fire. Offhand I forget the dates when the buildings were burned.

Leafing the pages of the city's history ahead to May 26, 1928, that day marked the formal opening of the new banking house of the Rondout Savings Bank on Broadway, at Mill street.

This old bank for years had been located on Ferry street, at the foot of Broadway. It now stands on the site of one of the best known dry goods stores in the years at the turn of the century. Older readers will have no difficulty in recalling the old dry goods store of the late Sherman E. Eighmey, who for years was one of the outstanding merchants of Kingston.

Shortly after his death the store closed its doors and later the building was bought by the Rondout Savings Bank, and razed to make room for the present fine banking house.

I read an old clipping of May 27, 1918, the other day which related that Ed. M. Heermans had resigned his position that day as paid secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Heermans will be recalled by the business men of Kingston. As I recall it he served several years as secretary of the C. of C.

It was on May 29, 1918, that the Hudson River Day Line announced that it would operate its steamers on Sundays as well as on week days during the season. This was a radical step taken by the Day Line for ever since it had been established it had never ran its steamers on a Sunday.

Record Reveals Stand Made by Liberal-Conservative Supreme Court on Congressional Powers

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 4 — Once upon a time there was a Supreme Court of the United States composed of liberal as well as conservative justices, and yet they agreed unanimously that Congress could not delegate legislative power to the executive agencies of the government unless suitable standards were prescribed marking the extent of the delegated power.

Justices Stone and Roberts concurred in that decision in the N. R. A. case in 1935. The great liberals — Justices Cardozo and Brandeis—also concurred.

But today it is being said openly that there is no use questioning the validity of the recently passed anti-inflation law, because the courts will not question any act of the executive. The assumption that the courts will be guided by the Hitler rule—judgments according to "prevailing sentiment"—is a reflection on the judiciary but such impressions do exist because the present executive has appointed all but two of the present members of the Supreme Court and more than half of all the Circuit Court of Appeals and district judges—possibly a number closer to two-thirds than a half.

Experience has proved, however, that judges do not always follow the wishes of the party to which they have belonged or the administration which gave them the appointment. The idea that the courts will not deal justly with a usurpation of power by the executive agencies is not borne out by recent trends among the lower court justices, some of whom have courageously reversed the fantastic petitions of some of the New Deal agencies and rebuked them as well.

The anti-inflation law contains the seeds of a major issue. It is an issue bigger than inflation itself, because it goes to the roots of constitutional government. Shall an executive agency—in this case, the Office of Economic Stabilization, created by executive order—be permitted to nullify bona fide contracts entered into by employers and employes governing their compensation for the year 1942 and thereafter? Shall the vaguely expressed statement in the anti-inflation law to the effect that the President shall have the power to correct "inequalities" be interpreted to apply to salaries or wages contracted for even before World War II began and before the conditions referred to as "inflation" were present? Shall the mere decree of the Chief Executive that he thinks reduction of a man's salary below pre-war levels is needed to correct an "inequality" be sufficient justification for the taking of a man's earnings from him? Shall there be said to be a fair standard when persons of similar income go untouched within the same bracket?

If the answer is in the affirmative, then the famous decision of the Supreme Court requiring that Congress prescribe the standards within which executive agencies must operate will have been nullified and the power of the executive over the legislative body becomes absolute.

The issue, too, of whether the executive agencies may issue ex post facto rulings governing contracts in existence in 1941 and prior years by merely declaring them invalid is also a pertinent one for consideration. Certainly the state courts will be interested to know that they no longer may pass on the validity of contracts for wages and compensation and that a decree from the White House invalidates all such contracts.

It is interesting to observe that the high-handed manner in which the first executive order undertook to deprive the citizen of his right of court review has been to a large extent modified. The language of the latest regulation issued this week says concerning the new wage and salary decrees:

"Any such determination of the commissioner is final and not subject to review by the tax court of the United States or by any court in any civil proceedings. Nothing herein is intended, however, to deny the right of an employer or employe to contest in the tax court of the United States or in any court of competent jurisdiction the validity of (1) any provision of these regulations on the ground such provision is not authorized by law, or (2) any action taken or determination made under these regulations, on the ground that such action or determination is not authorized, or has not been taken or made in a manner required by law."

What is meant by "not authorized"? This is probably a half-hearted way of conceding that the commissioner might be wrong in going beyond the regulations but it doesn't clear up the question of whether the commissioner's judgment on the "finding of facts" is to be final. In tax matters, a "finding of facts" is final, but this is so by virtue of a congressional enactment supported by a Supreme Court decision. Nowhere in the anti-inflation law did Congress provide for an appeal or denial of appeal.

Doubtless Congress will remedy this in the coming session, for if executive agencies can limit court reviews or say what shall be reviewed, the American system of government has undergone a considerable change even as American soldiers and sailors are being urged to give their lives for the blessings of democracy.

New Furniture Is Reward for Teen-Age Work

America's new song is "Work, work, work." Today not only lads and lassies of high school age but even pre-teen youngsters are doing their share to win the war by gathering scrap, by relieving parents of chores so they can attend first-aid or other training classes for war work, or by taking over errands and tasks formerly handled by older folks.

And the jingle of money is newly in millions of youngsters' pockets in payment for these services. Of course, responsive to patriotic appeals and schooled in a new savings economy, these young Americans promptly cache most of their money in war savings bonds and stamps. But a certain amount of their earnings should be permitted to go for the purchase of things they particularly want, in order to sustain their enthusiasm for the month-after-month work ahead.

Christmas is a fine time to make their rewards take concrete form. High on the list of their longed-for possessions is a "room of my own fixed up as I want it." And by letting them choose their own furniture with their own money, and a special gift from "Mom and Dad" of items a bit big for their budget, they will be mightily pleased.

Why not set up a new color scheme—like soft green and peach, or a more sophisticated cerise and pale blue—for the girl going into her senior year at high? It will vastly impress her numerous friends, and be the mecca for midnight confidences after important dates. Blond furniture will probably be her choice, for it is young and modern looking and smart as a background for any of the colorful settings girls love.

Junior will prefer a more rugged type of furniture—oak or maple made on provincial patterns—for his very own room. And his pieces will probably include a chest of "he-man" sturdiness, essential for holding hobby collections, tools or sports items.

The first use of the direct primary in the United States, it is believed, was in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, in 1868.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

(First of two articles on U. S. feeding of foreign nations.)

Washington—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman has been handed one of the war's toughest jobs.

As Director of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation, he will be the Herbert Hoover of World War II, but without depreciating the splendid job done by Mr. Hoover 25 years ago, the task facing Governor Lehman is ten times that.

Hoover had to deal principally with Belgium, parts of France, Russia and Italy and a few scattered small nations. Governor Lehman will have to consider a big chunk of the whole world.

There already have been stories that when our supply lines in the Solomons forced our troops to cut to two meager meals a day, consisting principally of canned meat, we still were distributing food to hungry natives half starved during Japanese occupation.

When the full story of North Africa is told, it's likely that the prospect of more and better food will have had more to do with capitulation of the French colonials and natives than all the Darlans and Giraods in the book. It is considered here that Spain and Portugal are staying neutral strictly from hunger. And it's a common saying that Italy will trade unconditional surrender for a ham sandwich.

From Greece to Norway, from Brittany to Finland, the occupied and Nazi-allied countries already are starving.

Food, medicine, clothing and even small arms have to be gotten to our allies inside the lines, as well as to those now neutral who might be brought into the ranks of United Nations.

That sets up Governor Lehman in his new post as a sort of superczar of economic warfare.

It means also that he will have to fight one of the battles of the century with the agencies and men in charge of production and distribution of food, clothing, etc., in this country.

Think of it in the single terms of one single commodity: meat. If our armed forces, civilians, and the few allies already being taken care of have already forced the nation to meat rationing, where is the new Director of FRR going to "rob" to get the supplies he must have, to do any kind of job at all? How is he going to do it without upsetting price control? Where is he going to get the transportation to get these supplies to the starving nations?

These are a few of the primary problems that will beset the good governor of New York.

The slugging matches he will have to indulge in with the Board of Economic Warfare, Agriculture, Price Control, the WPB, the Maritime Commission, the armed forces, and half a dozen other agencies, before he can even call his task well begun are ones that will call for greater courage than any leader in the Washington wings and has yet had to display.

(Tomorrow: Why Governor Lehman?)

Millard Davis Is Honorary President of Farm Bureau

Millard Davis of Kerhonkson was relected honorary president and C. C. Dumond of Ulster Park president, at the annual meeting of the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau and 4-H Club Association, which was held in the assembly room at the county building on John street Thursday, with good attendance. Other officers, also relected, are Mrs. William A. Warren of Hurley, vice president; A. M. Hathaway of Kingston, secretary-treasurer.

The three departments of the Association elected directors, or executive committeemen, as follows:

4-H Club

Mrs. William A. Warren, Hurley; Franklin Kelder, Accord; Eber Coy, Ardonia.

Farm Bureau

Harry J. Beatty, Kingston; DeWitt G. Crowell, Wallkill; Elmer Fisher, Highland. Mr. Beatty succeeds George Saile of Asbury who has faithfully served as a director for 15 years and who retires under a plan which has been followed for some years whereby one new director is named each year. Terms are for three years.

Home Bureau

Mrs. Edward Davenport, Accord; Mrs. David DuBois, Forest Glen; Mrs. Floyd Merrihew, Ashokan. Mrs. Davenport and Mrs. DuBois succeed Mrs. H. M. Eppes of Accord and Mrs. Eber Coy of Ardonia, who retire after serving two terms, the limit for consecutive service.

Rationing by Mail

The desirability of arrangements whereby farmers, many of whom live considerable distances from Kingston, can secure ration cards by mail and thus save travel and gas, was discussed. The matter was brought up when one member of the Association declined to serve on a committee because of the travel necessary to come to Kingston. He said that he had driven 20 miles to attend the meeting last night and his gas allowance would not permit him to keep that up.

A committee composed of Pratt Boice, Harry J. Beatty and Albert Kurdt was named to confer with Ulster County War Price and Rationing Board and see what could be done towards having all rationing with farm folks done by mail.

It was brought out that in some cases farmers drove as much as 30 or 40 miles to secure application forms and information and later in instances made the trip a second time. In the matter of gas this meant the use of a quite considerable amount of gas in order to secure a ration book.

Following the business meeting members of the association were entertained by Dr. Harry Livingston of the duPont Co., who gave a talk and demonstration on the advance made by science in recent years in utilizing new substances.

Union Documents Are Examined in Trial of Nuzzo

Newburgh, N. Y. Dec. 4 (AP)—Examination of 56 Union documents and records, submitted as evidence, began today in the grand larceny-forgery trial of Samuel Nuzzo, 46, former union business agent.

Eli Littenberg, an auditor on the staff of Assistant Attorney General Edward G. O'Neill, conducted the examination in the state's case against the onetime officer of Local 17, International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union (A.F.L.).

Most of the documents of Local 17 showed financial transactions on which three indictments against Nuzzo are based.

Mrs. Elizabeth Y. Pushman, former stenographer and bookkeeper of Local 17, identified the union documents submitted as evidence by the state and testified as to her duties while in the local's employ. She was the only witness at the morning session.

At the trial's opening yesterday the jury of 10 men and two women heard the state describe Nuzzo as dominating the union which controlled employment on a $300,000,000 New York city water project.

Nuzzo was indicted on 89 counts charging misappropriation of $35,000 in union funds, after an investigation ordered by former Governor Lehman. O'Neill was assigned to the inquiry by Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr.

Farmers May Correct Errors in Certificates

A special system for farmers to correct any injustices or errors in Certificates of War Necessity has been instituted by the Office of Defense Transportation, according to William J. Hayes, Peekskill District manager, O.D.T.

Purpose of the Certificate of War Necessity, Mr. Hayes explained this morning, is to allow all truck and bus operators sufficient gasoline, tires, and parts for their essential needs. No farmer is to be put out of business as a result of this plan, the O.D.T. spokesman emphasized.

The system depends on farm transportation committees of county war boards of the U. S. Department of Agriculture who will assist farmers in preparing appeals for corrections of Certificates to O.D.T. district offices.

Any dissatisfied farm holder of a Certificate of War Necessity should appeal to his farm transportation committee which will review the individual cases and send recommendations to the O.D.T. district office.

The Office of Defense Transportation will follow recommendations made by the committee unless they are in obvious error. In these instances, the O.D.T. and farm transportation committees will adjust the matter following discussion.

"This does not mean that farmers will not have to accept a cut in their normal supply of gasoline," Mr. Hayes said. "They will be cut along with the rest of the population and we are depending on farm transportation committees to prevent any farmer from imposing on his fellows and getting an unfair share of available supplies. However, all farmers will receive enough gasoline to maintain their essential operations."

Secret Ships Join Fleet

London, Dec. 4 (AP)—Warships so new they still are on the "secret list" were reported today to have joined Britain's Mediterranean fleet as the toll of Axis shipping sunk by Allied sea and air battles rose to six Tunisia-bound supply vessels, three destroyers and a torpedo boat, all apparently sunk within a 24-hour span. These holes in the enemy's sea communications across the Sicilian narrows, announced in British communiques of successive days, countered frantic Axis efforts to get new men and supplies into North Africa for the attempt to hold Tunisia.

Uniform Prices Planned

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP) — The Office of Price Administration notified the public and all dealers today it intends to issue specific uniform price maximums for new ice boxes. The notification was made because the new prices, in some cases, will be lower than prevailing prices. Dealers, particularly, were advised to guide their purchases of ice refrigerators by the fact that they will be bound by the new prices.

Burning Imitation Leather Is Blamed for Poisonous Gas in Night Club Tragedy

Boston, Dec. 4 (AP)—Attorney General Robert T. Bushnell today possessed a state chemists' report that burning imitation leather furnishings produced a poisonous gas in the Cocoanut Grove night club fire that took 491 lives.

The basic substance of the material was nitrous cellulose, a chemical composition which, when subjected to intense heat, emits nitrous oxide fumes, inhalation of which can be deadly the report said.

State investigators disclosed also that they were carefully checking a bundle of food and liquor checks which they said had been charged off by the management to prominent guests. The bundle was found undamaged after the fire.

The investigators added that the checks identified the guests and bore notations such as "important," "a good friend," "see me," and "will settle later."

The gas described by the chemists is essentially the same as that which played a part in the Cleveland clinic fire in Cleveland on May 15, 1929, when 124 persons lost their lives. Fumes in the Cleveland disaster were attributed, however, to burning X-ray film.

A number of witnesses in a city inquest being conducted separately from the state investigation, have testified that the smoke in the Cocoanut Grove holocaust Saturday night contained an acid-like odor they were unable to identify.

Yesterday's inquest session was marked by the testimony of Raymond Baer, 26, a Boston Navy Yard ship fitter, that he never had possessed an electrician's license but that he had done electrical work at the Cocoanut Grove in his spare time for several years.

As the twin investigations progressed, Attorney General Bushnell appointed first Assistant District Attorney John J. Ryan, Jr., of Essex county as a special assistant attorney general and assigned him to the Cocoanut Grove inquiry.

Alpert Tells of Fire

Rickey Alpert, master of ceremonies at the Cocoanut Grove night club, tells of the swift spread of the fire during the Fire Department inquest in Boston. Alpert appeared at the inquest with his right hand bandaged because of burns received in the blaze. Nearly 500 lost their lives as a result of the fire.

McNutt Might Keep His Post Over Manpower

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Edwin W. Pauley, secretary-treasurer of the Democratic national committee, said after a conference with President Roosevelt today that he would not be surprised if Paul V. McNutt remained in charge of manpower in the President's long awaited reorganization of that phase of the war effort.

Pauley told reporters that he had discussed with the President the political aspects of the reported cabinet changes supposedly at first involved in the reorganization and added:

"I'm not quoting the President, but I would not be surprised if McNutt kept that job."

McNutt is now chairman of the war manpower commission and latest reports have had it that he would stay there and be given authority over Selective Service as well as manpower for farm and factory.

Police Court Cases

Eloise Covington, a 19-year-old colored girl of Catskill, was arrested at 2:30 o'clock this morning by Officer Edward Leonard, who charged her with disorderly conduct in using indecent language on Canal street. Later in the morning Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court suspended the serving of any sentence, provided the girl returned to her home in Catskill. Arthur Ferbee, 51, of 45 Meadow street, charged with public intoxication at 5 o'clock this morning, entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned before Judge Cahill and the hearing was adjourned until Saturday morning.

city, including school, welfare department, etc.

"This project which will be put into effect on or about January 1," said Dr. Sanford, "will give to the people of Kingston a very wonderful and much needed nursing service especially in these days when there is a general shortage in physicians and nurses.

"There is no question in my mind," he said "that as time goes on it will definitely prove its value and worth and that the employment of these nurses will continue and become a permanent part of the city's health department."

Bingo Ban Ordered In New York Diocese

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—A ban has been ordered on bingo session sponsored by Roman Catholic Churches in the New York Archdiocese, after numerous churches had continued to conduct bingoes despite Mayor La Guardia's denunciation of the game as unlawful.

At the end of a bingo last night in the Parochial School of St. Jerome's Church here, the Rev. John J. Hughes of St. Jerome's announced he had word from the chancery "that until bingo receives a legal status, those games in this parish will be discontinued."

He said "all churches have their orders."

Years of controversy in and out of court have failed to produce a clear, general ruling as to the legality of bingo. The dispute has hinged on whether or not the game is a form of gambling.

The situation came to a head recently when La Guardia launched his city-wide drive against enterprises of chance.

Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine recently ordered bingo halted in all places but church property. The mayor said Sunday the game was unlawful no matter where played.

U. S. Navy Sinks Nine Jap Craft

claimed that Axis forces captured "an important position" in the developing battle and seized 756 prisoners, including 300 British parachute troops. The scene of the purported action was not disclosed.

The Fascist command also reported intense artillery duels on the Libyan front, 500 miles to the east, which usually means that an offensive is imminent.

Swarms of Planes Used

Both sides were throwing swarms of planes into the struggle for control of the skies over Tunisia, and American airmen alone were reported to have shot down five Axis planes in combat Wednesday, destroyed three on the ground and damaged 21 others.

In one action, dispatches said, Allied fighters intercepted a Stuka dive-bombing formation and forced the Nazis to jettison their bombs on their own troops.

On the Libyan flank of the two-way Allied offensive, British headquarters again announced "nothing to report" from Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th Army, now drawn up awaiting the signal for a climactic assault on Axis defenses at El Agheila.

Allied planes meanwhile pressed home new attacks on Axis supply lines in the Mediterranean, sinking two more merchant ships in a south-bound convoy off the coast of Tunisia and blasting an enemy destroyer with uncertain results.

Stiffening Nazi resistance in Tunisia, coupled with violent Allied sea and air attacks against Axis convoys in the Mediterranean, indicated that Hitler was attempting to shift powerful forces to the North African theatre.

British naval officers related how the waters between Sicily and Tunisia were left filled with German troops Tuesday night when the Royal Navy sank three Axis destroyers and four merchant ships, but the presence of a Nazi U-boat kept the British from picking up survivors.

On the Soviet front, Red Star said the Russians had cleared the enemy from the north end of the Don river bend and were now attacking Axis strongpoints on the east bank, seeking to close the jaws of a trap around the main German siege armies before Stalingrad.

So far, Red Star said, the German strongpoints had managed to keep open the "escape corridor" to the west.

Other Soviet troops threw the Germans back from a strategic height northwest of the Volga metropolis—the third hill captured by the Russians in 36 hours — and killed 1,200 more Nazis southwest of the city.

50 Nazi Planes Ruined

Russian fliers were officially credited with destroying 50 German planes in the Stalingrad area, including 40 big transports used for ferrying reinforcements to the front.

Soviet headquarters said the Germans were desperately launching repeated counterattacks on the central (Moscow) battlefront, but declared the Red Armies continued to advance over fields littered with thousands of Nazi dead.

Other developments:

New Guinea—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that Allied troops, Americans and Australians, had killed 450 Japanese in the Gona sector as they closed in on enemy forces trapped in that coastal stronghold and nearby Buna.

A United Nations communique acknowledged that the Japanese were resisting stubbornly at both ends of the 20-mile-long coastal zone, but declared Allied planes and artillery were subjecting them to a merciless battering.

Model Railroad Club Elects Officers for Year

The Kingston Model Railroad Club, meeting in annual session Thursday evening, returned the Rev. W. K. Haysom to the office of the organization by a unanimous vote of the members present.

Burton C. Spray was re-elected vice-president, and Henry P. Eighmey was returned to his sixth term as secretary-treasurer.

The annual meeting of the club, held at 541 Broadway, was attended by almost the entire membership of the club—only four members being absent. A report of the club's activity during the year revealed exceptional progress on the "Hudson Valley Lines," one-quarter-inch miniature railroad system; and the treasurer's report showed a substantial balance in the treasury.

Regular meetings are held every Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, at 541 Broadway, and visitors are welcome at any time.

Congregational Meeting

The annual congregational meeting at the Reformed Church of the Comforter will be held this evening at the church hall starting at 7:30 o'clock. Reports for the organizations will be given and members of the consistory elected.

Annual Report Is Given at Meeting For Benedictine

The following reports were given at the annual meeting, reception and tea of the Benedictine Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary, held, Wednesday, December 2, at the Nurses' Home.

"Following is a report of the work accomplished by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital since the last annual meeting which was held on December 3, 1941 in the Nurses' Home with the president, Mrs. Raymond Craft, presiding.

Officers who served during the year 1942:

President, Mrs. Raymond Craft

First vice president, Mrs. George Moore

Second vice president, Mrs. Edward Loughran

Third vice president, Mrs. Charles O'Reilly

Fourth vice president, Mrs. Sam Mann

Fifth vice president, Mrs. Philip Foster

Recording secretary, Mrs. Robert Moseley

Corresponding secretary, Mrs. John Olivet

Treasurer, Mrs. Frank Egan

"We have enjoyed a very successful year both socially and financially under the leadership of Mrs. Raymond Craft and an efficient staff of officers.

"The first accomplishment of the auxiliary was the decorating of the hospital for Christmas. Much credit is due the committee in charge for the lovely appearance of the hospital during the Christmas season.

"The annual tea dance of the Junior Auxiliary was given on New Year's Day and was a great success.

"The annual Charity Ball held on Easter Monday night was a success socially as well as financially. The president and the ball committees are to be congratulated for their success in achieving the net receipts of $2,328.53 in a particularly difficult year.

"In September the graduating class of the Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing was entertained at a delightful luncheon held at the Governor Clinton Hotel. A small gift was presented to each nurse. We were especially honored to have as our guests this year two Sisters in the graduating class. The auxiliary also contributed its usual $100 to the Sister Aloysia Scholarship Fund of $300 which is given annually to the nurse having the highest scholarship average in her class.

"The treasurer's report shows a balance of $76.31 in the treasury as of December 1, 1942.

"We regret the resignation of our secretary, Mrs. Robert Moseley, who will be away from Kingston for the duration of the war. The auxiliary is very grateful for the effort and time given by Mrs. Moseley and we hope she will be back with us soon.

"It is with great sorrow that we record the passing of Mrs. John McManus.

"The auxiliary wishes to extend its thanks to all those who have worked to make this such a successful year. We are grateful to the newspapers and Station WKNY for the generous publicity given us and to all who have helped in any way.

"The sincerest thanks of all the members go to Mrs. Craft and her associate workers for their untiring work and effort.

"Our annual meeting, election of officers, and tea is being held this afternoon. Mrs. Vincent Connelly and Mrs. J. E. Phelan are our hostesses.

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. JOHN OLIVET

Superintendent's Report

The report given by Sister Berenice follows:

"Auxiliary members and friends —The activity of the voluntary hospital is just as vital in war as in peace. In fact such a time the hospital is expected to do a bigger job than ever. This will prove true during the present crisis if there should be an invasion of our country. Today, all over the land, hospitals are carrying on with miniature staffs, increased census and a marked decrease in materials. They tell us that the true import of the material shortage has not yet been felt. Daily we hear that many common articles which are almost indispensable in the hospital are no longer being manufactured. Other stocks have been exhausted and metal furniture can no longer be obtained. Doctors and nurses have been taken into the armed forces in large numbers. Many of the lay help have also been drafted or have volunteered. The higher wages of war industries have attracted a large number. Thus every voluntary hospital staff has been greatly decreased. On the other hand the census of the hospitals in most communities has reached an all high mark. The Benedictine Hospital has been over-crowded for some time and the advent of the war has increased rather than decreased the urgent need for the enlargement of the hospital.

"Gladly, therefore, do hospitals welcome and honor groups of loyal women who pledge their support to the community hospitals year after year. The services that women are now rendering as Volunteer Nurses' Aides in various hospitals are deeply appreciated. The American Red Cross plans the formation of additional groups. It is hoped that many women will respond to their urgent appeal.

"The members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital have contributed their faithful services for many years. Prompted by a desire to be of service they have always cooperated and worked faithfully together in arranging the various social affairs from which tangible results were always obtained. Mrs. Raymond Craft, president of the auxiliary for the past two years, has not only given unstintingly of her own time but has that quality of leadership which inspires enthusiastic effort on the part of her fellow workers. Meetings have been well attended and a helpful spirit has always prevailed.

"The outstanding event of the year is the Easter Charity Ball, a great undertaking for these trying times, and nevertheless the same interest was evident at the meetings that has always indicated a remarkable and fine response of the members to unite wholeheartedly for the success of their undertakings. The ladies of the numerous auxiliary committees and indeed the entire corps of workers labored unceasingly for the grand results that were achieved.

"As on previous occasions the nurses who graduated in September were entertained at a luncheon given by the auxiliary members. A member of the graduating class was awarded a scholarship given through the Sister Aloysius Scholarship fund to which the auxiliary contributes its share each year.

"At Christmas members of the auxiliary assisted by the Junior members take a special pride in trimming and decorating trees throughout the hospital.

"Never were linen articles more acceptable than today. Many very useful pieces were purchased and made by the buying and sewing committees.

"We appreciate the fine cooperation of our Rosendale friends who never fail in assisting with our Easter Ball.

"These uncertain days bring many changes. We rgret it was necessary for Mrs. Robert F. Moseley, a faithful auxiliary member, to withdraw from our auxiliary meetings for the duration. We also regret that Mrs. Mark O'Meara, another loyal auxiliary member, has left Kingston. Several other members who are now engaged in positions created as a result of the war have been missed from our auxiliary meetings. It is with sorrow we record the death of Mrs. John Herrick, who was always a very active member of the auxiliary. Mrs. John H. McManus and Mrs. John Clark who also died during the past year, were members of our auxiliary. May their souls and the souls of all our departed members rest in peace.

"It is encouraging to see so many at our annual auxiliary tea. Today's interesting program and beautiful setting was arranged by Mrs. J. E. Phelan and Mrs. Vincent Connelly.

"The members of the Junior Auxiliary are going forward with plans for their usual annual tea on January first. Their courageous spirit is to be commended and we trust they will receive the usual fine cooperation and assistance from the Senior Auxiliary members and the public.

"We deeply appreciate the splendid response and support always given to the auxiliary members each year by the citizens and merchants of Kingston and vicinity.

"Today we are installing a new President, Mrs. John A. Olivet. The many noteworthy achievements of the auxiliary in the past years should encourage and assure our newly elected President, Mrs. Olivet, of the fullest cooperation of each member of the auxiliary for the coming year.

"The management of the Benedictine Hospital takes this occasion to congratulate and thank the Senior and Junior Auxiliary members for their continued interest and support.

"The duty of all American citizens today is one of more than patriotism and loyalty. Our expressions of tribute and sympathy to the men who are serving our country will become empty and meaningless unless we, who remain at home, rededicate our lives to God and pray unceasingly for their protection, implore faith and courage for their loved ones and a speedy cessation of this long and cruel war."

Trains Will Serve Service Men First

Civilians Are Asked Not to Take Many Trips

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP) — Pleasure trips on the nation's railroads, in the opinion of army and railroad officials, should be held to a minimum by the public during the holiday period—extending from December 12 to January 12.

In a radio forum last night, the officials urged civilians not to plan any unnecessary railroad trips during the month period because of the increasing strain on existing railroad equipment in the war effort. They emphasized that there would be no rationing of railroad travel.

They said that if the public adhered to their requests, the railroads during the holiday season could give preference to official troop movements; military personnel going home for Christmas and returning to camp; to families visiting relatives in camps, and for civilian travelers engaged in war work.

Jeffers Asks Action

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Rubber Director William M. Jeffers said today that any delay in bringing synthetic rubber factories into production would be "disastrous" and that there would be some delay. He told a joint congressional committee in a report: "Present indications are that the impact of competitive programs will cause a delay. It is too early to say how much of a delay."

determination to keep a hold on the North African coast as long as possible. The Germans know that once the allies have closed that gap of some 600 miles between Tunis and El Agheila, where Rommel apparently is making ready for a stand, the job of keeping the coasts of Hitler's Europe free of invasion will be twice as onerous as it has been since Dunkerque.

The northern Mediterranean coastline, excluding Spain and not counting minor indentations, is some 4,000 miles long, roughly equal to the western coasts from the Bay of Biscay to the Arctic which Hitler has been manning against invasion since his great opportunity to leap the English Channel slipped away two years ago. Hitherto this southern coast has been the soft underside of the Hitler realm, comparatively feebly because there was no real menace from across the Mediterranean. Now the Fuehrer and his general staff must rearrange the entire plan for holding their plunder and this involves tremendous movements of men and weapons, not to mention the problems which may be involved in holding Italy in line.

All this will take time, perhaps months. The assignment of Rommel and Nehring apparently is to gain those months regardless of the cost.

Steel Workers Go All-Out To Avenge Pearl Harbor

Pittsburgh, Pa. — With the slogan, "Steel Answers Pearl Harbor", steel workers of the country are in action today to roll up better than 10 per cent of their pay every payday for War Bonds.

Eight hundred companies, 1,700 local unions and hundreds of schools have joined forces to achieve the goal by New Year's Day.

Under the sponsorship of the United Steel Workers of America and managements of various companies, the drive will reach into every home of steel workers through the medium of newspapers and the radio.

Philip Murray, president of the C.I.O. and of the United Steel Workers, declared:

"Every steelworkers is fully aware of the danger to his country and more than willing to do his part in averting that danger. Tens of thousands of steelworkers are serving in the armed forces. The rest of us at home are working on the production schedules which mean ultimate victory."

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., praised steel drive as representing an all-out effort by the nation's largest industry to aid in the financing of the war.

He said: "It is extremely gratifying that the nation's largest industry should conduct this drive to wind up on the anniversary of Pearl Harbor. Our experience in the payroll savings plan has taught us that the most productive means of attaining the 10 per cent goal is through the cooperation of labor and management.

"Both the heads of the United Steel Workers of America and the company presidents are to be congratulated on this campaign and I am sure it will be an outstanding success."

Chapter Hears of Development Of American Music at Meeting

A special program on the development of American Music as discussed and illustrated by Mrs. Donald Adams of New Rochelle, was given at the regular meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Adams, who is a former state D. A. R. chairman of the Advancement of American Music, was introduced by Mrs. Lloyd LeFever, program chairman.

Mrs. Adams traced American music from that of the Indians, through the Creole music, Revolutionary War songs, Negro spirituals and of such composers as Stephen Foster, Edward MacDowell, George Gershwin and Howard McKinney. She illustrated each type of music which she discussed by singing a selection of that period. Mrs. Walter T. Tremper accompanied her at the piano.

Her selections were "The White Dawn Is Stealing," an Indian song adapted by Charles Wakefield Cadman; "I Wanta Be Ready," a Negro spiritual by Harry Burleigh; "Mountain Girl's Lament," Tennessee mountain song; and "Juanita," a Creole number of David Guyon. For an example of music written by the first American composer to write for American audiences, Mrs. Adams sang "My Days Have Been So Wonderous Free" by Francis Hopkinson. She also chose Stephen Foster's "Old Folks at Home," Nevin's "Mighty Lak a Rose," Carrie Jacobs Bond's "I Love You Truly." Turning to the modern jazz music, Mrs. Adams was assisted by Mrs. Lester Decker, who played "White Peacock" by Charles Griffith and "Night Wind" also by Mr. Griffith was played by Mrs. Lloyd LeFever. In closing, Mrs. Adams sang "Summertime" by Gershwin; "In My Soul's House" and "Hide and Seek" by Howard McKinney, "I Love Life" by Manazucca.

Several important matters were discussed at the business meeting which preceded the musical. Two gifts were presented to the chapter. Mrs. George N. Woods presented a daguerreotype given by Mrs. Charles Cole Tappen on behalf of Mrs. Cornelia Tappen. The daguerreotype is a photograph of a painting by Peter Vanderlyn, noted Ulster county artist, of his mother-in-law, Elsie Rutgers Schuyler Vas, painted in 1723. It is of interest to the chapter for the subject is an ancestor of Miss Louise van Hoevenberg, past regent of the chapter. The other gift was a section of the Liberty Bell replica which had been cast for exhibition at the Chicago World's Fair. This was presented by Mrs. Philip Elting on behalf of Mrs. William Davis.

Christmas gifts were voted to the World War Veterans' Hospital at Castle Point; the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal fund; and the Hillside School for Boys at Hillside, Mass. Members were asked to contribute clothing for the girl at Tammassee School and these items may be left at the homes of Mrs. Edgar Freese or Mrs. Warren Russell. This project is being conducted by the Junior Group.

The Ellis Island Work gifts were placed under the Christmas tree for packing and shipping. This work is under the direction of a committee headed by Mrs. Clair Sheaffer. Members were also asked to make their donations of articles for the buddy bags which are being packed for the boys in the armed forces. Woman of the Month

Good Citizen Jane Todd, Government's Housekeeper

Jane Todd, working at her desk.

By ADELAIDE KERR
(AP Features Writer)

Jane Todd went into politics before women got the vote because the men in her family could not tell why they fought a change in New York's state charter.

"A woman would know why," she said. "If you can't do a better job than that, I'm going to work for woman's suffrage."

Since then she has become Vice Chairman of the New York State Republican Committee, state Assemblywoman, and mother of some of New York's most important legislation concerning women.

She has just received the American Woman's Association 1942 Award for Eminent Achievement, bestowed for good citizenship and for her work in bringing women into politics.

She is my nomination for the Woman of the Month.

Smiling, friendly Jane Todd thinks there is both need and opportunity for women in politics.

"Women have a much less selfish approach to politics than men," she says. "The average woman goes into politics because of what she thinks she can give, not for what she can get. Women are patient. They are willing to stick at something which they believe in until they get through. They are willing to do the little job in politics which makes for bigger things in the end. There are a lot of little housekeeping jobs in state government—like the journal clerk's for instance — which women are eminently fitted to do. Besides that, we need women in politics—particularly in the state legislatures—because we need a woman's point of view. I'm often asked for the woman's point of view."

Jane Todd's handclasp is firm as a man's. But voice, smile and manner are those of a well-poised woman. She dresses in quiet clothes, often touched with blue to match her eyes.

Her political life began after she had filled a food daughter role in a motherless family. She was born in Tarrytown, N. Y., (where she still lives) of a family of ministers and doctors. When her mother died she left school to run the house for a time and then went back to Castle school and was graduated.

After she did her bit to win woman's suffrage, she was appointed Republican committeewoman in the third election district, Tarrytown. Since then she has made a steady climb — Republican vice chairman of township, county and state. She has been a delegate to every state convention since 1920 and delegate to the national conventions of 1932, '36 and '40. She has served in the state legislature since 1934 and now is chairman of the Republican Conference committee, presiding over more than 80 men.

She can chalk up all this legislation to her credit:

The Hasty Marriage Bill, putting a stop to Gretna Green ceremonies and requiring a waiting period between the issuance of the license and ceremony. A bill giving women the right to do factory work at night during the war. And a housing bill which allowed towns, counties and villages to create their own commissions for bettering housing conditions. She was also influential in passing legislation which extended the age of juvenile delinquency to 18.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

MR. IS NOW OMITTED BEFORE NAME OF MAN IN ARMED SERVICE

Before this present war the name of a junior officer bridegroom was according to social etiquette, prefixed by Mr. At present "Mr." is still occasionally seen, but the younger men of today quite definitely prefer that it be omitted and their rank (or rating) given on the line below. This answers the following letter from a firm of stationers: "In our firm there is at present an unceasing argument as to whether on a wedding invitation or announcement the title Ensign or Lieutenant should precede the bridegroom's name, or appear in the line below. Since we are called upon to know all the answers to engraved forms we are sending this S.O.S. to you."

Order As You Please in Restaurant

Dear Mrs. Post: If one prefers to have salad with the main course or to eat it first, after soup, is it wrong to ask the waitress in a restaurant to bring it when one prefers to eat it?

Answer: In a public restaurant it is at least a patron's privilege to ask for whatever food he likes served whenever he likes and in whatever order he likes it.

What to Do with Wraps at Church Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is to be married at seven o'clock in our church and a small reception is to be held in our home. Shall I remove my wrap when entering the church or wear it during the ceremony? And if I take it off must I carry it up the aisle over my arm, which I am sure would spoil the effect of my clothes almost as much as leaving the wrap on.

Answer: You should arrange to have someone stationed out in the vestibule of the church to take care of your wrap and the wrap of the bridegroom's mother and those of the bride and bridesmaids. Other guests are however, expected to carry their wraps or else wear them.

Sunday Parties

Dear Mrs. Post: Is there any social tabu against giving a large semi-public reception on a Sunday afternoon? So many of our local families are not free to go to affairs of this kind on any day but Sunday.

Answer: I can't answer for every community. But in a great city such as New York for example, the members of the congregations of most churches do not object to a Sunday afternoon reception in honor of a distinguished person or of an approved cause. Socially there has not been any tabu in any very large community during the past twenty or thirty years. In fact, I think we would have to go back to the blue stocking days of at least fifty years ago to find disapproval of all social gatherings on a Sunday. For that matter we know of course that many people give parties of all sorts on Sundays and many social groups approve of them. But then again, there are many who do not.

So many requests have been made for copies of my article on details concerned with training camps (behavior of visitors and presents for the men) that I have had it printed as a leaflet and will be very glad to send it to anyone who sends me a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

The new lamps for Christmas giving this year have been de-metalized and in the process, the designers have given them most attractive bases of pottery, wood, and China, which makes possible a greater variety of color treatments.

Wooden based floor lamps are available to match furniture finishes in the home where your gift is going. Light tones are employed for Modern. The polished base in wood is credited with a man softer and homier effect than metal formerly used. The lamps also lighter in weight.

A three-way lighting floor lamp is a necessity for reading and bridge and a pair of good reading lamps for the table are needed also to provide sufficient light for the family's evening reading and sewing.

The I.E.S. approved lamps are desirable as reading lamps, but it is not necessary to get this type if your gift lamp is intended to be used in hallways or to light corners.

Industry, Draft Must Cooperate

McNutt Gives Helpful Steps to Employers and Men

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Failure by industrial management to do its part in mobilizing manpower would lead directly to the exercise of compulsion on an unnecessarily wide scale, Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the manpower commission, told the war-time meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers. today.

"This is not a threat," McNutt said, "but a statement of fact X X X," based on the existence of an armed force totaling 6,000,000 at present and scheduled to rise to 9,700,000 by the end of 1943.

"Each of you," McNutt told the manufacturers, "will lose just about as many men during 1943 as you have hitherto lost altogether. Moreover, replacements are going to be harder to get. We will be fortunate if 500,000 more people can be squeezed out of the present pool of 1½ million unemployed."

McNutt pointed out these steps as practical ones which manufacturers could take to lessen the impact of the man power shortage on their business:

Every employer should make a careful survey of his employes to determine how many are of draft age, their Selective Service classification and the minimum training time required to replace workers in each occupation.

The results of this survey should be explained to the draft boards where most of the employes are registered. He acknowledged this was difficult.

Do not wait until men enter the armed forces to fill their jobs. Establish a definite training program not only for production workmen but also for supervisors. Train women because you may rest assured that a large proportion of the men you train from now on will go into the army and navy.

McNutt said cessation of voluntary enlistment in the armed services would help industry solve some of its man power problems but added "we must measure the effect of this step on the efficiency and morale of the armed forces."

He said one of the responsibilities of the government in the man power problem was the establishment of national standards of occupational deferment binding upon local Selective Service boards and said a list of essential occupations was being drawn up for the guidance of such boards.

Disappearance of small coins from Santiago, Chile, has been traced to several causes, but mainly because nickel money became so valuable as a war metal that speculators bought up the coins. Copper coins were moved into other areas where acute shortages had developed.

Many Named for Post of National G.O.P. Chairman

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Republican leaders were still hopeful today of avoiding a bitter fight at St. Louis next Monday when the party's national committee meets to select a new chairman.

But there was no absolute assurance that the man to succeed Chairman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., who is voluntarily retiring, would be named without a contest, as half a dozen or more names were said to be in the running and only two possibilities have said they would not accept.

Leaders based their hopes for naming a chairman satisfactory to all factors and without a serious fight on the fact that no one was out campaigning for the post—it's a case of the job seeking the man—and on the desire to consolidate the recent election gains and insure harmony for the 1944 election drive.

There's only one announced candidate for the chairmanship. He is Frank E. Gannett, Rochester, N. Y., publisher who said yesterday that in response to many requests he would permit his name to be presented at the St. Louis meeting.

However, various groups have their candidates and the most talked of possibilities in party circles here are John B. Hollister, Cincinnati lawyer and former member of the House; J. Kenneth Bradley, national committeeman for Connecticut; Werner W. Schroeder, Illinois committeeman; Governor Ralph Carr of Colorado, and Sinclair Weeks, Massachusetts committee member.

Former Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas, 1936 G.O.P. presidential nominee, and John D. M. Hamilton, also of Kansas, former party chairman, have said they would not accept the chairmanship.

Gannett, in his announcement yesterday, said his "one motive for continued participation in politics is to bring about the complete and final defeat of the New Deal."

7,000,000 More Will Join Payroll Savings in U. S.

By Ralph G. Engelsman
Associate Field Director in charge of Payroll Savings.

In the last six weeks the Payroll Savings rolls have grown to twenty-four million people in the United States. Considering the fact that a year ago only seven hundred thousand people were buying bonds regularly under the Payroll Savings Plan, this represents an increase of about 3,000 per cent. But, better than that, the average amount that the people enrolled are saving has reached approximately eight per cent of their gross income.

In our drive "Top That 10 Per Cent by New Year's" it is expected that another six or seven million people will be added to those who are already saving each week or every payday, and there is every indication that the great majority of the firms in the country will achieve the 10 per cent of payroll goal.

Large industries are leading off in this drive. In the steel industry the companies in cooperation with the United Steel Workers of America are putting on a nation-wide campaign starting November 30. The railroads and the brotherhoods are combining to go over the top by New Year's. The trucking industry and many others have already made plans for concentrated drives.

Whole cities are planning to put on 10 per cent Payroll Savings drives before New Year's Day—Hartford, New Haven and Bridgeport, Conn., are in the midst of such drives now. All in all the "Top that 10 per cent by New Year's" campaign promises the greatest selling operation in history.

To accomplish this the Treasury has enlisted the services of some two hundred seventy thousand volunteer salesmen throughout the country. These are not just men asked to go out and sell bonds; they have been trained by our local War Savings Staffs in the technique of putting on Payroll Savings 10 per cent drives in plants, organizations, industries and cities.

In addition, the Treasury has made an instruction film called "Top that 10 per cent by New Year's," which is available in all parts of the United States through the War Savings Staff.

The amount of purchases through the Payroll Savings Plan are already at three hundred million per month and it is estimated that by January 1 this figure will rise to approximately over four hundred million monthly or nearly 5 billion dollars on an annual basis.

Redefined Bill Is Passed

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP) — The House by unanimous consent today passed legislation redefining agricultural parity to include the costs of all farm labor, a step against which President Roosevelt expressed "unalterable opposition" when anti-inflation proposals were before Congress two months ago. At the time parity redefinition was debated in the anti-inflation fight, one government office contended this might result in an increase in living costs of as much as $3,500,000,000 a year. Rep. Pace (D., Ga.), author of the measure, told the House he did not know what effects it might have on living costs. The legislation now goes to the Senate.

O.D.B. Pays $150,000,000

Newark, N. J., Dec. 3 (AP)—Two million payments totalling more than $150,000,000 will be sent this month to dependents of soldiers, Colonel Harold N. Gilbert, director of the Office of Dependency Benefits, announced today. This is the largest amount yet to be paid to soldiers' families, Colonel Gilbert said. The payments, which include nearly 250,000 first allowances on new claims, are the first to go out since the O.D.B. moved to Newark from Washington.

Controversy Impends

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—A vigorous controversy over the transfer of United States properties to Panama under agreements for joint defense of the canal impended in the Senate today. Two Republicans, Senators Johnson of California and Nye of North Dakota, opposed authorization of the agreements by a simple resolution and demanded that they be renegotiated in treaty form. The resolution would authorize: Surrender to Panama of the American-owned water and sewage systems in Panama City and Colon, which otherwise would not revert to Panama until 1957. Transfer to Panama of building lots of the American-owned Panama Railway Company in the two cities. Cancellation of a $2,700,000 debt to the Export-Import Bank to cover Panama's share in construction of the strategic Rio Hato highway.

KILLS TO DODGE ARMY

Lucio Paz, a farm laborer, arrested near Vera Cruz, Mexico, and accused of killing his employer, Jose Velazquez, told the police that he became enraged when Velazquez announced a plan to organize the ranch hands for compulsory military training.

Diner (in restaurant)—Are you the waiter who took my order?
Waiter—Yes, sir!
Diner—You are holding your age well. And how are your grandchildren getting along?

Ain't It So?

There are girls who can smile in the evening,
There are girls who can smile in gray dawn,
But the girl worth while
Is the girl who can smile
When two of her front teeth are gone.

Friend—Didn't your father remember you when he made his will?
Man—I suppose so, that's why he left me out.

Yes, It Happened Here!

"I'm working hard to get ahead," To her dad he murmured sadly. "I'm glad to see it," he replied, "You surely need one badly."

In an agonized whisper the Colonel was addressing his son, whose fiancee was sitting in the other room:
Colonel (as quietly as he could)—Dash it all, Son, I don't admire your choice of a wife. She's nearly blind, she stutters, her complexion is awful, her figure's sloppy, she—

Junior—George Washington.
Teacher—Why, no, Junior. You ought to know better than that, it was Adam.
Junior—Oh, well, I wasn't counting foreigners.

He Knew His Condition

The sheriff said to the murderer: "Better give yourself up, you're through,"
But the criminal could not be daunted:
He said: "I'll be hanged if I do."

Visitor—How many sheep do you have in this field?
Farmer—Now, how many would you say?
Visitor—Two hundred and forty.
Farmer—Well, you are perfectly correct, but jiggered if I know how you counted them so quickly.
Visitor—Easy enough. I just counted all the legs and divided by four.

The seams of her stockings are crooked. Her hair never looks just right. It seems every time I am with her it has to end up in a fight. I don't like the way that she chatters. I don't like the people she knows; I don't like the thoughts that she's thinking. I don't like the hang of her clothes. She worries and flurries and frets me, she's crazy and goody—no end. The party of whom I'm speaking? You guessed it! My favorite girl friend!

Judy—Why did Sandy kick about his wife getting fat?
Rudy—He said there was too much waist.

Dora—I wonder why poor Arthur jumped in the river?

Karam Warns Recs of Over-Confidence for West Point Game

Ticket Sales Hint S. R. O. Turnout at U. S. O. Attraction

First Service Game for Club Scheduled for Next Wednesday at Auditorium; Tickets on Sale

After Wednesday's hectic struggle with the Harlem Yankees Manager "Turk" Karam of the Recreations beamed when talking to reporters about the victory. The Kingston basketball manager was mighty happy that his club had defeated the Yanks as well as winning its third straight of the current season.

"It was just one of those ball games a manager has to face during the season," remarked Karam. "However, that triumph was a bigger pleasure to me than even our win over the Jewels Thanksgiving night."

Last year the Harlem club came up here and started a miniature riot. Wednesday night the same thing occurred but this time the Recreations were ready for the visitors. Karam continued, "after their so-called sportsmanship, all I wanted was a big victory and my boys did come through with it in no uncertain manner."

West Point Next

Although little is known about the West Point Field Artillery Detachment basketball team which will be at the municipal auditorium next Wednesday night in a special U.S.O. benefit game, Karam also had something to say about the game. "We've won three straight and most by the hard route. Although I'm not too well acquainted with the West Point cagers, reliable reports have reached me that the club is pretty strong.

"It's a cinch," said "Turk" that we won't have any picnic at the expense of Uncle Sam's soldiers. They're tough on any battlefield and they'll be tought opponents on the basketball court. I've issued instructions to my club to go out and take nothing for granted. We'll have a hard team to face, we're sure of that." Perhaps Karam is attempting to prevent any over-confidence by his Kingston Recreation cagers when they stack up against West Point next Wednesday night. That three-game winning skein has started the locals off in a right light this season and certainly Karam will not take any chances of having it stopped next week.

Crowds Are Needed

Meanwhile, Recreation officials are going all-out in hopes of packing the auditorium to capacity next Wednesday night. One spokesman of the club announced this morning, "so far we've had a tough time as far as the attendance is concerned. Our best night was Thanksgiving Night and even then we lost some money."

This week the game will be played for the benefit of the U.S.O. fund and there's very little doubt that fans will throng through the turnstiles. However, similar turnouts will be necessary at the other contests if pro basketball is to be continued here.

Besides the special ticket selling contest which is being conducted by the four local war plants, the recreation board also is handling ducats for the contest in addition to other backers of the club who have one goal—that to bring the best crowd into the auditorium that has ever witnessed a basketball contest.

So far the ticket committee reports that the general sale has been very satisfactory but that there are still plenty of extra ducats for the fans. Fans may call the department of recreation, 1682 or contact any Rec board member concerning tickets to this special benefit basketball game at the Broadway court next Wednesday night.

Next Foes for Recs

Freeman Photo

West Point Speech

The commencement address delivered by Jimmy Conzelman, coach of the Chicago Cardinals, at the University of Dayton last spring has been made a text in the college of physical education at University of Minnesota. Previously the speech was made required reading for all cadets at West Point.

Average Is 4.3

National Football League teams have scored an average of 4.3 touchdowns per game this season against 4.4 last year, despite the fact that the Detroit Lions crossed enemy goal lines only five times in 1942.

More for Service

Fifty-eight of the players active in the National Football league this season are enlisted men awaiting call. Ten others are classified 1A and another 21 left the league to join the armed forces after the season opened.

Goes Back to Records

Don't look now, but since Great Lakes has started winning, big town reporters have gone back to identifying former National Leaguers on the Sailors' roster by their collegiate affiliations.

Giants-Dodgers Again

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—The New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers, who were playing a National League football game at the Polo Grounds last December 7 when the news came of the Pearl Harbor attack, will meet on the same field Sunday, but with few of the same players. Of the 66 who participated in that game a year ago, 35 now are in the armed forces.

Two Extremes Meet

Freeman Photo

Colonial Women Memos

Alyce Riseley took the Colonial Women's League bowlers by storm Wednesday night at the Central Recreation alleys when she announced that the seventh frame was the one in which bowlers of that circuit would fight the Japs and Hitler. Alyce remarked, "Five cents a pin, I mean five cents a Jap and good-hunting." Well, the results were very satsfactory. A total of $18.55 was raised towards this league's goal to help buy a bomber for Uncle Sam. That's a great mark, gals, keep up the splendid work . . . During the regular league matches Nekos won one from the Zeroettes and the scores seem an accumulation of 3-6-9 (369-399-399-366-396). Do you girls believe in numerology? . . . Hilda Matthews of the Zeroettes was high with a 459 triple and 187 single . . . The Joneses appear to be rounding into their old form as they took three from Kaplans. Rose Schatzel can still roll those 500-plus. Evelyn Jones seemed like the old gal and compiled a 490 series. Doris Harvey also had her bit to add with a 175 and 475. Evelyn Provenzano missed her 500 mark by a few pins. Reta Frederick, anchor of Kaplans, pounded out a 448 high. Bertha Schaller had high of 169 . . . The Chez Emile squad had too much on their minds and dropped two to the Imperials. Marge Van Alstyne posted high triple for the team with 163 and 431. Imperials' Helen Kruzenski blasted a neat 423 and 164. M. Martalto had a 416 series . . . Cys appeared more in their usual role Wednesday night and proceeded to capture three from the All Stars. To take three from this squad is an achievement in itself. Ethel Wetzel really had one of her big nights in this loop by blasting out a torrid 516 triple and a 196 solo. Bea Coddington had 172 and 484, Alyce Riseley 167 and 473, Helen Smart 161 and 470, Tillie Clearwater found herself in the last game and rolled 152 but when it comes to mix-ups, odd-splits and double-wood, she's good enough for our money. Charlotte Lapine, the only member of her team who rolled true to form, sizzled a neat 470 series. Rita Markle rolled 171 and 444. Tillie Hobush, who of late has been in the 500 class, just couldn't get friendly with that odd pin. Marge Anderson appeared to know her strikes in very good fashion, but how about his important partner, oldman spare? . . . More next week.

Need More Umpires

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP)—A manpower shortage in umpires rather than players is the main baseball problem for the nation's sandlots, Commissioner George M. Sisler of the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress, said today. Sisler added that attempts will be made to enlist a minimum of 5,000 men in the National Association of Umpires.

Billy Evans Is Elected As Baseball President

Former Cleveland Prexy Will Head Southern Association; Scott Loses His Post

By JUDSON BAILEY

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP)—The minor leagues took baseball's winter show away from the majors today and the choicest topic of conversation was not the business facing the convention but the starting switch of Southern Association presidents which brought Billy Evans back into baseball.

Missed His Train

It was the most dramatic story in many years of minor league meetings. And it came about because a train was late.

All day yesterday Evans, former general manager of the Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox, and for 22 years an American League umpire, was just another famous job hunter among the milling mob of baseball men in the lobby of the Palmer House.

Trammel Scott, who had headed the Southern Association for five years and was a member of the executive committee of the National Association of Professional Baseball League for two, still was the president of his league and no one suspected a change—least of all Evans.

Scott had left Atlanta on a train due here at 1:30 p. m. and intended to preside over the southern meeting at 4 p. m., but when his club owners convened, Scott had not been heard from and some of the members, disgruntled for various reasons over past incidents, recalled seeing Evans on the scene for several days.

They knew he was at liberty because Evans had come to the meetings rather expecting to become president of the American Association while George Trautmann was on leave of absence as a colonel with the specialist corps of the Army. But the Specialist Corps recently was disbanded and on Tuesday when the Army accepted his resignation, he returned to the presidency of the A. A.

For two hours the owners argued, with Knoxville, Little Rock, Birmingham, Memphis and New Orleans lining up against Scott while Atlanta, Nashville and Chattanooga urged his retention. Then Paul Florence of Birmingham was sent out to find Evans and an hour later he was installed as the new president.

Regrets Embarassment

His first function was to attend a dinner meeting of the presidents of all the minor leagues and while this was under way Scott arrived, rushed directly to the dinner and took a seat among the league presidents. It was a tense moment as President William G. Bramham of the National Association informed Scott that the Southern Association had named a new president.

Evans expressed regret over the embarassment involved and explained that the offer of the position had come as a great surprise to him. A resident of Cleveland, he said he would take charge of the league headquarters at Atlanta shortly. He will serve under a one-year contract, as Scott had, and will receive a salary of $7,500.

Presidents of all but one of the 26 minor leagues which finished the season were present at last night's dinner. Only the Southeastern was not represented and only the Mountain State League, of those present, said it had decided definitely it could not start next season.

Tourney Slated To Decide Champ Of Lightweights

By SID FEDER

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—There's a new fight stew cooking on the fire today, because the National Boxing Association doesn't believe in "hand-picking" a champion.

That, says N.B.A. President Abe Greene, is, in effect, what the New York State Athletic Commission is doing in insisting on recognizing the winner of a Beau Jack-Tippy Larkin fight in Madison Square Garden, December 18, as the world lightweight champion, succeeding Sammy Angott, who abdicated a few weeks ago because of injured hands.

So, the fight stew probably will come to a boil in the next day or so, because from the way all signs are waving in the wind, the N.B.A. will not give its blessing to the Jack-Larkin winner as champion. Before the victor gets the association's sanction, he'll have to tangle with the survivor of a tournament open to 13 fighters from coast to coast.

Tourney Slated

New York's fistic fathers also dipped into the tournament angle yesterday, in addition to announcing their title recognition for the Jack-Larkin scramble. A tourney will start, the Manhattan moguls of maul decreed, immediately after December 18, and the survivor of the 13-man elimination will get first crack at the "title" from Jerseyan Larkin or Georgian Jack, whoever hits the jackpot two weeks from tonight.

It was this roundabout "rhubarb" that brought from Greene the assertion that General John J. Phelan, New York commission chairman, had broken the agreement he made with Greene a week ago.

"I came to the New York commission," Greene related, "virtually with my hat in my hand, to devise a practicable plan to arrive at a champion. I wanted one, who had proved his right to the title. And I wanted to avoid any implication of hand-picking. General Phelan and I agreed on a program; we announced it together, and the newspapers praised our efforts.

"Now comes another and different plan from the New York commission, which is a below-the-belt punch at boxing throughout the country.

"But I want it made clear that this is not going to be any state tourney excusively. It's a tournament to decide a world championship—and the contests in it are not limited to Madison Square Garden or New York state.

'Win Titles in Ring'

"You know, it was the N.B.A., not New York state, which first named Larkin and Jack as the logical contenders. We could easily have designated the winner of their fight as champion. But N.B.A. champions win their titles in the ring."

The first of the 15-round elimination bouts will be held in one of New York's small clubs, the St. Nicholas Rink, December 21, bringing together Cleo Shans of Los Angeles and Chester Rico of New York. The other 11 eligible to enter the tournament are Allie Stolz of Newark, Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia, Richie Lemos and Juan Zurita of Los Angeles, Slugger White of Baltimore, Willie Joyce of Gary, Ind., Joe Peralta of Tamaqua, and Roman Alvarez, Terry Young, Carmine Fatta and Maxie Shapiro of New York.

Social Security Cards Required For Holiday Work

Part time and temporary workers during the Christmas season are required to have social security cards whose numbers they must report to their employers, Mr. Dublirer, manager of the Kingston office of the Social Security Board, warned today.

Mr. Dublirer pointed out that this requirement applies regardless of the duration of employment or the number of employers worked for.

"Even if the work performed only lasts for one or two days, or for several hours each day until the Christmas shopping season is over, the worker should have an account card," Mr. Dublirer stated.

He pointed out that this requirement is for the protection of the worker himself, so that he may get full credit for all wages paid him toward the eventual computation and payment of old-age and survivors insurance.

There are no age limitations on this provision and it applies equally to high school students, housewives working part time and older workers.

At the same time Mr. Dublirer cautioned workers who have already been issued one social security account card not to get another one.

"There is still a misapprehension on the part of some workers that they obtain a new social security card when they change employment. The card originally issued to a worker is for his entire working span and all wages received by the worker during his lifetime are credited to the number on the original account card.

"Therefore it is highly important for a worker who has lost his original card to come to the local Social Security Board Field Office and ask for a duplicate of his original card, not for a new one."

Literary Guide

"THE CHICAGO," by Harry Hansen.

Some day when you are hurrying to catch a train at Chicago's Union Station, you will see a bridge up-ended in front of your taxi, and if you do not know that trains are held five minutes to compensate for this disadvantage, you will sit unquietly and fulminate. This will be the substance of your contact with the Chicago River, which is the subject of Harry Hansen's contribution to the Rivers of America series, "The Chicago."

Mr. Hansen produces a daily book column for the New York World-Telegram and its affiliates, but long before that, he was a Chicagoan, with a share in the city's lusty newspaper life, and intimate contact with her literary circles. He liked Chicago—it shows in his book. It also helps the book.

The Chicago is the shortest river so far included in this highly successful series, and Mr. Hansen thinks it is one of the most important. It is now a semi-stagnant ditch into which a certain amount of water from Lake Michigan is admitted at intervals. It bears a good many ships, however, and disrupts traffic at frequent intervals. And it is the reason why Fort Dearborn was established where it was; the reason for the northern boundary of Illinois being established so far north; the connecting link between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi River; the highway of Marquette, Joliet, et al., and a landmark through hundreds of years for millions of people.

Mr. Hansen's story of Chicago has a great many advantages. One of these is that he has omitted most geological data—the chief fault of the series has been that many of its contributors have felt impelled to start their books several million years in the past and inch toward the present much too slowly. Chicago's early years are colorful, not to say lurid, and Mr. Hansen's prose is an excellent vehicle for their presentation. The city has always been turbulent, and very often pestered with civic officials whose code could be questioned. These factors give the author some of his best opportunities.

You get the sense of a still-young, still yeasty city out of the book, and a series of striking thumbnail portraits. I could use still more of these, particularly of those gorgeous Chicago hosts and hostesses of the bigger, better and to hell with the expense era.

Willie Turnesa May Be 'Darkhorse' in Miami Tournament

Only Two Strokes Off Pace Set by Loving; Is Now Specialist in U. S. Navy

Miami, Fla., Dec. 4 (AP)—For the second time this year a uniformed member of the golfing Turnesa family from Elmsford, N. Y., put a dash of suspense today into a war-time tournament.

Chief Specialist Willie Turnesa of the navy — the 1938 national amateur champion and now an instructor in the free gunnery school at Hollywood, Fla. — started the second round of the $5,000 Miami open in third place after carding a two-under-par 68 for an opener.

He was only two strokes off the first round pace, set by Ben Loving of Springfield, Mass., with a pair of 33's, and trailed Harold McSpaden of Philadelphia by the thinnest of margins.

Turnesa's threat to the supremacy of the pros recalled the amazing performance of his brother, Corporal Jim of the army, who went to the final round of the P.G.A. championship last summer upsetting both Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson on the way—and then lost the title to Sam Snead.

"I was hitting my shots pretty well," the short, compactly-built Willie related after posting the score which gave him a clean three-stroke lead over the other amateurs.

"Of course, I only get to play golf on Sundays now, and it's hard to keep your game up when you're in the navy. But I'd say that my long game is about as good as it ever was, although my short game is off a little."

Loving had an opportunity for a 64, which would have equalled the competitive course record, but three-putted the 18th green from about 14 feet. He sank a 35-yard chip shot for an eagle on the 460-yard 13th hole.

The straight-shooting tournament favorite had deuces on three par three holes in posting his 34-38.

Jerseyans Top Hoya Poll

Washington (AP)—When the Hoya, Georgetown University student publication, conducted a poll to select the school's outstanding football player of recent years, three New Jerseyans topped the list—Augie Lio of Passaic with 52 votes, Jim Castiglia of Passaic with 36 and big Al Blozis of North Bergen with 31.

ASSOCIATED PRESS 1942 ALL-EASTERN FOOTBALL TEAM

Here are the standout players who make up the 1942 All-Eastern football team selected by The Associated Press. Boston College and Holy Cross are represented by two players each in backfield ace Mike Holovak, and end Don Currivan of Boston College, and Johnny Bezemes, talented back, and George Connor, freshman tackle, of the Crusaders. Others awarded places on the mythical team are Paul Governali, Columbia, and Bill Dutton of Pittsburgh, backs; Bob Davis, Penn State, and Robin Olds, Army, tackle; Ernest Alther of Syracuse and Bob Orlando of Colgate, guards, and Spencer Moseley of Yale, center.

A.F.L. Union Sets Billion as Goal

Workers Hope to Achieve This in Bonds

American Federation of Labor members confidently expect to exceed the billion dollar mark in war bond investments by New Year's and have set an equal goal for 1943. All affiliated local unions have swung into action to put over the "Top that 10 per cent by New Year's campaign."

Meeting in annual convention, delegates enthusiastically endorsed the Treasury Department's payroll savings program, the success of which they attributed to joint labor-management committee.

A resolution approved by President William Green and the executive committee said that "no portion of the war program appeals more completely to motives of patriotism and enlightened self-interest than does the war savings program.

"The purchase of war bonds constitutes one of the most simple and effective safeguards against inflation. It provides a financial backlog for families which will not only safeguard them during any post-war readjustment, but will at the same time provide buying power whereby the wheels of industry may be kept moving and employment provided during this post-war adjustment period."

Success of the voluntary principle of operation in securing the investment of not less than 10 per cent of income of all wage earners for war bonds was lauded as a splendid example of democratic methods.

Not a single union has failed to respond to the payroll savings campaign.

Labor-management approach to payroll savings will have far-reaching good effects upon general employe-employer relations, the delegates declared.

President Green, in detailing the efforts of the American Federation of Labor to promote payroll savings said: "called attention to the work of organizers and assignment of a number of splendid men who are giving their full time in support of the war bond program."

DiMaggio Silent On Wife's Visit To Reno, Nevada

Reno, Nev., Dec. 4 (AP)—Mrs. Joe DiMaggio declined today to discuss reports she was in Reno to dissolve her three-year marriage to the New York Yankee baseball outfielder.

Joe, at his San Francisco home, would say only that "it's my own business where she is and what she's doing."

Mrs. DiMaggio, the former Dorothy Arnoldine Olson of Duluth, Minn., who had a brief screen career as Dorothy Arnold, married the high-priced batting star in an elaborate wedding November 19, 1939, in the heart of San Francisco's Italian colony. They have a son, Joe, Jr., 14 months old.

Princeton Tiger Helped Navy Get Grid Start

Princeton, N. J. (AP)—The Princeton Tiger can take part credit for getting the Navy goat started in intercollegiate football.

The schools inaugurated their rivalry on November 28, 1885 when Princeton sent its second team to Annapolis. After the Tigers scored a 10-0 victory, several of their players remained behind to give the tars some pointers. The gesture helped establish one of the game's most distinguished series.

Edgar Allan Poe, Princeton '91, who tutored the Middle gridders in '91, was the first Navy coach NOT a graduate of Annapolis. He was followed by three other Princeton products—John P. Poe, '95 who was coach in 1896; Garrett Cochrane, '98, mentor in 1899 and 1900, and Arthur R. T. (Doc) Hillebrand who received his Princeton sheepskin in 1900 and succeeded Cochrane the following year.

Barney Ross Is Cited for Heroism

By J. NORMAN LODGE

Marine Front Lines, Guadalcanal, Nov. 22 (Delayed) (AP) — Barney K. Ross, the game little fighting man who lost two world's championships and never cried "We wuz robbed!" today holds the greatest title he ever possessed. He was called a "damned good Marine" by his captain after an overnight match with Jap snipers here on Guadalcanal.

For his undaunted show of heroism in standing guard over three wounded comrades and blazing away in defiance although it was almost certain death to remain exposed to a hidden machinegun nest, Private Ross is now a corporal, and he has been recommended for the Navy Cross or the Army Distinguished Service Cross.

Capt. O. K. LeBlanc of Abbeville, La., the commander of Ross's company, related the story to me as we sat at the edge of a foxhole 300 yards from a Jap-infested hill.

"Ross, a hell of a good Marine," Capt. LeBlanc started out.

After accomplishing its mission in covering an infantry regiment moving forward, Ross's patrol was hit suddenly by heavy, ambushed machinegun fire.

"Three men refused to leave the wounded," Capt. LeBlanc continued. "They were Private Barney K. Ross of Chicago, M. L. Guarnett from some Arkansas town, and Leo J. Washville, a New Jersey boy.

"These three stood guard over the wounded all night. * * * Ross was in one foxhole with three wounded men, ministering their needs as much as possible and keeping up rifle and tommygun fire between times.

"Shortly after midnight, two infantrymen armed with another tommygun and a Garand rifle with plenty of ammunition tumbled into Ross' foxhole. It was cramped with three men and three wounded, so Ross took charge, doing all the firing during the night.

"As the infantrymen loaded and reloaded the tommyguns and the Garand, Ross kept his head above the foxhole returning the Jap fire. Between firing he kept shouting to the Jap nest: 'Come out and fight, you yellow —.'

"I figured Ross fired at least 450 rounds. He killed seven Japs for sure, and probably 10."

Ross, recovering from effect of the adventure at a base hospital area, had only this to add:

"This damned arthritis is giving me hell."

Some 'Jackrabbit'

Fresno, Calif. (AP) — "Jackrabbit Jackie" Fellows, sensational triple threat quarterback, has been more than living up to his name this year at Fresno State College. It is easy to understand why all the Coast teams were after Fellows. He has been instrumental in a majority of Fresno State's touchdowns.

Dog Hits Pay Dirt

Guthrie, Ky., Dec. 4 (AP)—This is a story about a dog that struck "pay dirt" while trying to dig out a skunk it had chased into a hole. Bill Spurlin, who lives on a farm near here, reported that the dog unearthed a 50-cent piece while digging for the skunk. Several boys, who had aided in the chase, took up the search and within a short time found gold and silver coins valued at $500. The gold coins were in denominations of $20, $10 and $5. P. S.—Everybody forgot about the skunk.

Federal Workers Set Good Example in Bond Buying

Latest figures reveal that more than 800,000 federal workers here and in the field are putting 12 per cent of their gross pay into Bonds every payday. Bond buying is at the rate of $300,000,000 a year.

Rear Admiral Charles Conard, former Navy paymaster general and a veteran in government finance, who heads the federal government War Bond campaign at the direction of President Roosevelt, said this achievement is all the more remarkable because:

2—Living costs have been increased, here particularly.

Approximately a million employes, outside of the War Department and the Postal Service, are the object of Admiral Conard's campaign. At the rate these employes are coming into the payroll savings plan Admiral Conard believes that by New Year's the number will reach far above the 90 per cent mark. The War Department is now shifting to the uniform payroll savings plan but the results will not be known for another month.

The Navy civilian personnel and the Treasury Department employes were among the first to go all out in 10 per cent drives. The Public Roads Administration, National Mediation Board, National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics, Federal Power Commission, Food and Drug Administration, Electric Home and Farm Authority, Federal Reserve Board, United States Tariff Commission and Public Works Administration are over the top also.

Payroll savings among government employes have risen steadily. There were 509,000 enrolled in August, 643,000 in September, 713,000 in October and 800,000 in November. Bond purchases have leaped from $14,000,000 a month during the summer to its present $25,000,000 a month level.

Admiral Conard's appeal has been triple-edged. He has asked government people to set the pace for people in private life; and he has told government people that it is wise to save in War Bonds to fight inflation; he has pointed out how bond buying helps the soldier, sailor and marine in the field.

As chairman of the Interdepartmental War Bond Committee which was set up by President Roosevelt last April he is in constant touch with every agency and has been able to iron out many wrinkles of the payroll savings plan for the benefit of both his own and private industrial campaigns.

He Merely Forgot

Coffeyville, Kas., Dec. 4 (AP) — Police records explain it this way: A man rushed into headquarters and said his wife had been riding in his truck and she must have fallen out—and would the police please help find her? The officers learned she'd climbed out to open a farm gate, and her husband had driven absent-mindedly on without her.

THE FREEMAN

A Christmas Carol

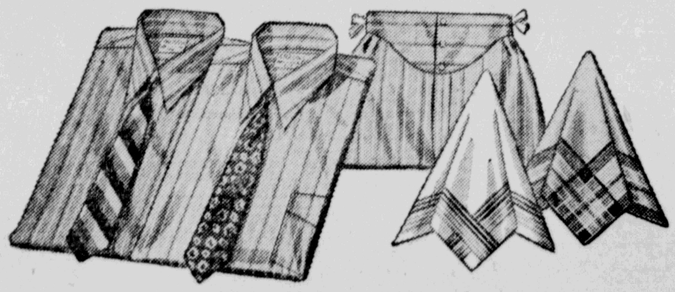

IN MODERN DRESS

Old Scrooge used to be a dreadful killjoy and skin-flint. But one night he had a vision of a shirt, a tie and a handkerchief. The shirt had the handsomest pattern and collar he'd ever seen. The tie harmonized so beautifully with the shirt that he thought he heard the angels singing. And the handkerchief chimed in smoothly. The vision announced itself as "Arrow Carol Tones."

Next day, Scrooge lost no time buying Arrow Carol Tones for himself, his nephew Fred, Tiny Tim, and everyone else he could think of. The shirts all had the Sanforized label, which meant they couldn't shrink out of fit. The ties knotted perfectly, and their patterns looked like £1,000,000. And the shorts were most comfortable. So, everyone was happy, and old Scrooge became the most popular man in town.

Millard Davis Is Honorary President of Farm Bureau

Millard Davis of Kerhonkson was relected honorary president and C. C. Dumond of Ulster Park president, at the annual meeting of the Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau and 4-H Club Association, which was held in the assembly room at the county building on John street Thursday, with good attendance. Other officers, also relected, are Mrs. William A. Warren of Hurley, vice president; A. M. Hathaway of Kingston, secretary-treasurer.

4-H Club

Mrs. William A. Warren, Hurley; Franklin Kelder, Accord; Eber Coy, Ardonia.

Farm Bureau

Harry J. Beatty, Kingston; DeWitt G. Crowell, Wallkill; Elmer Fisher, Highland. Mr. Beatty succeeds George Sale of Asbury who has faithfully served as a director for 15 years and who retires under a plan which has been followed for some years whereby one new director is named each year. Terms are for three years.

Home Bureau

Mrs. Edward Davenport, Accord; Mrs. David DuBois, Forest Glen; Mrs. Floyd Merrihew, Ashokan. Mrs. Davenport and Mrs. DuBois succeed Mrs. H. M. Eppes of Accord and Mrs. Eber Coy of Ardonia, who retire after serving two terms, the limit for consecutive service.

Rationing by Mail

The desirability of arrangements whereby farmers, many of whom live considerable distances from Kingston, can secure ration cards by mail and thus save travel and gas, was discussed. The matter was brought up when one member of the Association declined to serve on a committee because of the travel necessary to come to Kingston. He said that he had driven 20 miles to attend the meeting last night and his gas allowance would not permit him to keep that up.

A committee composed of Pratt Boice, Harry J. Beatty and Albert Kurdt was named to confer with Ulster County War Price and Rationing Board and see what could be done towards having all rationing with farm folks done by mail.

It was brought out that in some cases farmers drove as much as 30 or 40 miles to secure application forms and information and later in instances made the trip a second time. In the matter of gas this meant the use of a quite considerable amount of gas in order to secure a ration book.

Following the business meeting members of the association were entertained by Dr. Harry Livingston of the duPont Co., who gave a talk and demonstration on the advance made by science in recent years in utilizing new substances.

Union Documents Are Examined in Trial of Nuzzo

Newburgh, N. Y. Dec. 4 (AP)—Examination of 56 Union documents and records, submitted as evidence, began today in the grand larceny-forgery trial of Samuel Nuzzo, 46, former union business agent.

Eli Littenberg, an auditor on the staff of Assistant Attorney General Edward G. O'Neill, conducted the examination in the state's case against the onetime officer of Local 17, International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union (A.F.L.).

Most of the documents of Local 17 showed financial transactions on which three indictments against Nuzzo are based.

Mrs. Elizabeth Y. Pushman, former stenographer and bookkeeper of Local 17, identified the union documents submitted as evidence by the state and testified as to her duties while in the local's employ. She was the only witness at the morning session.

At the trial's opening yesterday the jury of 10 men and two women heard the state describe Nuzzo as dominating the union which controlled employment on a $300,000,000 New York city water project.

Nuzzo was indicted on 89 counts charging misappropriation of $35,000 in union funds, after an investigation ordered by former Governor Lehman. O'Neill was assigned to the inquiry by Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr.

Farmers May Correct Errors in Certificates

A special system for farmers to correct any injustices or errors in Certificates of War Necessity has been instituted by the Office of Defense Transportation, according to William J. Hayes, Peekskill District manager, O.D.T.

Purpose of the Certificate of War Necessity, Mr. Hayes explained this morning, is to allow all truck and bus operators sufficient gasoline, tires, and parts for their essential needs. No farmer is to be put out of business as a result of this plan, the O.D.T. spokesman emphasized.

The system depends on farm transportation committees of county war boards of the U. S. Department of Agriculture who will assist farmers in preparing appeals for corrections of Certificates to O.D.T. district offices.

Any dissatisfied farm holder of a Certificate of War Necessity should appeal to his farm transportation committee which will review the individual cases and send recommendations to the O.D.T. district office.

The Office of Defense Transportation will follow recommendations made by the committee unless they are in obvious error. In these instances, the O.D.T. and farm transportation committees will adjust the matter following discussion.

"This does not mean that farmers will not have to accept a cut in their normal supply of gasoline," Mr. Hayes said. "They will be cut along with the rest of the population and we are depending on farm transportation committees to prevent any farmer from imposing on his fellows and getting an unfair share of available supplies. However, all farmers will receive enough gasoline to maintain their essential operations."

Secret Ships Join Fleet

London, Dec. 4 (AP)—Warships so new they still are on the "secret list" were reported today to have joined Britain's Mediterranean fleet as the toll of Axis shipping sunk by Allied sea and air battles rose to six Tunisia-bound supply vessels, three destroyers and a torpedo boat, all apparently sunk within a 24-hour span. These holes in the enemy's sea communications across the Sicilian narrows, announced in British communiques of successive days, countered frantic Axis efforts to get new men and supplies into North Africa for the attempt to hold Tunisia.

Uniform Prices Planned

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP) — The Office of Price Administration notified the public and all dealers today it intends to issue specific uniform price maximums for new ice boxes. The notification was made because the new prices, in some cases, will be lower than prevailing prices. Dealers, particularly, were advised to guide their purchases of ice refrigerators by the fact that they will be bound by the new prices.

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—Selected stocks again made feeble passes at recovery in today's market but many leaders maintained their apathetic demeanor of the preceding session.

The list moved narrowly at the start. Dealings were slower than those of Thursday and, near the fourth hour, small fractional variations either way left the trend direction in doubt. Numerous pivotals were unchanged.

There was further lightening of tax selling but some in the bull rank stood aside to await news from the battle of Tunisia. Earnings prospects continued to bring in bids for individual stocks.

Joseph Lawrence McCann, a native of Kingston, who died Tuesday in St. Clare's Hospital, New York city, following a long illness.

In loving memory of Isabella Parkes, who died one year ago today, December 4, 1941.

One precious to our hearts has gone
The voice we loved is stilled,

Can never more be filled.
Our Father in His wisdom called
The boon His love had given,
And though on earth the body lies

see much. He lay gasping for breath on the pontoon a few minutes, then managed to crawl onto the wing.

Lieutenant Perry taxied the plane forward and spotted another man. We repeated the procedure. He, too, grabbed my leg and managed to crawl onto the pontoon.

He was in bad shape from exhaustion, heat exposure and consumption of too much oil and salt water, but kept trying to tell me something through cracked lips. I put my ear close to his mouth and heard him mumble: "get my buddy over there—get my buddy over there."

He managed to raise on oil-covered arm to point to the right. I climbed on the wing and shouted to Perry but this sharp-eyed pilot already had seen the other man. We taxied to the spot and took aboard "Buddy."

Next, Perry taxied several hundred yards to four men in the water. Luckily they were spread out and we managed to get them onto the pontoon one by one. We now had seven men aboard. We managed to get two of the stronger men onto the wings where they spread out on both sides to distribute the weight.

We took aboard three more in the next hour—making a total of 10. Lieutenant Perry kept taxiing the plane toward a destroyer in the distance.

Five of the rescued men were too weak to get into the wing and remained on the Pontoon, holding onto the wires. One man at the stern of the Pontoon rolled off several times although he retained his hand grip. We rolled him back on the Pontoon each time.

All these men had been in the water from 10 to 15 hours and were off two sunken destroyers. All were wearing lifejackets. They made a grim sight with oil smeared thickly in hair, eyes and ears.

The only parts of the body not oil covered were the hands and bare feet which were bleached pure white and were tightly drawn and wrinkled from long underwater exposure. Most of them had on the full suits of sailors or wore dungarees, but no shoes. Others were just in underwear.

They were too weak to tell the story of the battle but I managed to get the names of some which I wrote on various parts of the fuselage, wing and pontoon. Several hours later, after landing, I examined the plane and found these names:

Francis Shaffer, Fort Smith, Ark.; Bob Brusco, Rainer, Ore.; Entry Porter, Greenville, N. C.; names but no address of R. D. Petit, G. S. Porter, C. E. Wright, L. L. Tudor, and M. J. Ziegler.

We finally neared the destroyer with all ten survivors still on the plane and alive. None seemed seriously injured except for some burns. The destroyer's whaleboat came near the plane. One by one the survivors pushed off into the water. They drifted a short distance and were picked up. They must have hated to hit that salt water again. All that could talk thanked us "for the lift." One yelled: "See you in Tokyo" before jumping from the wing.

One of our seaplane group, piloted by Lieut. (JG) George W. Polk, New York city, and formerly of the New York Herald-Tribune, was on the water at the time the message was received. His plane was dived on by a zero which dropped two small bombs 100 yards away and then started to strafe. Lieutenant Polk saw the zero grinning at the prospect of an easy kill of a seaplane but a moment later a Grumman zoomed up behind and exploded the zero from the sky. Polk reached safety.

Life is like that in the Solomons.

Women Are Now Invading Chemical Process Industry

St. Louis, Dec. 4 (APS)—Women have invaded another of the American male's few remaining labor sanctuaries — the chemical process industry.

No haphazard experiment, the invasion was preceded by months of research by one of the largest chemical firms in the nation.

Furthermore, the newcomers are taking up work far removed from the mechanical mass production jobs at which women have been proved so competent. They'll be plant engineers, draftsmen, control board and filter plant operators and other workers who must make decisions.

It's figured that eventually 30 per cent of the personnel of production, maintenance and laboratory divisions of U. S. chemical plants will be women. That's a tremendous turnover, since the chemical process industry operates with a minimum of personnel and a maximum of capital investment.

For instance, there's a new synthetic rubber plant which cost millions of dollars and will need only a corporal's guard of operators.

More than nine months ago, the Monsanto Chemical Company, foreseeing a manpower shortage by late this year or early in 1943, began exploring the possibilities of the use of women.

Through Mrs. Loretty Moushey, assistant director of Monsanto's industrial relations section, its exploration was exhaustive, extending even to feminine psychology in employment.

It was a pet theory of one of the oldest designing engineers in the Monsanto system, for instance, that young women art students, without engineering knowledge, could be made into plant draftsmen. In less than four months he proved his point. A group of such students who once did a neat job on a petunia now are drawing intricate plans, blueprints and maps—and they love it.

In one giant Monsanto plant eight women in shifts of two soon will care for a water filtering plant capable of turning out processed water sufficient for a community of 20,000 persons. Each morning, one of the young women will climb 75 feet up a flat ladder outside a tank to take a gauge reading.

Mrs. Moushey studied feminine morale and its relationship to attire in many other industries which for years had hired women in production divisions.

Mrs. Moushey, a personable young woman who knowns a thing or two about dress, decided that the one-piece slack suit adopted by many war plants, wouldn't do for Monsanto girls. So she designed a two-piece slack costume with flared lines which toned down bulky hip curves and included all approved safety measures, even to steel safety toes in dressy walking oxfords.

And, while her preparations did not include beauty shops and other such ideas, Mrs. Moushey did study the effect of certain production jobs on the complexion and hands and made complete provisions for the women's comfort.

So attractive are the Monsanto uniforms that Miss Margaret A. Hickey, women's advisor to the War Manpower Commission in Washington, rates the company with the WAACS and WAVES in ability to obtain comely, efficient girls.

The Monsanto program is serving as a model for several other nationally known firms. Other chemical and allied industries have permission to use the plans and uniforms.

Even steel companies — facing the probable shortage of manpower—have sought drafts of the Monsanto program.

Burning Imitation Leather Is Blamed for Poisonous Gas in Night Club Tragedy

Boston, Dec. 4 (AP)—Attorney General Robert T. Bushnell today possessed a state chemists' report that burning imitation leather furnishings produced a poisonous gas in the Cocoanut Grove night club fire that took 491 lives.

The base substance of the material was nitrous cellulose, a chemical composition which, when subjected to intense heat, emits nitrous oxide fumes, inhalation of which can be deadly, the report said.

State investigators disclosed also that they were carefully checking a bundle of food and liquor checks which they said had been charged off by the management to prominent guests. The bundle was found undamaged after the fire.

The investigators added that the checks identified the guests and bore notations such as "important," "a good friend," "see me," and "will settle later."

The gas described by the chemists is essentially the same as that which played a part in the Cleveland clinic fire in Cleveland on May 1, 1929, when 124 persons lost their lives. Fumes in the Cleveland disaster were attributed, however, to burning X-ray film.

A number of witnesses in a city inquest being conducted separately from the state investigation, have testified that the smoke in the Cocoanut Grove holocaust Saturday night contained an acid-like odor they were unable to identify.

Yesterday's inquest session was marked by the testimony of Raymond Barr, 26, a Boston Navy Yard ship fitter, that he never had possessed an electrician's license but that he had done electrical work at the Cocoanut Grove in his spare time for several years.

As the twin investigations progressed, Attorney General Bushnell appointed first Assistant District Attorney John J. Ryan, Jr., of Essex county as a special assistant attorney general and assigned him to the Cocoanut Grove inquiry.

Alpert Tells of Fire

McNutt Might Keep His Post Over Manpower

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Edwin W. Pauley, secretary-treasure of the Democratic national committee, said after a conference with President Roosevelt today that he would not be surprised if Paul V. McNutt remained in charge of manpower in the President's long awaited reorganization of that phase of the war effort.

Pauley told reporters that he had discussed with the President the political aspects of the reported cabinet changes supposedly at first involved in the reorganization and added:

"I'm not quoting the President, but I would not be surprised if McNutt kept that job."

McNutt is now chairman of the war manpower commission and latest reports have had it that he would stay there and be given authority over Selective Service as well as manpower for farm and factory.

Police Court Cases

Eloise Covington, a 19-year-old colored girl of Catskill, was arrested at 2:30 o'clock this morning by Officer Edward Leonard, who charged her with disorderly conduct in using indecent language on Canal street. Later in the morning Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court suspended the serving of any sentence, provided the girl returned to her home in Catskill. Arthur Ferbee, 51, of 45 Meadow street, charged with public intoxication at 5 o'clock this morning, entered a plea of not guilty when arraigned before Judge Cahill and the hearing was adjourned until Saturday morning.

city, including school, welfare department, etc.

"This project which will be put into effect on or about January 1," said Dr. Sanford, "will give to the people of Kingston a very wonderful and much needed nursing service especially in these days when there is a general shortage in physicians and nurses.

"There is no question in my mind," he said "that as time goes on it will definitely prove its value and worth and that the employment of these nurses will continue and become a permanent part of the city's health department."

Bingo Ban Ordered In New York Diocese

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—A ban has been ordered on bingo session sponsored by Roman Catholic Churches in the New York Archdiocese, after numerous churches had continued to conduct bingoes despite Mayor La Guardia's denunciation of the game as unlawful.

At the end of a bingo last night in the Parochial School of St. Jerome's Church here, the Rev. John J. Hughes of St. Jerome's announced he had word from the chancery "that until bingo receives a legal status, those games in this parish will be discontinued."

He said "all churches have their orders."

Years of controversy in and out of court have failed to produce a clear, general ruling as to the legality of bingo. The dispute has hinged on whether or not the game is a form of gambling.

The situation came to a head recently when La Guardia launched his city-wide drive against enterprises of chance.

Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine recently ordered bingo halted in all places but church property. The mayor said Sunday the game was unlawful no matter where played.

At Albany Sessions

County Judge J. Edward Conway and Chief Probation Officer Lawrence M. Jenson were in Albany Thursday attending the annual meeting of the New York State Association of Children's Court Judges. The sessions were held at Hotel Ten Eyck and at the Fort Orange Club.

claimed that Axis forces captured "an important position" in the developing battle and seized 756 prisoners, including 300 British parachute troops. The scene of the purported action was not disclosed.

The Fascist command also reported intense artillery duels on the Libyan front, 500 miles to the east, which usually means that an offensive is imminent.

Swarms of Planes Used

Both sides were throwing swarms of planes into the struggle for control of the skies over Tunisia, and American airmen alone were reported to have shot down five Axis planes in combat Wednesday, destroyed three on the ground and damaged 21 others.

In one action, dispatches said, Allied fighters intercepted a Stuka dive-bombing formation and forced the Nazis to jettison their bombs on their own troops.

On the Libyan flank of the two-way Allied offensive, British headquarters again announced "nothing to report" from Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th Army, now drawn up awaiting the signal for a climactic assault on Axis defenses at El Agheila.

Allied planes meanwhile pressed home new attacks on Axis supply lines in the Mediterranean, sinking two more merchant ships in a south-bound convoy off the coast of Tunisia and blasting an enemy destroyer with uncertain results.

Stiffening Nazi resistance in Tunisia, coupled with violent Allied sea and air attacks against Axis convoys in the Mediterranean, indicated that Hitler was attempting to shift powerful forces to the North African theatre.

British naval officers related how the waters between Sicily and Tunisia were left filled with German troops Tuesday night when the Royal Navy sank three Axis destroyers and four merchant ships, but the presence of a Nazi U-boat kept the British from picking up survivors.

On the Soviet front, Red Star said the Russians had cleared the enemy from the north end of the Don river bend and were now attacking Axis strongpoints on the east bank, seeking to close the jaws of a trap around the main German siege armies before Stalingrad.

So far, Red Star said, the German strongpoints had managed to keep open the "escape corridor" to the west.

Other Soviet troops threw the Germans back from a strategic height northwest of the Volga metropolis—the third hill captured by the Russians in 36 hours — and killed 1,200 more Nazis southwest of the city.

50 Nazi Planes Ruined

Russian fliers were officially credited with destroying 50 German planes in the Stalingrad area, including 40 big transports used for ferrying reinforcements to the front.

Soviet headquarters said the Germans were desperately launching repeated counterattacks on the central (Moscow) battlefront, but declared the Red Armies continued to advance over fields littered with thousands of Nazi dead.

Other developments:

New Guinea—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported that Allied troops, Americans and Australians, had killed 450 Japanese in the Gona sector as they closed in on enemy forces trapped in that coastal stronghold and nearby Buna.

A United Nations communique acknowledged that the Japanese were resisting stubbornly at both ends of the 20-mile-long coastal zone, but declared Allied planes and artillery were subjecting them to a merciless battering.

Model Railroad Club Elects Officers for Year

The Kingston Model Railroad Club, meeting in annual session Thursday evening, returned the Rev. W. K. Haysom to the office of the organization by a unanimous vote of the members present.

Burton C. Spray was re-elected vice-president, and Henry P. Eighmey was returned to his sixth term as secretary-treasurer.

The annual meeting of the club, held at 541 Broadway, was attended by almost the entire membership of the club—only four members being absent. A report of the club's activity during the year revealed exceptional progress on the "Hudson Valley Lines," one-quarter-inch miniature railroad system; and the treasurer's report showed a substantial balance in the treasury.

Regular meetings are held every Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, at 541 Broadway, and visitors are welcome at any time.

Congregational Meeting

The annual congregational meeting at the Reformed Church of the Comforter will be held this evening at the church hall starting at 7:30 o'clock. Reports for the organizations will be given and members of the consistory elected.

"We have enjoyed a very successful year both socially and financially under the leadership of Mrs. Raymond Craft and an efficient staff of officers.

"The first accomplishment of the auxiliary was the decorating of the hospital for Christmas. Much credit is due the committee in charge for the lovely appearance of the hospital during the Christmas season.

"The annual tea dance of the Junior Auxiliary was given on New Year's Day and was a great success.

"The annual Charity Ball held on Easter Monday night was a success socially as well as financially. The president and the ball committees are to be congratulated for their success in achieving the net receipts of $2,328.53 in a particularly difficult year.

"In September the graduating class of the Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing was entertained at a delightful luncheon held at the Governor Clinton Hotel. A small gift was presented to each nurse. We were especially honored to have as our guests this year two Sisters in the graduating class. The auxiliary also contributed its usual $100 to the Sister Aloysia Scholarship Fund of $300 which is given annually to the nurse having the highest scholarship average in her class.

"The treasurer's report shows a balance of $76.31 in the treasury as of December 1, 1942.

"We regret the resignation of our secretary, Mrs. Robert Moseley, who will be away from Kingston for the duration of the war. The auxiliary is very grateful for the effort and time given by Mrs. Moseley and we hope she will be back with us soon.

"It is with great sorrow that we record the passing of Mrs. John McManus.

"The auxiliary wishes to extend its thanks to all those who have worked to make this such a successful year. We are grateful to the newspapers and Station WKNY for the generous publicity given us and to all who have helped in any way.

"The sincerest thanks of all the members go to Mrs. Craft and her associate workers for their untiring work and effort.

"Our annual meeting, election of officers, and tea is being held this afternoon. Mrs. Vincent Connelly and Mrs. J. E. Phelan are our hostesses.

Respectfully submitted,
MRS. JOHN OLIVET
Secretary pro-tem.

Superintendent's Report

The report given by Sister Berenice follows:

"Auxiliary members and friends —The activity of the voluntary hospital is just as vital in war as in peace. In fact such a time the hospital is expected to do a bigger job than ever. This will prove true during the present crisis if there should be an invasion of our country. Today, all over the land, hospitals are carrying on with miniature staffs, increased census and a marked decrease in materials. They tell us that the true import of the material shortage has not yet been felt. Daily we hear that many common articles which are almost indispensable in the hospital are no longer being manufactured. Other stocks have been exhausted and metal furniture can no longer be obtained. Doctors and nurses have been taken into the armed forces in large numbers. Many of the lay help have also been drafted or have volunteered. The higher wages of war industries have attracted a large number. Thus every voluntary hospital staff has been greatly decreased. On the other hand the census of the hospitals in most communities has reached an all high mark. The Benedictine Hospital has been over-crowded for some time and the advent of the war has increased rather than decreased the urgent need for the enlargement of the hospital.

"Gladly, therefore, do hospitals welcome and honor groups of loyal women who pledge their support to the community hospitals year after year. The services that women are now rendering as Volunteer Nurses' Aides in various hospitals are deeply appreciated. The American Red Cross plans the formation of additional groups. It is hoped that many women will respond to their urgent appeal.

"The members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Benedictine Hospital have contributed their faithful services for many years. Prompted by a desire to be of service they have always cooperated and worked faithfully together in arranging the various social affairs from which tangible results were always obtained. Mrs. Raymond Craft, president of the auxiliary for the past two years, has not only given unstintingly of her own time but has that quality of leadership which inspires enthusiastic effort on the part of her fellow workers. Meetings have been well attended and a helpful spirit has always prevailed.

"The outstanding event of the year is the Easter Charity Ball, a great undertaking for these trying times, and nevertheless the same interest was evident at the meetings that has always indicated a remarkable and fine response of the members to unite wholeheartedly for the success of their undertakings. The ladies of the numerous auxiliary committees and indeed the entire corps of workers labored unceasingly for the grand results that were achieved.

"As on previous occasions the nurses who graduated in September were entertained at a luncheon given by the auxiliary members. A member of the graduating class was awarded a scholarship given through the Sister Aloysius Scholarship fund to which the auxiliary contributes its share each year.

"At Christmas members of the auxiliary assisted by the Junior members take a special pride in trimming and decorating trees throughout the hospital.

"Never were linen articles more acceptable than today. Many very useful pieces were purchased and made by the buying and sewing committees.

"We appreciate the fine cooperation of our Rosendale friends who never fail in assisting with our Easter Ball.

"These uncertain days bring many changes. We regret it was necessary for Mrs. Robert F. Moseley, a faithful auxiliary member, to withdraw from our auxiliary meetings for the duration. We also regret that Mrs. Mark O'Meara, another loyal auxiliary member, has left Kingston. Several other members who are now engaged in positions created as a result of the war have been missed from our auxiliary meetings. It is with sorrow we record the death of Mrs. John Herrick, who was always a very active member of the auxiliary. Mrs. John H. McManus and Mrs. John Clark who also died during the past year, were members of our auxiliary. May their souls and the souls of all our departed members rest in peace.

"It is encouraging to see so many at our annual auxiliary tea. Today's interesting program and beautiful setting was arranged by Mrs. J. E. Phelan and Mrs. Vincent Connelly.

"The members of the Junior Auxiliary are going forward with plans for their usual annual tea on January first. Their courageous spirit is to be commended and we trust they will receive the usual fine cooperation and assistance from the Senior Auxiliary members and the public.

"We deeply appreciate the splendid response and support always given to the auxiliary members each year by the citizens and merchants of Kingston and vicinity.

"Today we are installing a new President, Mrs. John A. Olivet. The many noteworthy achievements of the auxiliary in the past years should encourage and assure our newly elected President, Mrs. Olivet, of the fullest cooperation of each member of the auxiliary for the coming year.

"The management of the Benedictine Hospital takes this occasion to congratulate and thank the Senior and Junior Auxiliary members for their continued interest and support.

"The duty of all American citizens today is one of more than patriotism and loyalty. Our expressions of tribute and sympathy to the men who are serving our country will become empty and meaningless unless we, who remain at home, rededicate our lives to God and pray unceasingly for their protection, implore faith and courage for their loved ones and a speedy cessation of this long and cruel war."

Civilians Are Asked Not to Take Many Trips

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP) — Pleasure trips on the nation's railroads, in the opinion of army and railroad officials, should be held to a minimum by the public during the holiday period—extending from December 12 to January 12.

In a radio forum last night, the officials urged civilians not to plan any unnecessary railroad trips during the month period because of the increasing strain on existing railroad equipment in the war effort. They emphasized that there would be no rationing of railroad travel.

They said that if the public adhered to their requests, the railroads during the holiday season could give preference to official troop movements; military personnel going home for Christmas and returning to camp; to families visiting relatives in camps, and for civilian travelers engaged in war work.

Jeffers Asks Action

Washington, Dec. 4 (AP)—Rubber Director William M. Jeffers said today that any delay in bringing synthetic rubber factories into production would be "disastrous" and that there would be some delay. He told a joint congressional committee in a report: "Present indications are that the impact of competitive programs will cause a delay. It is too early to say how much of a delay."

Formal Period Room Deserves Christmas Gift

Selection of New Furniture Varied

Escape Standardized Design of the English Styles

Fortunate indeed are Americans this Christmas, when compared with those families in Britain who must be content with "utility" home equipment of the most economical sort. Two easy chairs will be considered sufficient for an average English family, although if there's a child over 14 years of age living in the home, a smaller "fireside" chair can be bought.

Inasmuch as furniture manufacturers in the United States have been producing at top speed for an extended period of time, and because the fancy figured woods best liked for furniture are not suited to war needs, the supply of merchandise in the stores here this year is greater than it is in many other items.

Most of the furniture to be made in Britain will be of so-called "hardboard," made of pressed paper and wood pulp. The bulk of this furniture is unpainted, though some is stained to look like real wood. Living and dining rooms are being combined. Crockery pots, and pans also will be of strictly utilitarian design. Cups will be made in the Chinese style without handles to save labor, time and material.

The American standard of living which has so long been the envy of the world has been well maintained up to now. Automatic refrigeration and many other appliances are no longer available, but most other home goods are plentiful at present.

Those who invest in a bedroom or dining room suite spend their money for goods of permanent value. Production and sale of them has provided a livelihood for merchant and manufacturer whose taxes help carry the war load.

Hospitality Theme of Home for Christmas

It's hospitality time in more than 30 million American homes. The period from Thanksgiving to the New Year has long constituted the season for welcoming friends into the home; for family gatherings; for intimate parties.

The weeks ahead will see more of this than ever, but the fun will be subdued and the comradeship will be more spiritual, now that almost every home and family has loved ones fighting for freedom.

In consequence the Christmas gift of 1942 will be more substantial and less transient in nature. It is likely that more dining room suites and ensembles will be purchased this year than in most years. Since we're spending more time in the home, we want a "family board" which does the family justice.

Gift for Home Best Gift for Mothers

Furniture Furnishes Her Heart's Desire, Your Perfect Tribute

A gift for mother? So puzzling because you know her so well? It need not be, for remember, that mother's heart beats strongest for the home, the gathering place, the haven, for her family.

Yet big as is her heart and much as she wants to share with the other, the intimate gift that will touch her closely, is the one that helps her enjoy her role in the home. So, first, ask yourself if she has a comfortable chair in which to relax in the living room. Get her one, styled to suit her tastes, whether Queen Anne or channel back style.

Look to her bedroom, her haven of rest. Does she have a chaise lounge or a slipper chair to sit in while she puts on her shoes. These come in inexpensive brackets.

Is she busy with Red Cross sewing or knitting? Then get her a sewing cabinet, with roomy drawers, to match the rest of her furniture. For having her friends in she might like a permanent card table set, with attractive folding chairs.

Monogrammed linen and towels are lovely gifts for a discriminating mother. Fittings for the closet will please her. Think of home when you think of mother and selecting a gift for her for as little as a dollar, as much as you can afford to spend, will be easy.

Remember, mother's heart is in the home.

A SLIGHT DIFFERENCE

Pueblo, Colo. (AP) — A grade teacher sent out her boys to bring in some scrap after a man called and said he had an old bed to donate to the collection. Hours later the seventh grade students came back lugging piles of corrugated iron. "It wasn't a bed; it was a shed he wanted to donate," they explained.

When it was officially announced in German-occupied Estonia that the 1941-42 woodcutting campaign had produced only one-third of the winter's fuel requirements there was much public dissatisfaction, it being rumored that much of the wood was used for other purposes.

Chapter Hears of Development Of American Music at Meeting

A special program on the development of American Music as discussed and illustrated by Mrs. Donald Adams of New Rochelle, was given at the regular meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Adams, who is a former state D. A. R. chairman of the Advancement of American Music, was introduced by Mrs. Lloyd LeFever, program chairman.

Mrs. Adams traced American music from that of the Indians, through the Creole music, Revolutionary War songs, Negro spirituals and of such composers as Stephen Foster, Edward MacDowell, George Gershwin and Howard McKinney. She illustrated each type of music which she discussed by singing a selection of that period. Mrs. Walter T. Tremper accompanied her at the piano.

Her selections were "The White Dawn Is Stealing," an Indian song adapted by Charles Wakefield Cadman; "I Wanta Be Ready," a Negro spiritual by Harry Burleigh; "Mountain Girl's Lament," Tennessee mountain song; and "Juanita," a Creole number of David Guyon. For an example of music written by the first American composer to write for American audiences, Mrs. Adams sang "My Days Have Been So Wonderous Free" by Francis Hopkinson. She also chose Stephen Foster's "Old Folks at Home," Nevin's "Mighty Lak a Rose," Carrie Jacobs Bond's "I Love You Truly." Turning to the modern jazz music, Mrs. Adams was assisted by Mrs. Lester Decker, who played "White Peacock" by Charles Griffith and "Night Wind" also by Mr. Griffith was played by Mrs. Lloyd LeFever. In closing, Mrs. Adams sang "Summertime" by Gershwin; "In My Soul's House" and "Hide and Seek" by Howard McKinney, "I Love Life" by Manazucca.

Several important matters were discussed at the business meeting which preceded the musical. Two gifts were presented to the chapter. Mrs. George N. Woods presented a daguerreotype given by Mrs. Charles Cole Tappen on behalf of Mrs. Cornelia Tappen. The daguerreotype is a photograph of a painting by Peter Vanderlyn, noted Ulster county artist, of his mother-in-law, Elsie Rutgers Schuyler Vas, painted in 1723. It is of interest to the chapter for the subject is an ancestor of Miss Louise van Hoevenberg, past regent of the chapter. The other gift was a section of the Liberty Bell replica which had been cast for exhibition at the Chicago World's Fair. This was presented by Mrs. Philip Elting on behalf of Mrs. William Davis.

Christmas gifts were voted to the World War Veterans' Hospital at Castle Point; the Tuberculosis Christmas Seal fund; and the Hillside School for Boys at Hillside, Mass. Members were asked to contribute clothing for the girl at Tammassee School and these items may be left at the homes of Mrs. Edgar Freese or Mrs. Warren Russell. This project is being conducted by the Junior Group.

The Ellis Island Work gifts were placed under the Christmas tree for packing and shipping. This work is under the direction of a committee headed by Mrs. Clair Sheaffer. Members were also asked to make their donations of articles for the buddy bags which are being packed for the boys in the armed forces. These may be left at the Safford and Scudder jewelry store any time before December 15.

The members of the chapter have been invited to attend the 25th birthday luncheon of Chancellor Livingston Chapter at Rhinebeck, Saturday, December 12, at the Beekman Arms. Those planning to attend are asked to notify Mrs. William Macgregor Mills by December 8.

At the close of the meeting, a social hour was held. Mrs. Charles A. Terwilliger, Mrs. Alva S. Staples and Mrs. Richard H. D. Boerker acted as hostesses.

Probably the "driest" city in the British Isles is Nottingham. Bars never open for more than two hours any evening—from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m., if they open at all. Sunday more bars are closed than open. Monday, Tuesday and Thursday practically all close. Friday most of them open again, and Saturday about half open.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

MR. IS NOW OMITTED BEFORE NAME OF MAN IN ARMED SERVICE

Before this present war the name of a junior officer bridegroom was according to social etiquette, prefixed by Mr. At present "Mr." is still occasionally seen, but the younger men of today quite definitely prefer that it be omitted and their rank (or rating) given on the line below. This answers the following letter from a firm of stationers: "In our firm there is at present an unceasing argument as to whether on a wedding invitation or announcement the title Ensign or Lieutenant should precede the bridegroom's name, or appear in the line below. Since we are called upon to know all the answers to engraved forms we are sending this S.O.S. to you."

Order As You Please in Restaurant

Dear Mrs. Post: If one prefers to have salad with the main course or to eat it first, after soup, is it wrong to ask the waitress in a restaurant to bring it when one prefers to eat it?

Answer: In a public restaurant it is at least a patron's privilege to ask for whatever food he likes served whenever he likes and in whatever order he likes it.

What to Do with Wraps at Church Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is to be married at seven o'clock in our church and a small reception is to be held in our home. Shall I remove my wrap when entering the church or wear it during the ceremony? And if I take it off must I carry it up the aisle over my arm, which I am sure would spoil the effect of my clothes almost as much as leaving the wrap on.

Answer: You should arrange to have someone stationed out in the vestibule of the church to take care of your wrap and the wrap of the bridegroom's mother and those of the bride and bridesmaids. Other guests are however, expected to carry their wraps or else wear them.

Sunday Parties

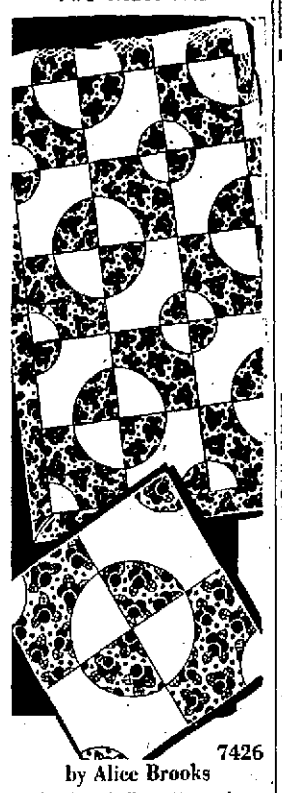

Dear Mrs. Post: Is there any social tabu against giving a large semi-public reception on a Sunday afternoon? So many of our local families are not free to go to affairs of this kind on any day but Sunday.

Answer: I can't answer for every community. But in a great city such as New York for example, the members of the congregations of most churches do not object to a Sunday afternoon reception in honor of a distinguished person or of an approved cause. Socially there has not been any tabu in any very large community during the past twenty or thirty years. In fact, I think we would have to go back to the blue stocking days of at least fifty years ago to find disapproval of all social gatherings on a Sunday. For that matter we know of course that many people give parties of all sorts on Sundays and many social groups approve of them. But then again, there are many who do not.

So many requests have been made for copies of my article on details concerned with training camps (behavior of visitors and presents for the men) that I have had it printed as a leaflet and will be very glad to send it to anyone who sends me a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

Woman of the Month

Good Citizen Jane Todd, Government's Housekeeper

Jane Todd, working at her desk.

By ADELAIDE KERR
(AP Features Writer)

Jane Todd went into politics before women got the vote because the men in her family could not tell why they fought a change in New York's state charter.

"A woman would know why," she said. "If you can't do a better job than that, I'm going to work for woman's suffrage."

Since then she has become Vice Chairman of the New York State Republican Committee, state Assemblywoman, and mother of some of New York's most important legislation concerning women.

She has just received the American Woman's Association 1942 Award for Eminent Achievement, bestowed for good citizenship and for her work in bringing women into politics.

She is my nomination for the Woman of the Month.

Smiling, friendly Jane Todd thinks there is both need and opportunity for women in politics.

"Women have a much less selfish approach to politics than men," she says. "The average woman goes into politics because of what she thinks she can give, not for what she can get. Women are patient. They are willing to stick at something which they believe in until they get through. They are willing to do the little job in politics which makes for bigger things in the end. There are a lot of little housekeeping jobs in state government—like the journal clerk's for instance — which women are eminently fitted to do. Besides that, we need women in politics—particularly in the state legislature—because we need a woman's point of view. I'm often asked for the woman's point of view."

Jane Todd's handclasp is firm as a man's. But voice, smile and manner are those of a well-poised woman. She dresses in quiet clothes, often touched with blue to match her eyes.

Her political life began after she had filled a food daughter role in a motherless family. She was born in Tarrytown, N. Y., (where she still lives) of a family of ministers and doctors. When her mother died she left school to run the house for a time and then went back to Castle school and was graduated.

After she did her bit to win woman's suffrage, she was appointed Republican committeewoman in the third election district, Tarrytown. Since then she has made a steady climb—Republican vice chairman of township, county and state. She has been a delegate to every state convention since 1920 and delegate to the national conventions of 1932, '36 and '40. She has served in the state legislature since 1934 and now is chairman of the Republican Conference committee, presiding over more than 80 men.

She can chalk up all this legislation to her credit:

The Hasty Marriage Bill, putting a stop to Gretna Green ceremonies and requiring a waiting period between the issuance of the license and ceremony. A bill giving women the right to do factory work at night during the war. And a housing bill which allowed towns, counties and villages to create their own commissions for bettering housing conditions. She was also influential in passing legislation which extended the age of juvenile delinquency to 18.

De-Metalized Lamps Are Ready

Bases of Wood, Pottery China, Are Featured

The new lamps for Christmas giving this year have been de-metalized and in the process, the designers have given them most attractive bases of pottery, wood, and China, which makes possible a greater variety of color treatments.

Shades are a distinctive and intriguing feature of the newer lamps with varied designs on parchment and cloth and in heavier materials which sometimes simulate leather.

Wooden based floor lamps are available to match furniture finishes in the home where your gift is going. Light tones are employed for Modern. The polished base in wood is credited with a man softer and homier effect than metal formerly used. The lamps also lighter in weight.

A three-way lighting floor lamp is a necessity for reading and bridge and a pair of good reading lamps for the table are needed also to provide sufficient light for the family's evening reading and sewing.

The I.E.S. approved lamps are desirable as reading lamps, but it is not necessary to get this type if your gift lamp is intended to be used in hallways or to light corners.

Cooper accidentally discovered unanswered in the general offices of the Associated Press in September, 1914. That fateful document was from the great Argentine newspaper, La Nacion, of Buenos Aires, asking for the text of German communiques and all official news concerning World War I.

Call From Continent

Cooper, then chief of the traffic department, saw here a call from a continent in which the Associated Press never had served any newspaper. He went to the then General Manager, Melville E. Stone, and offered to handle it, only to learn that the Associated Press could not serve La Nacion.

His query, "But Why?" brought from Stone an explanation that shocked him, but made him more interested, more determined.

"There had been crusades before—there could be another one," he wrote.

When La Nacion's cablegram was turned over to Havas it declined to make the German war reports available to South America on the ground that they came from an enemy nation.

"We are French; We cannot do it," they told Stone.

"As the French Havas agency owned the news right to South America," Cooper wrote, "the whole continent was treated as a French vassal state in a news way. And as it kept an enemy communique from being read in South America, it could install French flavor in all the Havas news that was read in that continent. All South America could be blanked out on anything not Pro-French—the only entire continent that could be treated thus by any single news agency."

When he learned of this situation, Cooper felt that the Associated Press by its contract was a party to this suppression of legitimate news in many countries, and that it was not defensible to continue a contract guaranteeing any agency a monopoly of a nation outside its own territory, or even in its home territory, if by so doing it kept the people of that nation in the dark.

"Out of this conviction came my idea that the Associated Press news standards should prevail everywhere," he wrote. "Later I realized this would be impossible unless access at the source to the news of all nations would be denied to no one."

The twenty-year struggle to make news available at its source to everyone and to permit the Associated Press to tell the news of the world in its own way and without influence by governments ended successfully on February 12, 1934, when Sir Roderick Jones, head of Reuters, signed an agreement with Cooper in New York. The head of Reuters did not do this, however, until after he had tried unsuccessfully to interest the United Press in taking the place in the combine which the Associated Press had of its own volition decided to vacate.

"To The Associated Press," Cooper says, "I give credit for the creation of what has turned out to be the finest moral concept ever developed in America and given the world. That concept is that news must be truthful and unbiased."

The book discloses the interest in the movement started by Cooper by leaders of American Journalism, including Frank B. Noyes of The Washington Star, the late Adolph S. Ochs of The New York Times, William Randolph Hearst of the Hearst newspapers and owner of the International News Service, Roy Howard of the Scripps-Howard newspapers and once president of the United Press, the late V. S. McClatchy of the Sacramento Bee, Colonel Robert R. McCormick of The Chicago Tribune, and Oswald Garrison Villard, formerly publisher of The New York Post and once a member of the Board of Directors of The Associated Press.

New York Traffic Deaths Show Decrease

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—New York traffic deaths dropped 17.3 per cent and injuries nine and eight-tenths per cent the first 10 months of this year compared to the same 1941 period, chiefly due to reduced traffic mileage.

The State Motor Vehicle Bureau reported a decline of 37.5 per cent in October traffic fatalities under the same month last year. In fact, there were fewer deaths and injuries during the month than in any October on record.

The 10-month totals, followed by 1941 figures for the same period are: Accidents, 56,711 and 60,529; deaths, 1,717 and 2,075; injuries, 72,497 and 80,374.

During October 172 persons were killed and 6,527 injured in 5,314 accidents, while in October, 1941, there were 275 killed and 9,349 injured in 7,210 accidents.

For the month fatal accidents due to speeding showed the greatest drop over the previous October —57 per cent. Open country fatalities declined 51 per cent and daylight crash deaths 50 per cent. Pedestrial fatalities dropped 14 per cent, from 144 to 124, and pedestrial injuries declined 20 per cent, from 3,095 to 2,470.

Meanwhile, the number of taxicaps involved in crashes rose from 426 to 476, or 11.7 per cent.

Always Full Staff First

Do we raise the flag to half-staff when a President dies? If your answer is "yes" you're wrong. You never "raise" the American flag to only half-staff. If the emblem is not already flying you run it all the way up and then lower it.

Court Rules Pay Law Is Valid

Guaranteed Weekly Wage Is Upheld by State Court of Appeals

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—The "guaranteed weekly wage" provision of New York's minimum wage law for persons employed less than a week is constitutional, the Court of Appeals rules.

In another ruling yesterday, the court declared the right of civil service workers in military service to full differential pay without deduction of subsistence allowances.

A department of labor order directing the Army Lincoln Candies, Inc., to comply with a three-day weekly wage order issued for the confectionery industry was approved by the court. The order requires a minimum of $10 weekly during the busy season and $7 in the slack season for women employes.

The court ruled civil service workers in the armed forces must be granted full differential between their military and previous civilian pay, without deduction of federal maintenance allowances. The decision was in a suit brought by Dr. Marcus D. Kogel, former medical superintendent of the Queen's General Hospital.

Pearl Harbor Program

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP).—New York schools will participate actively in the observance of Pearl Harbor Day Monday, anniversary of the Japanese attack on the Pacific outpost. Dr. George E. Stoddard, commissioner of education, said today the office of war information is urging schools and colleges to commemorate the event with a slogan of "Remember Pearl Harbor—Work, Fight, Sacrifice!" Dramatization of that theme is planned in schools, headed, as "a form of sober stock-taking."

The land route from Dakar to the Mediterranean is nearly 3,000 miles in length.

McNutt Gives Helpful Steps to Employers and Men

New York, Dec. 3 (AP)—Failure by industrial management to do its part in mobilizing manpower would lead directly to the exercise of compulsion on an unnecessarily wide scale, Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the manpower commission, told the war-time meeting of the National Association of Manufacturers, today.

"This is not a threat," McNutt said, "but a statement of fact X X X," based on the existence of an armed force totaling 6,000,000 at present and scheduled to rise to 9,700,000 by the end of 1943.

"Each of you," McNutt told the manufacturers, "will lose just about as many men during 1943 as you have hitherto lost altogether. Moreover, replacements are going to be harder to get. We will be fortunate if 500,000 more people can be squeezed out of the present pool of 1½ million unemployed."

McNutt pointed out these steps as practical ones which manufacturers could take to lessen the impact of the man power shortage on their business:

Every employer should make a careful survey of his employes to determine how many are of draft age, their Selective Service classification, and the minimum training time required to replace workers in each occupation.

The results of this survey should be explained to the draft boards where most of the employes are registered. He acknowledged this was difficult.

Do not wait until men enter the armed forces to fill their jobs. Establish a definite training program not only for production workmen but also for supervisors. Train women because you may rest assured that a large proportion of the men you train from now on will go into the army and navy.

McNutt said cessation of voluntary enlistment in the armed services would help industry solve some of its man power problems but added "we must measure the effect of this step on the efficiency and morale of the armed forces."

He said one of the responsibilities of the government in the man power problem was the establishment of national standards of occupational deferment binding upon local Selective Service boards and said a list of essential occupations was being drawn up for the guidance of such boards.

COINS DESERT CITY

Disappearance of small coins from Santiago, Chile, has been traced to several causes, but mainly because nickel money became so valuable as a war metal that speculators bought up the coins. Copper coins were moved into other areas where acute shortages had developed.

Many Named for Post of National G.O.P. Chairman

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP)—Republican leaders were still hopeful today of avoiding a bitter fight at St. Louis next Monday when the party's national committee meets to select a new chairman.

But there was no absolute assurance that the man to succeed Chairman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., who is voluntarily retiring, would be named without a contest, as half a dozen or more names were said to be in the running and only two possibilities have said they would not accept.

Leaders based their hopes for naming a chairman satisfactory to all factors and without a serious fight on the fact that no one was out campaigning for the post—it's a case of the job seeking the man—and on the desire to consolidate the recent election gains and insure harmony for the 1944 election drive.

There's only one announced candidate for the chairmanship. He is Frank E. Gannett, Rochester, N. Y., publisher who said yesterday that in response to many requests he would permit his name to be presented at the St. Louis meeting.

However, various groups have their candidates and the most talked of possibilities in party circles here are John B. Hollister, Cincinnati lawyer and former member of the House; J. Kenneth Bradley, national committeeman for Connecticut; Werner W. Schroeder, Illinois committeeman; Governor Ralph Carr of Colorado, and Sinclair Weeks, Massachusetts committee member.

Former Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas, 1936 G.O.P. presidential nominee, and John D. M. Hamilton, also of Kansas, former party chairman, have said they would not accept the chairmanship.

Gannett, in his announcement yesterday, said his "one motive for continued participation in politics is to bring about the complete and final defeat of the New Deal."

7,000,000 More Will Join Payroll Savings in U. S.

By Ralph G. Engelsman
Associate Field Director in charge of Payroll Savings.

In the last six weeks the Payroll Savings rolls have grown to twenty-four million people in the United States. Considering the fact that a year ago only seven hundred thousand people were buying bonds regularly under the Payroll Savings Plan, this represents an increase of about 3,000 per cent. But, better than that, the average amount that the people enrolled are saving has reached approximately eight per cent of their gross income.

In our drive "Top That 10 Per Cent by New Year's" it is expected that another six or seven million people will be added to those who are already saving each week or every payday, and there is every indication that the great majority of the firms in the country will achieve the 10 per cent of payroll goal.

Large industries are leading off in this drive. In the steel industry the companies in cooperation with the United Steel Workers of America are putting on a nation-wide campaign starting November 30. The railroads and the brotherhoods are combining to go over the top by New Year's. The trucking industry and many others have already made plans for concentrated drives.

Whole cities are planning to put on 10 per cent Payroll Savings drives before New Year's Day—Hartford, New Haven and Bridgeport, Conn., are in the midst of such drives now. All in all the "Top that 10 per cent by New Year's" campaign promises the greatest selling operation in history.

To accomplish this the Treasury has enlisted the services of some two hundred seventy thousand volunteer salesmen throughout the country. These are not just men asked to go out and sell bonds; they have been trained by our local War Savings Staffs in the technique of putting on Payroll Savings 10 per cent drives in plants, organizations, industries and cities.

In addition, the Treasury has made an instruction film called "Top that 10 per cent by New Year's," which is available in all parts of the United States through the War Savings Staff.

The amount of purchases through the Payroll Savings Plan are already at three hundred million per month and it is estimated that by January 1 this figure will rise to approximately over four hundred million monthly or nearly 5 billion dollars on an annual basis.

Redefined Bill Is Passed

Washington, Dec. 3 (AP) — The House by unanimous consent today passed legislation redefining agricultural parity to include the costs of all farm labor, a step against which President Roosevelt expressed "unalterable opposition" when anti-inflation proposals were before Congress two months ago. At the time parity redefinition was debated in the anti-inflation fight, one government office contended this might result in an increase in living costs of as much as $3,500,000,000 a year. Rep. Pace (D., Ga.), author of the measure, told the House he did not know what effects it might have on living costs. The legislation now goes to the Senate.

O.D.B. Pays $150,000,000

Newark, N. J., Dec. 3 (AP)—Two million payments totalling more than $150,000,000 will be sent this month to dependents of soldiers, Colonel Harold N. Gilbert, director of the Office of Dependency Benefits, announced today. This is the largest amount yet to be paid to soldiers' families, Colonel Gilbert said. The payments, which include nearly 250,000 first allowances on new claims, are the first to go out since the O.D.B. moved to Newark from Washington.

Family's Fighting Force

Frederick, Okla. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Holloman of Frederick now have seven sons in the armed services. The roll call: Haskell, lieutenant in the navy; Delmar, army major; Leon, a surgeon, lieutenant; Captain Robert; Horace, a dentist and a lieutenant; I. J., a lieutenant, and Jeff, a private.

The 9 Billion Dollar Victory Loan Drive Is On!

This week the United States Government begins the task of borrowing nine billion dollars within the next several weeks as an essential part of winning the war more quickly and more completely.

During these critical weeks you probably will be visited by a representative of one of the securities firms or banks which are contributing their time and effort — without compensation of any kind — to the Victory Fund Committee. He will explain to you, for instance, the benefits that you can obtain from the new Victory 2½'s —available for the first time. Welcome him as a war worker when he calls. If you miss him, ask your banker or securities dealer for full particulars. There is no limit to the amount that you can purchase.

Today many American families are torn apart. Millions have left their homes or their jobs; thousands have given their lives and many more are prepared to do so.

But the government, your government, is not asking you to give anything to this Nine Billion Dollar Drive. It is asking you to lend it all of the money you can possibly invest in what is the safest investment in the world—at a good rate of interest.

When the victory Fund representative calls, please remember this: it is in your own interest, as well as that of your country, to listen to him—and to invest.

Karam Warns Recs of Over-Confidence for West Point Game

Ticket Sales Hint S. R. O. Turnout at U. S. O. Attraction

First Service Game for Club Scheduled for Next Wednesday at Auditorium; Tickets on Sale

After Wednesday's hectic struggle with the Harlem Yankees Manager "Turk" Karam of the Recreations beamed when talking to reporters about the victory. The Kingston basketball manager was mighty happy that his club had defeated the Yanks as well as winning its third straight of the current season.

"It was just one of those ball games a manager has to face during the season," remarked Karam. "However, that triumph was a bigger pleasure to me than even our win over the Jewels Thanksgiving night."

Last year the Harlem club came up here and started a miniature riot. Wednesday night the same thing occurred but this time the Recreations were ready for the visitors. Karam continued, "after their so-called sportsmanship, all I wanted was a big victory and my boys did come through with it in no uncertain manner."

West Point Next

Although little is known about the West Point Field Artillery Detachment basketball team which will be at the municipal auditorium next Wednesday night in a special U.S.O. benefit game, Karam also had something to say about the game. "We've won three straight and most by the hard route. Although I'm not too well acquainted with the West Point cagers, reliable reports have reached me that the club is pretty strong.

"It's a cinch," said "Turk" that we won't have any picnic at the expense of Uncle Sam's soldiers. They're tough on any battlefield and they'll be tought opponents on the basketball court. I've issued instructions to my club to go out and take nothing for granted. We'll have a hard team to face, we're sure of that." Perhaps Karam is attempting to prevent any over-confidence by his Kingston Recreation cagers when they stack up against West Point next Wednesday night. That three-game winning skein has started the locals off in a right light this season and certainly Karam will not take any chances of having it stopped next week.

Crowds Are Needed

Meanwhile, Recreation officials are going all-out in hopes of packing the auditorium to capacity next Wednesday night. One spokesman of the club announced this morning, "so far we've had a tough time as far as the attendance is concerned. Our best night was Thanksgiving Night and even then we lost some money."

This week the game will be played for the benefit of the U.S.O. fund and there's very little doubt that fans will throng through the turnstiles. However, similar turnouts will be necessary at the other contests if pro basketball is to be continued here.

Besides the special ticket selling contest which is being conducted by the four local war plants, the recreation board also is handling ducats for the contest in addition to other backers of the club who have one goal—that to bring the best crowd into the auditorium that has ever witnessed a basketball contest.

So far the ticket committee reports that the general sale has been very satisfactory but that there are still plenty of extra ducats for the fans. Fans may call the department of recreation, 1682 or contact any Rec board member concerning tickets to this special benefit basketball game at the Broadway court next Wednesday night.

Giants-Dodgers Again

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—The New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers, who were playing a National League football game at the Polo Grounds last December 7 when the news came of the Pearl Harbor attack, will meet on the same field Sunday, but with few of the same players. Of the 66 who participated in that game a year ago, 35 now are in the armed forces.

West Point Speech

The commencement address delivered by Jimmy Conzelman, coach of the Chicago Cardinals, at the University of Dayton last spring has been made a text in the college of physical education at University of Minnesota. Previously the speech was made required reading for all cadets at West Point.

Average Is 4.3

National Football League teams have scored an average of 4.3 touchdowns per game this season against 4.4 last year, despite the fact that the Detroit Lions crossed enemy goal lines only five times in 1942.

More for Service

Fifty-eight of the players active in the National Football league this season are enlisted men awaiting call. Ten others are classified 1A and another 21 left the league to join the armed forces after the season opened.

Goes Back to Records

Don't look now, but since Great Lakes has started winning, big town reporters have gone back to identifying former National Leaguers on the Sailors' roster by their collegiate affiliations.

Two Extremes Meet

Freeman Photo

The two extremes met at the municipal auditorium Wednesday night before the Kingston Recreations went on to defeat the Harlem Yankees. In the above photo Sergeant Lawrence Levine, who is home on furlough from his station in Salt Lake City, Utah, is seeing Howie Bollerman, chief center of the Recreations good luck. Sergeant Levine, who is better known as "Sherky," is four feet, nine inches in height while the Recreation pivot player totals about six feet, six inches.

Colonial Women Memos

Alyce Riseley took the Colonial Women's League bowlers by storm Wednesday night at the Central Recreation alleys when she announced that the seventh frame was the one in which bowlers of that circuit would fight the Japs and Hitler. Alyce remarked, "Five cents a pin, I mean five cents a Jap and good-hunting." Well, the results were very satsfactory. A total of $18.55 was raised towards this league's goal to help buy a bomber for Uncle Sam. That's a great mark, gals, keep up the splendid work . . . During the regular league matches Nekos won one from the Zeroettes and the scores seem an accumulation of 3-6-9 (369-399-399-366-396). Do you girls believe in numerology? . . . Hilda Matthews of the Zeroettes was high with a 1459 triple and 187 single . . . The Joneses appear to be rounding into their old form as they took three from Kaplans. Rose Schatzel can still roll those 500-plus. Evelyn Jones seemed like the old gal and compiled a 490 series. Doris Harvey also had her bit to add with a 175 and 475. Evelyn Provenzano missed her 500 mark by a few pins. Reta Frederick, anchor of Kaplans, pounded out a 448 high. Bertha Schaller had high of 169 . . . The Chez Emile squad had too much on their minds and dropped two to the Imperials. Marge Van Alstyne posted high triple for the team with 163 and 431. Imperials' Helen Kruszenski blasted a neat 423 and 164. M. Martalto had a 416 series . . . Cys appeared more in their usual role Wednesday night and proceeded to capture three from the All Stars. To take three from this squad is an achievement in itself. Ethel Wetzel really had one of her big nights in this loop by blasting out a torrid 516 triple and a 196 solo. Bea Coddington had 172 and 484, Alyce Riseley 167 and 473, Helen Smart 161 and 470, Tillie Clearwater found herself in the last game and rolled 152 but when it comes to mix-ups, odd-splits and double-wood, she's good enough for our money. Charlotte Lapine, the only member of her team who rolled true to form, sizzled a neat 470 series. Rita Markle rolled 171 and 444. Tillie Hobush, who of late has been in the 500 class, just couldn't get friendly with that odd pin. Marge Anderson appeared to know her strikes in very good fashion, but how about his important partner, oldman spare? . . . More next week.

Need More Umpires

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP)—A manpower shortage in umpires rather than players is the main baseball problem for the nation's sandlots, Commissioner George M. Sisler of the National Semi-Pro Baseball Congress, said today. Sisler added that attempts will be made to enlist a minimum of 5,000 men in the National Association of Umpires.

Billy Evans Is Elected As Baseball President

Former Cleveland Prexy Will Head Southern Association; Scott Loses His Post

By JUDSON BAILEY

Chicago, Dec. 4 (AP)—The minor leagues took baseball's winter show away from the majors today and the choicest topic of conversation was not the business facing the convention but the starting switch of Southern Association presidents which brought Billy Evans back into baseball:

Missed His Train

It was the most dramatic story in many years of minor league meetings. And it came about because a train was late.

All day yesterday Evans, former general manager of the Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox, and for 22 years an American League umpire, was just another famous job hunter among the milling mob of baseball men in the lobby of the Palmer House.

Trammel Scott, who had headed the Southern Association for five years and was a member of the executive committee of the National Association of Professional Baseball League for two, still was the president of his league and no one suspected a change—least of all Evans.

Scott had left Atlanta on a train due here at 1:30 p. m. and intended to preside over the southern meeting at 4 p. m., but when his club owners convened, Scott had not been heard from and some of the members, disgruntled for various reasons over past incidents, recalled seeing Evans on the scene for several days.

They knew he was at liberty because Evans had come to the meetings rather expecting to become president of the American Association while George Trautmann was on leave of absence as a colonel with the specialist corps of the Army. But the Specialist Corps recently was disbanded and on Tuesday when the Army accepted his resignation, he returned to the presidency of the A. A.

For two hours the owners argued, with Knoxville, Little Rock, Birmingham, Memphis and New Orleans lining up against Scott while Atlanta, Nashville and Chattanooga urged his retention. Then Paul Florence of Birmingham was sent out to find Evans and an hour later he was installed as the new president.

Regrets Embarassment

His first function was to attend a dinner meeting of the presidents of all the minor leagues and while this was under way Scott arrived, rushed directly to the dinner and took a seat among the league presidents. It was a tense moment as President William G. Bramham of the National Association informed Scott that the Southern Association had named a new president.

Evans expressed regret over the embarassment involved and explained that the offer of the position had come as a great surprise to him. A resident of Cleveland, he said he would take charge of the league headquarters at Atlanta shortly. He will serve under a one-year contract, as Scott had, and will receive a salary of $7,500.

Presidents of all but one of the 26 minor leagues which finished the season were present at last night's dinner. Only the Southeastern was not represented and only the Mountain State League, of those present, said it had decided definitely it could not start next season.

Tourney Slated To Decide Champ Of Lightweights

By SID FEDER

New York, Dec. 4 (AP)—There's a new fight stew cooking on the fire today, because the National Boxing Association doesn't believe in "hand-picking" a champion.

That, says N.B.A. President Abe Greene, is, in effect, what the New York State Athletic Commission is doing in insisting on recognizing the winner of a Beau Jack-Tippy Larkin fight in Madison Square Garden, December 18, as the world lightweight champion, succeeding Sammy Angott, who abdicated a few weeks ago because of injured hands.

So, the fight stew probably will come to a boil in the next day or so, because from the way all signs are waving in the wind, the N.B.A. will not give its blessing to the Jack-Larkin winner as champion. Before the victor gets the association's sanction, he'll have to tangle with the survivor of a tournament open to 13 fighters from coast to coast.

Tourney Slated

New York's fistic fathers also dipped into the tournament angle yesterday, in addition to announcing their title recognition for the Jack-Larkin scramble. A tourney will start, the Manhattan moguls of maul decreed, immediately after December 18, and the survivor of the 13-man elimination will get first crack at the "title" from Jerseyan Larkin or Georgian Jack, whoever hits the jackpot two weeks from tonight.

It was this roundabout "rhubarb" that brought from Greene the assertion that General John J. Phelan, New York commission chairman, had broken the agreement he made with Greene a week ago.

"I came to the New York commission," Greene related, "virtually with my hat in my hand, to devise a practicable plan to arrive at a champion. I wanted one, who had proved his right to the title.. And I wanted to avoid any implication of hand-picking. General Phelan and I agreed on a program; we announced it together, and the newspapers praised our efforts.

"Now comes another and different plan from the New York commission, which is a below-the-belt punch at boxing throughout the country.

"But I want it made clear that this is not going to be any state tourney excusively. It's a tournament to decide a world championship—and the contests in it are not limited to Madison Square Garden or New York state.

'Win Titles in Ring'

"You know, it was the N.B.A., not New York state, which first named Larkin and Jack as the logical contenders. We could easily have designated the winner of their fight as champion. But N.B.A. champions win their titles in the ring."

The first of the 15-round elimination bouts will be held in one of New York's small clubs, the St. Nicholas Rink, December 21, bringing together Cleo Shans of Los Angeles and Chester Rico of New York. The other 11 eligible to enter the tournament are Allie Stolz of Newark, Bob Montgomery of Philadelphia, Richie Lemos and Juan Zurita of Los Angeles, Slugger White of Baltimore. Willie Joyce of Gary, Ind., Joe Peralta of Tamaqua, and Roman Alvarez, Terry Young, Carmine Fatta and Maxie Shapiro of New York.

Likes 1942 Bears

Willie Turnesa May Be 'Darkhorse' in Miami Tournament

Miami, Fla., Dec. 4 (AP)—For the second time this year a uniformed member of the golfing Turnesa family from Elmsford, N. Y., put a dash of suspense today into a war-time tournament.

Chief Specialist Willie Turnesa of the navy — the 1938 national amateur champion and now an instructor in the free gunnery school at Hollywood, Fla. — started the second round of the $5,000 Miami open in third place after carding a two-under-par 68 for an opener.

He was only two strokes off the first round pace set by Ben Loving of Springfield, Mass., with a pair of 33's, and trailed Harold McSpaden of Philadelphia by the thinnest of margins.

Turnesa's threat to the supremacy of the pros recalled the amazing performance of his brother, Corporal Jim of the army, who went to the final round of the P.G.A. championship last summer upsetting both Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson on the way—and then lost the title to Sam Snead.

"I was hitting my shots pretty well," the short, compactly-built Willie related after posting the score which gave him a clean three-stroke lead over the other amateurs.

"Of course, I only get to play golf on Sundays now, and it's hard to keep your game up when you're in the navy. But I'd say that my long game is about as good as it ever was, although my short game is off a little."

Loving had an opportunity for a 64, which would have equalled the competitive course record, but three-putted the 18th green from about 14 feet. He sank a 35-yard chip shot for an eagle on the 460-yard 13th hole.

Playing with a bandage on his blistered right thumb, McSpaden, in his own words, "hit some great shots and missed some easy ones."

The straight-shooting tournament favorite had deuces on three par three holes in posting his 34-33.

A.F.L. Union Sets Billion as Goal

Workers Hope to Achieve This in Bonds

American Federation of Labor members confidently expect to exceed the billion dollar mark in war bond investments by New Year's and have set an equal goal for 1943. All affiliated local unions have swung into action to put over the "Top that 10 per cent by New Year's campaign."

Meeting in annual convention, delegates enthusiastically endorsed the Treasury Department's payroll savings program, the success of which they attributed to joint labor-management committee.

A resolution approved by President William Green and the executive committee said that "no portion of the war program appeals more completely to motives of patriotism and enlightened self-interest than does the war savings program.

"The purchase of war bonds constitutes one of the most simple and effective safeguards against inflation. It provides a financial backlog for families which will not only safeguard them during any post-war readjustment, but will at the same time provide buying power whereby the wheels of industry may be kept moving and employment provided during this post-war adjustment period."

Success of the voluntary principle of operation in securing the investment of not less than 10 per cent of income of all wage earners for war bonds was lauded as a splendid example of democratic methods.

Not a single union has failed to respond to the payroll savings campaign.

Labor-management approach to payroll savings will have far-reaching good effects upon general employe-employer relations, the delegates declared.

President Green, in detailing the efforts of the American Federation of Labor to promote payroll savings said: "called attention to the work of organizers and assignment of a number of splendid men who are giving their full time in support of the war bond program."

DiMaggio Silent On Wife's Visit To Reno, Nevada

Reno, Nev., Dec. 4 (AP)—Mrs. Joe DiMaggio declined today to discuss reports she was in Reno to dissolve her three-year marriage to the New York Yankee baseball outfielder.

Joe, at his San Francisco home, would say only that "it's my own business where she is and what she's doing."

Mrs. DiMaggio, the former Dorothy Arnoldine Olson of Duluth, Minn., who had a brief screen career as Dorothy Arnold, married the high-priced batting star in an elaborate wedding November 19, 1939, in the heart of San Francisco's Italian colony. They have a son, Joe, Jr., 14 months old.

Barney Ross Is Cited for Heroism

By J. NORMAN LODGE

Marine Front Lines, Guadalcanal, Nov. 22. (Delayed) (AP) — Barney K. Ross, the game little fighting man who lost two world's championships and never cried "We wuz robbed!" today holds the greatest title he ever possessed. He was called a "damned good Marine" by his captain after an overnight match with Jap snipers here on Guadalcanal.

For his undaunted show of heroism in standing guard over three wounded comrades and blazing away in defiance although it was almost certain death to remain exposed to a hidden machinegun nest, Private Ross is now a corporal, and he has been recommended for the Navy Cross or the Army Distinguished Service Cross.

Capt. O. K. LeBlanc of Abbeville, La., the commander of Ross's company, related the story to me as we sat at the edge of a foxhole 300 yards from a Jap-infested hill.

"Ross, a hell of a good Marine," Capt. LeBlanc started out.

After accomplishing its mission in covering an infantry regiment moving forward, Ross's patrol was hit suddenly by heavy, ambushed machinegun fire.

"Three men refused to leave the wounded," Capt. LeBlanc continued. "They were Private Barney K. Ross of Chicago, M. L. Guarnett from some Arkansas town, and Leo J. Washville, a New Jersey boy.

"These three stood guard over the wounded all night. * * * Ross was in one foxhole with three wounded men, ministering their needs as much as possible and keeping up rifle and tommygun fire between times.

"Shortly after midnight, two infantrymen armed with another tommygun and a Garand rifle with plenty of ammunition tumbled into Ross' foxhole. It was cramped with three men and three wounded, so Ross took charge, doing all the firing during the night.

"As the infantrymen loaded and reloaded the tommyguns and the Garand, Ross kept his head above the foxhole returning the Jap fire. Between firing he kept shouting to the Jap nest: 'Come out and fight, you yellow —.'

"I figured Ross fired at least 450 rounds. He killed seven Japs for sure, and probably 10."

Ross, recovering from effect of the adventure at a base hospital area, had only this to add:

"This damned arthritis is giving me hell."

Some 'Jackrabbit'

Fresno, Calif. (AP) — "Jackrabbit Jackie" Fellows, sensational triple threat quarterback, has been more than living up to his name this year at Fresno State College. It is easy to understand why all the Coast teams were after Fellows. He has been instrumental in a majority of Fresno State's touchdowns.

Dog Hits Pay Dirt

Guthrie, Ky., Dec. 4 (AP)—This is a story about a dog that struck "pay dirt" while trying to dig out a skunk it had chased into a hole.

Bill Spurlin, who lives on a farm near here, reported that the dog unearthed a 50-cent piece while digging for the skunk. Several boys, who had aided in the chase, took up the search and within a short time found gold and silver coins valued at $300. The gold coins were in denominations of $20, $10 and $5. P. S.—Everybody forgot about the skunk.

Princeton Tiger Helped Navy Get Grid Start

The schools inaugurated their rivalry on November 28, 1885 when Princeton sent its second team to Annapolis. After the Tigers scored a 104 victory, several of their players remained behind to give the tars some pointers. The gesture helped establish one of the game's most distinguished series.

Edgar Allan Poe, Princeton '91, who tutored the Middle gridders in '90, was the first Navy coach NOT a graduate of Annapolis. He was followed by three other Princeton products—John P. Poe, '95 who was coach in 1896; Garrett Cochrane, '98, mentor in 1899 and 1900, and Arthur R. T. (Doc) Hillebrand who received his Princeton sheepskin in 1900 and succeeded Cochrane the following year.

Federal Workers Set Good Example in Bond Buying

Latest figures reveal that more than 800,000 federal workers here and in the field are putting 12 per cent of their gross pay into Bonds every payday. Bond buying is at the rate of $300,000,000 a year.

Rear Admiral Charles Conard, former Navy paymaster general and a veteran in government finance, who heads the federal government War Bond campaign at the direction of President Roosevelt, said this achievement is all the more remarkable because:

1—The average Government worker has had no pay increase because of the war.

2—Living costs have been increased, here particularly.

Approximately a million employes, outside of the War Department and the Postal Service, are the object of Admiral Conard's campaign. At the rate these employes are coming into the payroll savings plan Admiral Conard believes that by New Year's the number will reach far above the 90 per cent mark. The War Department is now shifting to the uniform payroll savings plan but the results will not be known for another month.

The Navy civilian personnel and the Treasury Department employes were among the first to go all out in 10 per cent drives. The Public Roads Administration, National Mediation Board, National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics, Federal Power Commission, Food and Drug Administration, Electric Home and Farm Authority, Federal Reserve Board, United States Tariff Commission and Public Works Administration are over the top also.

Payroll savings among government employes have risen steadily. There were 509,000 enrolled in August, 643,000 in September, 713,000 in October and 800,000 in November. Bond purchases have leaped from $14,000,000 a month during the summer to its present $25,000,000 a month level.

Admiral Conard's appeal has been triple-edged. He has asked government people to set the pace for people in private life; and he has told government people that it is wise to save in War Bonds to fight inflation; he has pointed out how bond buying helps the soldier, sailor and marine in the field.

As chairman of the Interdepartmental War Bond Committee which was set up by President Roosevelt last April he is in constant touch with every agency and has been able to iron out many wrinkles of the payroll savings plan for the benefit of both his own and private industrial campaigns.

He Merely Forgot

Coffeyville, Kas., Dec. 4 (AP) — Police records explain it this way: A man rushed into headquarters and said his wife had been riding in his truck and she must have fallen out—and would the police please help find her? The officers learned she'd climbed out to open a farm gate, and her husband had driven absent-mindedly on without her.

THE FREEMAN

A Christmas Carol

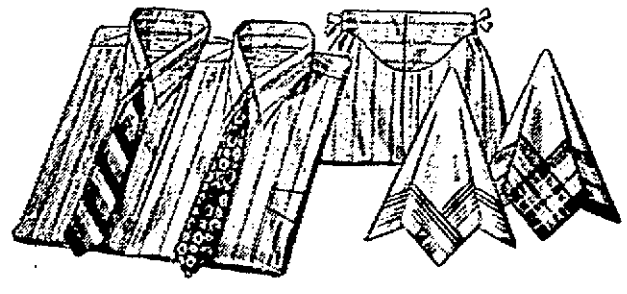

IN MODERN DRESS

Old Scrooge used to be a dreadful killjoy and skin-flint. But one night he had a vision of a shirt, a tie and a handkerchief. The shirt had the handsomest pattern and collar he'd ever seen. The tie harmonized so beautifully with the shirt that he thought he heard the angels singing. And the handkerchief chimed in smoothly. The vision announced itself as "Arrow Carol Tones."

Next day, Scrooge lost no time buying Arrow Carol Tones for himself, his nephew Fred, Tiny Tim, and everyone else he could think of. The shirts all had the Sanforized label, which meant they couldn't shrink out of fit. The ties knotted perfectly, and their patterns looked like £1,000,000. And the shorts were most comfortable. So, everyone was happy, and old Scrooge became the most popular man in town.

see much. He lay gasping for breath on the pontoon a few minutes, then managed to crawl onto the wing.

Lieutenant Perry taxied the plane forward and spotted another man. We repeated the procedure. He, too, grabbed my leg and managed to crawl onto the pontoon.

He was in bad shape from exhaustion, heat exposure and consumption of too much oil and salt water, but kept trying to tell me something through cracked lips. I put my ear close to his mouth and heard him mumble: "get my buddy over there—get my buddy over there."

He managed to raise on oil-covered arm to point to the right. I climbed on the wing and shouted to Perry but this sharp-eyed pilot already had seen the other man. We taxied to the spot and took aboard "Buddy."

Next, Perry taxied several hundred yards to four men in the water. Luckily they were spread out and we managed to get them onto the pontoon one by one. We now had seven men aboard. We managed to get two of the stronger men onto the wings where they spread out on both sides to distribute the weight.

We took aboard three more in the next hour—making a total of 10. Lieutenant Perry kept taxiing the plane toward a destroyer in the distance.

Five of the rescued men were too weak to get into the wing and remained on the Pontoon, holding onto the wires. One man at the stern of the Pontoon rolled off several times although he retained his hand grip. We rolled him back on the Pontoon each time.

All these men had been in the water from 10 to 15 hours and were off two sunken destroyers. All were wearing lifejackets. They made a grim sight with oil smeared thickly in hair, eyes and ears.

The only parts of the body not oil covered were the hands and bare feet which were bleached pure white and were tightly drawn and wrinkled from long underwater exposure. Most of them had on the full suits of sailors or wore dungarees, but no shoes. Others were just in underwear.

They were too weak to tell the story of the battle but I managed to get the names of some which I wrote on various parts of the fuselage, wing and pontoon. Several hours later, after landing, I examined the plane and found these names:

Francis Shaffer, Fort Smith, Ark.; Bob Brusco, Rainer, Ore.; Entry Porter, Greenville, N. C.; names but no address of R. D. Petit, G. S. Porter, C. E. Wright, L. L. Tudor, and M. J. Ziegler.

We finally neared the destroyer with all ten survivors still on the plane and alive. None seemed seriously injured except for some burns. The destroyer's whaleboat came near the plane. One by one the survivors pushed off into the water. They drifted a short distance and were picked up. They must have hated to hit that salt water again. All that could talk thanked us "for the lift." One yelled: "See you in Tokyo" before jumping from the wing.

One of our seaplane group, piloted by Lieut. (JG) George W. Polk, New York city, and formerly of the New York Herald-Tribune, was on the water at the time the message was received. His plane was dived on by a zero which dropped two small bombs 100 yards away and then started to strafe. Lieutenant Polk saw the zero grinning at the prospect of an easy kill of a seaplane but a moment later a Grumman zoomed up behind and exploded the zero from the sky. Polk reached safely.

Life is like that in the Solomons.

Women Are Now Invading Chemical Process Industry

St. Louis, Dec. 4 (APS)—Women have invaded another of the American male's few remaining labor sanctuaries — the chemical process industry.

No haphazard experiment, the invasion was preceded by months of research by one of the largest chemical firms in the nation.

Furthermore, the newcomers are taking up work far removed from the mechanical mass production jobs at which women have been proved so competent. They'll be plant engineers, draftsmen, control board and filter plant operators and other workers who must make decisions.

It's figured that eventually 30 per cent of the personnel of production, maintenance and laboratory divisions of U. S. chemical plants will be women. That's a tremendous turnover, since the chemical process industry operates with a minimum of personnel and a maximum of capital investment.

For instance, there's a new synthetic rubber plant which cost millions of dollars and will need only a corporal's guard of operators.

More than nine months ago, the Monsanto Chemical Company, foreseeing a manpower shortage by late this year or early in 1943, began exploring the possibilities of the use of women.

Through Mrs. Loretty Moushey, assistant director of Monsanto's industrial relations section, its exploration was exhaustive, extending even to feminine psychology in employment.

It was a pet theory of one of the oldest designing engineers in the Monsanto system, for instance, that young women art students, without engineering knowledge, could be made into plant draftsmen. In less than four months he proved his point. A group of such students who once did a neat job on a petunia now are drawing intricate plans, blueprints and maps—and they love it.

In one giant Monsanto plant eight women in shifts of two soon will care for a water filtering plant capable of turning out processed water sufficient for a community of 20,000 persons. Each morning, one of the young women will climb 75 feet up a flat ladder outside a tank to take a gauge reading.

Mrs. Moushey studied feminine morale and its relationship to attire in many other industries which for years had hired women in production divisions.

Mrs. Moushey, a personable young woman who knowns a thing or two about dress, decided that the one-piece slack suit adopted by many war plants, wouldn't do for Monsanto girls. So she designed a two-piece slack costume with flared lines which toned down bulky hip curves and included all approved safety measures, even to steel safety toes in dressy walking oxfords.

And, while her preparations did not include beauty shops and other such ideas, Mrs. Moushey did study the effect of certain production jobs on the complexion and hands and made complete provisions for the women's comfort.

So attractive are the Monsanto uniforms that Miss Margaret A. Hickey, women's advisor to the War Manpower Commission in Washington, rates the company with the WAACS and WAVES in ability to obtain comely, efficient girls.

The Monsanto program is serving as a model for several other nationally known firms. Other chemical and allied industries have permission to use the plans and uniforms.

Even steel companies — facing the probable shortage of manpower—have sought drafts of the Monsanto program.

Formal Period Room Deserves Christmas Gift

Selection of New Furniture Varied

Escape Standardized Design of the English Styles

Fortunate indeed are Americans this Christmas, when compared with those families in Britain who must be content with "utility" home equipment of the most economical sort. Two easy chairs will be considered sufficient for an average English family, although if there's a child over 14 years of age living in the home, a smaller "fireside" chair can be bought.

Inasmuch as furniture manufacturers in the United States have been producing at top speed for an extended period of time, and because the fancy figured woods best liked for furniture are not suited to war needs, the supply of merchandise in the stores here this year is greater than it is in many other items.

Most of the furniture to be made in Britain will be of so-called "hardboard," made of pressed paper and wood pulp. The bulk of this furniture is unpainted, though some is stained to look like real wood. Living and dining rooms are being combined. Crockery pots, and pans also will be of strictly utilitarian design. Cups will be made in the Chinese style without handles to save labor, time and material.

The American standard of living which has so long been the envy of the world has been well maintained up to now. Automatic refrigeration and many other appliances are no longer available, but most other home goods are plentiful at present.

Those who invest in a bedroom or dining room suite spend their money for goods of permanent value. Production and sale of them has provided a livelihood for merchant and manufacturer whose taxes help carry the war load.

Hospitality Theme of Home for Christmas

It's hospitality time in more than 30 million American homes. The period from Thanksgiving to the New Year has long constituted the season for welcoming friends into the home; for family gatherings; for intimate parties.

The weeks ahead will see more of this than ever, but the fun will be subdued and the comradeship will be more spiritual, now that almost every home and family has loved ones fighting for freedom.

In consequence the Christmas gift of 1942 will be more substantial and less transient in nature. It is likely that more dining room suites and ensembles will be purchased this year than in most years. Since we're spending more time in the home, we want a "family board" which does the family justice.

Gift for Home Best Gift for Mothers

Furniture Furnishes Her Heart's Desire, Your Perfect Tribute

A gift for mother? So puzzling because you know her so well? It need not be, for remember, that mother's heart beats strongest for the home, the gathering place, the haven, for her family.

And what goes to make the home a more attractive, a more inviting place, is the gift of the holiday for mother.

Yet big as is her heart and much as she wants to share with the other, the intimate gift that will touch her closely, is the one that helps her enjoy her role in the home. So, first, ask yourself if she has a comfortable chair in which to relax in the living room. Get her one, styled to suit her tastes, whether Queen Anne or channel back style.

Look to her bedroom, her haven of rest. Does she have a chaise lounge or a slipper chair to sit in while she puts on her shoes. These come in inexpensive brackets.

Is she busy with Red Cross sewing or knitting? Then get her a sewing cabinet, with roomy drawers, to match the rest of her furniture. For having her friends in she might like a permanent card table set, with attractive folding chairs.

Monogrammed linen and towels are lovely gifts for a discriminating mother. Fittings for the closet will please her. Think of home when you think of mother and selecting a gift for her for as little as a dollar, as much as you can afford to spend, will be easy.

Remember, mother's heart is in the home.

A SLIGHT DIFFERENCE

Pueblo, Colo. (AP) — A grade teacher sent out her boys to bring in some scrap after a man called and said he had an old bed to donate to the collection. Hours later the seventh grade students came back lugging piles of corrugated iron. "It wasn't a bed; it was a shed he wanted to donate," they explained.

When it was officially announced in German-occupied Estonia that the 1941-42 woodcutting campaign had produced only one-third of the winter's fuel requirements there was much public dissatisfaction, it being rumored that much of the wood was used for other purposes.

Cooper accidentally discovered unanswered in the general offices of the Associated Press in September, 1914. That fateful document was from the great Argentine newspaper, La Nacion, of Buenos Aires, asking for the text of German communiques and all official news concerning World War I.

Call From Continent

Cooper, then chief of the traffic department, saw here a call from a continent in which the Associated Press never had served any newspaper. He went to the then General Manager, Melville E. Stone, and offered to handle it, only to learn that the Associated Press could not serve La Nacion.

His query, "But Why?" brought from Stone an explanation that shocked him, but made him more interested, more determined.

"There had been crusades before—there could be another one," he wrote.

When La Nacion's cablegram was turned over to Havas it declined to make the German war reports available to South American on the ground that they came from an enemy nation.

"We are French; We cannot do it," they told Stone.

"As the French Havas agency owned the news right to South America," Cooper wrote, "the whole continent was treated as a French vassal state in a news way. And as it kept an enemy communique from being read in South America, it could install French flavor in all the Havas news that was read in that continent. All South America could be blanked out on anything not Pro-French—the only entire continent that could be treated thus by any single news agency."

When he learned of this situation, Cooper felt that the Associated Press by its contract was a party to this suppression of legitimate news in many countries, and that it was not defensible to continue a contract guaranteeing any agency a monopoly of a nation outside its own territory, or even in its home territory, if by so doing it kept the people of that nation in the dark.

"Out of this conviction came my idea that the Associated Press news standards should prevail everywhere," he wrote. "Later I realized this would be impossible unless access at the source to the news of all nations would be denied to no one."

The twenty-year struggle to make news available at its source to everyone and to permit the Associated Press to tell the news of the world in its own way and without influence by governments ended successfully on February 12, 1934, when Sir Roderick Jones, head of Reuters, signed an agreement with Cooper in New York. The head of Reuters did not do this, however, until after he had tried unsuccessfully to interest the United Press in taking the place in the combine which the Associated Press had of its own volition decided to vacate.

"To The Associated Press," Cooper says, "I give credit for the creation of what has turned out to be the finest moral concept ever developed in America and given the world. That concept is that news must be truthful and unbiased."

The book discloses the interest in the movement started by Cooper by leaders of American Journalism, including Frank B. Noyes of The Washington Star, the late Adolph S. Ochs of The New York Times, William Randolph Hearst of the Hearst newspapers and owner of the International News Service, Roy Howard of the Scripps-Howard newspapers and once president of the United Press, the late V. S. McClatchy of the Sacramento Bee, Colonel Robert R. McCormick of The Chicago Tribune, and Oswald Garrison Villard, formerly publisher of The New York Post and once a member of the Board of Directors of The Associated Press.

New York Traffic Deaths Show Decrease

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—New York traffic deaths dropped 17.3 per cent and injuries nine and eight-tenths per cent the first 10 months of this year compared to the same 1941 period, chiefly due to reduced traffic mileage.

The State Motor Vehicle Bureau reported a decline of 37.5 per cent in October traffic fatalities under the same month last year. In fact, there were fewer deaths and injuries during the month than in any October on record.

The 10-month totals, followed by 1941 figures for the same period are: Accidents, 56,711 and 60,529; deaths, 1,717 and 2,075; injuries, 72,497 and 80,374.

During October 172 persons were killed and 6,527 injured in 5,314 accidents, while in October, 1941, there were 275 killed and 9,349 injured in 7,210 accidents.

For the month fatal accidents due to speeding showed the greatest drop over the previous October—57 per cent. Open country fatalities declined 51 per cent and daylight crash deaths 50 per cent. Pedestrial fatalities dropped 14 per cent, from 144 to 124, and pedestrial injuries declined 20 per cent, from 3,095 to 2,470.

Meanwhile, the number of taxicaps involved in crashes rose from 426 to 476, or 11.7 per cent.

Always Full Staff First

Do we raise the flag to half-staff when a President dies? If your answer is "yes" you're wrong. You never "raise" the American flag to only half-staff. If the emblem is not already flying you run it all the way up and then lower it.

Court Rules Pay Law Is Valid

Guaranteed Weekly Wage Is Upheld by State Court of Appeals

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—The "guaranteed weekly wage" provision of New York's minimum wage law for persons employed less than a week is constitutional, the Court of Appeals rules.

In another ruling yesterday, the court declared the right of civil service workers in military service to full differential pay without deduction of subsistence allowances.

A department of labor order directing the Army Lincoln Candies, Inc., to comply with a three-day weekly wage order issued for the confectionery industry was approved by the court. The order requires a minimum of $10 weekly during the busy season and $7 in the slack season for women employes.

The court ruled civil service workers in the armed forces must be granted full differential between their military and previous civilian pay, without deduction of federal maintenance allowances. The decision was in a suit brought by Dr. Marcus D. Kogel, former medical superintendent of the Queen's General Hospital.

Pearl Harbor Program

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 4 (AP)—New York schools will participate actively in the observance of Pearl Harbor Day Monday, anniversary of the Japanese attack on the Pacific outpost. Dr. George E. Stoddard, commissioner of education, said today the office of war information is urging schools and colleges to commemorate the event with a slogan of "Remember Pearl Harbor—Work, Fight, Sacrifice!" Dramatization of that theme is planned in schools, headed, as "a form of sober stock-taking."

The land route from Dakar to the Mediterranean is nearly 3,000 miles in length.
